WOMEN IN MISSION WORK

Summer School Opens at Winona Tomorrow—Missionary Work in U. S. Island Possessions.

Some of the most active mission workers of the Middle West will be here this week as leaders and students in the Summer School of Missions which is under the direction of an interdenominational committee of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions. This board doubtless keeps in closer touch with the missionary work of the world than any other organization. It provides a uniform method of studying missionary work among the church societies of the land and the board is always on the hunt for young women to go into the unenlightened corners of the earth to work in the Christian cause.

Women from a number of states will begin arriving here in numbers this morning for the opening of the summer school tomorrow and they will hold morning and afternoon sessions, with addresses each evening through Friday, June 29. This will mark the beginning of an extraordinary season of summer school work.

Miss Caroline B. Sharp, of Chicago, is chairman of the interdenominational committee and the other officers, all of Chicago, are: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. F. Stephens; recording secretary, Miss Flora Starr; treasurer, Mrs. H. E. Goodman. Seven church denominations are represented on the committee, as follows: Presbyterian, Miss Sharp, Miss Anna B. Lawrence, Mrs. D. B. Wells, all of Chicago; Baptist, Miss Carrie E. Perrine and Mrs. H. E. Goodman, of Chicago; Miss Edith Holston, Milwaukee; Christian, Mrs. E. M. Bowman, Chicago; Mrs. Anna R. Atwater and Mrs. Helen E. Moses, Indianapolis. Congregational, Miss M. D. Wingate, Miss Flora Starr, Miss Ella F. Beebe, Chicago; Mrs. S. E. Hurlburt, Evanston, Ill. Methodist, Mrs. F. P. Crandon and Mrs. Stephen J. Herben, Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. C. E. Piper, Berwyn, Ill. Evangelical Lutheran, Mrs. Anna S. Doonblaser, Chicago; Mrs. W. G. Grothenheus, Rogers Park, Ill. Cumberland Presbyterian, Mrs. Dee F. Clarke and Mrs. W. J. Darby, Evansville; Mrs. A. F. Stevens, Chicago. Friends, Mrs. Howell Waddle, Indianapolis.

On each day of the school session Mrs. W. A. Montgomery, of Rochester, N. Y., will for an hour direct the students in the study of "Christus Redemptor, the Island World." Mrs. Montgomery is the author of this book, which missionary societies will give attention next winter. It relates to what has and what should be done toward advancing the cause of Christianity in the island possessions of the United States.

On the opening morning of the school one of the speakers will be Mrs. D. B. Wells, formerly of Fort Wayne, who will speak on "An Enlarged Missionary Bible; Studies for Missionary Devotional Services." Mrs. S. J. Herben will also speak on "Methods of Work." Mrs. K. R. Shaffer, of Delaware, Ohio, will lead the round table in the afternoon, and Dr. Anna K. Scott, a Baptist missionary to China, will speak at night on "China."

missionary work in distant parts of the world, are in this country on leave of absence. All of these are brilliant story tellers to whom the workers in the school will listen with interest.

WESTERN GIRLS AT WINONA.

College Students are Arranging to Let the Public Into Their Fun.

A number of colleges and universities of the country are already represented at Winona Lake by young men and women, and the school spirit is on keen edge among all of them. Perhaps the largest number of students from any one of the educational institutions is from the Western College for Women, at Oxford, Ohio, of which Lilian Wyckoff Johnson is president. For several years this college has

WORK ON NEW BUILDING

Red Walls Rising for Presbyterian Structure—Will Be Used for Academy and Hotel.

Presbyterian stockholders who are well scattered over the United States are erecting a pretentious structure at Winona Lake which is to be known as the Presbyterian building. The foundation work of cement is completed and the walls of colonial red brick are up a few feet, while heaps of lumber are stacked about the site. The work on the structure is being pushed as rapidly as possible and the intention is to have it completed by next Thanksgiving. The cornerstone was placed in position on May 5, 1905. The association which is erecting the building has been careful to get the stock in the hands of small investors, a requirement being that each be a Presbyterian. The plan of the building is almost in the form of a letter E and it is intended for both school and hotel purposes. The new Winona Academy will move into it as soon as completed and occupy it for nine months in the year. During the summer months it will be utilized for hotel purposes. It will contain eight large recitation rooms and a chapel 70 by 40 feet, which will seat at least 400 people. It will also have a large lobby and office rooms, which are to be adapted to the needs of a hotel. It will contain over 100 rooms, many of them with bath, each being an outside room. There is a cement basement under the entire building, which will be equipped with a gymnasium, and spray and shower baths. The dining-room will seat 200.

The building has an outside wall line of 800 feet, or over an eighth of a mile in length. It will be three stories high and nearly 1,000,000 brick will be used in its construction.

The Presbyterian building has one of the most commanding sites on the shores of Winona Lake. It is within a stone's throw of Mount Memorial building, on the high ground back of the auditorium. From its upper stories the windows will look upon a beautiful panoramic view of practically the whole lake.

The stockholders are prepared to spend about $70,000 on the building. Only $6,000 or $7,000 worth of stock remains unsold.

The Presbyterian building is in a

A JUNE DAY ON WINONA LAKE.

Miss A. E. McCauley, a Presbyterian of Bridgewater, S. D., will speak on the morning of June 28, on "Gifts, Legacies, Annuities." Mrs. S. E. Hurlburt will discuss one of the most important questions with which mission workers have to deal, "The Best Methods of Raising Money in Women's Societies." The discussion of these topics will be led by Mrs. R. H. Pooley, a Chicago Methodist. Mrs. Moses Smith, a Chicago Congregationalist, will be the speaker in the evening.

"Methods of Work Among Children" will be a general topic on the closing day, the speakers being Mrs. Andrew McLeish, a Chicago Baptist; Mrs. Olive Cady, a Methodist missionary to China; Mrs. G. P. Baity, Kansas City; Miss Emma C. Koehler, Chicago.

The school term will also be a time for the gathering of a generous number of young women who, after mis-been well represented by young people at Winona Lake. The congenial spirit that exists among the girls at school is in evidence at the lake.

This year the girls have planned to give a number of parties and picnics. Two lawn fetes are being arranged, to which the public will be invited. Many uncommon amusements are being mapped out for these events. The proceeds will be given toward the $250,000 endowment fund now being raised by the college.

The Western girls at Winona Lake are: Martha and Helen Hackett, of Fort Wayne; Mae, Bess and Edith Burhans, Lowell, Ind.; Estella May, Vandalia, Ill.; Gertrude Hill, Liberty; Alice Hayward, Winona Lake; Edith Fulton, Canton, China; Myrtle McCubbins, North Carolina; Laura Wilson, Jackson, Ind.; Grace Lefever and Lulu Helpman, Warsaw.

district of Winona Park that is building up rapidly. Several new cottages have been completed there within recent months and in the last few years there has been a substantial increase in the price of real estate in this locality.

Not far from the Presbyterian building Township Trustee Harry Kelly is preparing to erect a $20,000 school house in which district graded schools will be conducted and in which high school instruction for several townships of Kosciusko county will be given. This building is to be modern in every way and with its departments in operation will show the progressiveness of the country school system of the county. The school house is to be completed next September.

GIFT FOR DR. H. W. JOHNSON.

Winona Director Presented With
$1,500 by Congregation.

While Dr. H. W. Johnson was attending a Winona directors' meeting a few days ago, he displayed a choice bit of paper in the form of a bank check for $1,500. It was on a South Bend bank and had the signature of Treasurer Underwood, of Dr. Johnson's church in South Bend. The check was a gift from the congregation of the First Presbyterian church and the occasion was the seventeenth anniversary of Dr. Johnson's pastorate there. The congregation directed Mr. Johnson to use the money for a three months' trip to Europe, but he will probably not go abroad until next winter. During the seventeen years he has been in the South Bend pulpit he has received many calls from other cities, but has declined them. It is probable that he will spend his entire ministerial life at this church. John M. Studebaker, another Winona director, is a member of Dr. Johnson's congregation.

Winona in Song.

"Winona" is the title of a song which has been published, the words being by Charles E. Banks, a Chicago newspaper man, and the music by Elizabeth Patterson Sawyers, of Depauw University, at Greencastle. One of the verses follows:

"Thy voice so gentle, sweet and low,
Winona, Winona,
Still follows me where'er I go,
Winona, Winona;
And as true lovers parted do,
When some old song they listen to,
I'm ever turning to you,
Winona, Winona."

New Academy Instructor.

Prof. K. L. Morse, of Dean Academy, Franklin, Mass., has been chosen for the chair of Latin and Greek of the Winona Academy. He is an alumnus of Dartmouth College, receiving his A. B. degree in 1902 and A. M. in 1903. He was highly recommended to the authorities of the Winona Academy.

WINONA SUMMER SCHOOLS.

Two of the Department Heads Are Ready to Begin Work.

Although the Winona Summer Schools do not open until July 9, some of the instructors are at the park ready to take up their work. J. W. Vandeventer, who is to have charge of the school of photography, is here, and, although this will be a new department of the summer school, he thinks that it will be attended by a generous number of amateurs. Winona park offers unusual opportunities to owners of large or small cameras, and those who follow photography for a pastime will find the lake, the park and the woods rich in "material." Mr. Vandeventer will conduct his school in the Daguerre building, which is well equipped with skylights and work rooms, and he intends to make an exhibit of student work one of the features. All phases of photography will be taught.

W. C. Smith, director of Winona Technical Institute, at Indianapolis, and family, are here for the summer, Mr. Smith being at the head of the school of manual training, another new department. This will be largely for school teachers who are in need of instruction as to how to develop courses of this kind of training.

The summer schools have been thoroughly reorganized for this season. The term will continue through six weeks. Eight new departments have been established, making about twenty-five in all, and a corps of about fifty instructors will direct the work of the students. C. M. McDaniel, at the head of the city schools of Hammond, is principal of the Winona Summer Schools, and Mrs. Eliza Blaker, of Indianapolis, is associate principal. Many of the teachers are from the colleges and high schools of Indiana, and it is thought that the whole corps is much stronger than in any year since the summer schools began at the lake. The attendance during the approaching season will, it is thought, be far beyond that of any other year.

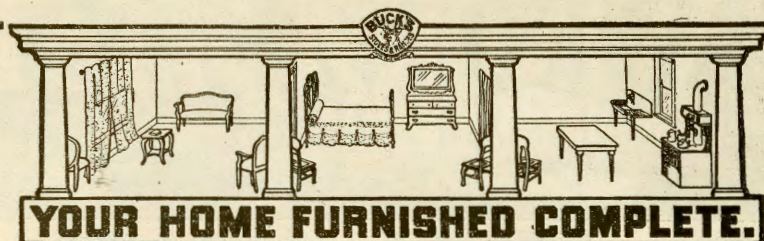

HIGHLY COMPLIMENTARY.

Editor J. B. Stoll, of South Bend,
Tersely Talks of the Beauties of Winona Lake.

After visiting Winona during the stay of the National Editorial excursion party, Hon. J. B. Stoll, of the South Bend Times, gives his opinion in two editorials as follows:

"Winona—Beautiful Winona! If there is a lovelier spot anywhere in this part of the world, by all means let it be named."

"What's the use of going hundreds of miles in search of a spot where to spend a few days, or weeks or months, in invigorating and delightful recuperation, when there is within easy reach such a place as Winona, 51 miles from South Bend?"

SCHOOL OF TEMPERANCE

New Department of Winona Work to Be in Session in July.

One of the new departments of summer school work at Winona Lake this year will be a training school for temperance workers, which is to be conducted by the Anti-Saloon League of Indiana. It will be the first school of its kind in this country, and its sessions will be from July 16 to 20, inclusive. The school is for the instruction of workers as to the best methods for the overthrow of the saloon in the local community. There are many wards and townships in Indiana that would banish their saloons if instruction could be given the people as to the methods of procedure, together the liquor traffic. It does the 'possible good' while pressing on to what is yet the 'impossible best.' It has no permissive feature in its creed. It stands for the prohibition of every foot of territory that existing public sentiment will capture and keep. To this end it bolts conventions, puts principle above party, and absolutely refuses to quarrel with any individual or agent that hates the liquor traffic."

To accomplish this purpose four departments of work have been originated: 1. Agitation. To create, strengthen and maintain a righteous public sentiment against the saloon, which is an all-important factor in the solution of the problem. 2. Legislation. To enact this sentiment into law that the will of the people may find expression. 3. Law Enforcement. To demonstrate the value of laws already obtained and thus prepare the way for the next advance. 4. Total Absti-

Rev. John F. Lewis, attorney, and Rev. Ulysses G. Humphrey, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, will also be present to give instructions as to the best methods for work in the State of Indiana.

It is hoped that the school will reach people from many States, but it is desired to make it especially helpful for the people of Indiana. Every township and city in the State ought to have representatives present and it is hoped that every church in the State will send at least one delegate.

with the proper leadership. Ninety per cent of the failures with which temperance people meet, under present Indiana laws, are due to a lack of information. These things being true, the importance of a training school for workers cannot be overstated.

Heretofore temperance work has consisted mainly of agitation with pledging to total abstinence as its principal object. Only in recent years has there been an attempt to unite the forces opposed to the saloon in a mighty movement having for its ultimate aim the entire overthrow of the beverage liquor traffic. The various religious denominations, together with several temperance organizations, have been federated in the name of the church and the result is the Anti-Saloon League of America. The general superintendent of this league, Dr. P. A. Baker, says: "The object of the League is the ultimate extinction of nence. The "moral suasion arm" of the movement, thus completing the means of grappling with the whole problem.

The training School will be conducted along lines suggested by the above named departments of work. There will be three sessions daily, morning, afternoon and evening. The day services will be in the nature of conferences and general discussions led and conducted by the instructor assigned to the topic. The evening services will take the form of popular lectures. The instructors will be Rev. P. A. Baker, D.D., general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America; and his assistant, Rev. George W. Young, D.D., who is known as the "ecclesiastical Henry Clay" of Kentucky. Drs. Baker and Young have a nationwide reputation and will give not only information, but the methods that have been most successful elsewhere.

Test of Public Honesty.

The honesty of some of the park visitors has been tested and found wanting at Studebaker spring in recent years. It had its beginning when drinking cups of tin were first placed at this fountain of clear cold water. When these cups were missing, tins with nails holes in the bottom were put in use, and they, too, disappeared. John M. Studebaker, who improved the spring until it is a thing of beauty, is testing his faith in the thirsty public in a new way this season. Two new cups of a heavy quality of metal have been placed at the spring and on each one, in neatly engraved old English letters are the words "Be Honest." The two cups may prove a greater temptation to persons who have the "cup taking" habit than the tins formerly were. But this has been guarded against by fastening the new ones to the wall with long steel chains.

CRIMES AGAINST THE PUBLIC.

Governor Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, who speaks at Winona Lake next week, has some ideas concerning the duty of prosecutors to ferret out crimes. In speaking of this matter in connection with a controversy that has engaged himself and William Travers Jerome, of New York city, Governor Folk, who was in Indianapolis Thursday evening as the guest of Governor Hanly, who also comes to Winona for "Civic Week," said:

"I do not know the local conditions in Indiana, and even if I did, it would not be proper for me to comment upon them. Broadly speaking, however, it is the duty of the prosecutor to prosecute for law violations where he has the evidence. If he has not the evidence, and it can be obtained, it is the duty of the prosecutor to hunt for the evidence. In common crimes, such as robbery, the person robbed generally makes it his business to bring the facts to the prosecutor and start the machinery of justice. In what are known as crimes against the public, however, such as peculations by public officials or bribery, there is usually no one to make the facts known. In the case of bribery every one is concerned with concealing the facts. Unless the prosecutor investigates aggressively every report of corruption, official venality can rarely be uncovered, and the practical effect is to give immunity to this class of crime.

"Public officials do not have to embezzle money in order to be dishonest. There is an embezzlement of power as well as an embezzlement of money. The people confer upon the prosecutors certain powers, which he should exercise for the public good. If he fails or declines to enforce the law without cause, he is the embezzler of the power conferred upon him by the people."

HOW THE "LEAKS" GREW.

Story of Congressman Grosvenor's Efforts to Help a Friend.

Congressman Grosvenor, of Ohio, who will meet Congressman Champ Clark, of Missouri, in a debate on the ship subsidy question at the Winona auditorium next week, has long been a figure in public life and many stories of his experiences are told.

Some years ago Gen. Grosvenor was a member of the committee on rivers and harbors of the house, and this story is told of how he accommodated a newspaper friend. In those days there was a stronger pressure than at present among the correspondents to get the advance items in the river and harbor bill, so that every man who had a friend on the committee was expected to "lay down" on him and get the different items. The year of which this story is told the committee as usual tied itself up and agreed that it would not make any features public until the bill was reported to the house. But as usual some members "leaked."

A man from the far west procured the Pacific coast items and one or two other large items, enough to make it appear that the bill was getting out. These items were turned over to a man who knew Gen. Grosvenor well and the battle began. The general did not want to "give up," but the newspaper man was persistent, pointing out how nearly every other man of the committee had "taken care of his friends," and that it was not right for the general to allow his friends to get left. The outcome was that the young man got his items in the bill and enough to help out all his friends who were in the plot.

The next morning there was a stormy meeting in the committee on rivers and harbors. Gen. Grosvenor opened the ball with a denunciation of those who made such a pretense of secrecy and yet gave out everything pertaining to their sections. He said that the main features of the bill, as well as whole sections, had been made public, and he knew they were accurate because the newspaper men had shown him the figures.

The committee had seldom received such a lecture as Gen. Grosvenor gave them, and a few who had been guilty of "tipping off" a few items to friends regretted that they were not as faithful and virtuous as the Ohio representative. They resolved to follow in his footsteps in the future, and many of them did so. Whenever there is trouble over a "leak" in the committee every member now tries to get his indignant protest in first. Gen. Grosvenor will be missed by the newspaper men as well as by his colleagues for he was a good "news" man.

FALL OF BIRD AND BEE MAN.

Colonel Isaac W. Brown Tripped on a Bad Sidewalk in Rochester.

While making morning calls on friends in Rochester Col. I. W. Brown, Indiana's "bird and bee man," tripped on a broken sidewalk, fell heavily to the street and severely bruised his right cheek, skinned his nose, knocked one tooth loose and otherwise injured himself. Ernest Clinger helped the injured man to his home and assisted in dressing his wounds. No serious injury will result from the fall, it is said, barring the fact that the Colonel's handsome "phiz" is disfigured slightly, and he will be as good as new in a day or two.

THE EDITORS IN AUGUST

Entertainment Planned for the Four Associations of Indiana—Wives and Children to Participate.

The management of Winona Assembly is arranging for what they believe will be the greatest meeting in point of attendance that was ever held by the newspaper owners and editors of Indiana. All the organizations—the Indiana Republican, The Indiana Democratic, the Northern Indiana and the Southern Indiana Editorial Associations—have voted to put by the thought of delinquent subscribers and other journalistic worries, and join in a week in the big outdoors on the shores of Winona lake. The affair is to be held the week of August 6, a time when all the followers of journalism in Indiana can best leave their work. Editors of the larger daily newspapers and the editors of the pompous and struggling weekly publications are sending word that they will put by all political differences, the editors of the Democratic newspapers agree to eat and sleep with Republican editors, and all will meet on common ground for a week, just to prove that molders of political and public opinion can get along together without a fist fight.

The whole summer resort on the shores of this attractive lake is to be turned over to the editors as a playground—golf links, bass fishing grounds, woods, and all go into their hands, with every facility for having a royal time. It is expected that 700 editors will be here, and the Winona management is inviting them to bring their wives and children.

The Indianapolis News is going to be a chief factor in the entertainment of the brain-fagged writers of Indiana newspapers who are coming here to rest and play before the warfare which is expected to mark the political campaign of the autumn. The Indianapolis News' Newsboys' Band is to give afternoon and night programs, and Harry Porter, also of the News, is coming with a store of songs, monologues and recitations. Congressman Charles B. Landis is to be one of the speakers and John B. Stoll, of the South Bend Times, is to be another. The Assembly is arranging for an airship, and for motor boat races. The editors who seek something heavier in a mental way will find it in the lectures on buried cities of the Holy Land, by Dr. R. W. Rogers, of Drew Theological Seminary; Prof. J. W. Crooks, of Amherst College, will speak on "Population and Food Supply. With Some Suggestions on Race Suicide," and also on "Bulls and Bears, or Speculation in Wall Street." Opie Reid is to read some of his short stories. J. Dewitt Miller, one of the brilliant men of the American platform, is to lecture. One day of the editorial week will be taken up with a national choral contest, on the order of a German Saengerfest or a Welsh Eisteddfod, in which Winona Assembly will award $1,000 in prizes. The week is to close with an address by Booker T. Washington.

VISCOUNT AOKI.

Career of Japan's First Ambassador to the United States.

Viscount Siuzo Aoki, first ambassador of Japan to the United States, who was officially received by President Roosevelt a short time ago, is a figure of especial interest for several reasons. In view of the warm friendship existing between Japan and the United States and the admiration felt in this country for the way in which the Japanese conducted their campaign in the war against Russia any one representing them at Washington would be received with sincere cordiality. But in the cabinet, Viscount Aoki ranks close ambassador to the American republic the mikado selected one of his most valued subjects and a man who at the first vacancy will, it is said, be admitted to that powerful circle of advisers of his majesty known as "the elder statesmen." Among these counselors are such men as the Marquis Ito, Field Marshals Yamagata and Oyama and Counts Matsukata and Inouye, and, though they have no definite standing in the government of the realm, they are more powerful than the cabinet. Viscount Aoki ranks close up with these men and is reputed to be the most prominent man in the northern half of the island of Nippon. The viscount is also a character of unusual interest from the fact that he is the first Asiatic diplomat to introduce a European wife to the ambassadorial circles of Washington, for the Viscountess Aoki is a German and a baroness in her own right. She was Fraulein von Rad-Funkhazen, a member of one of the most aristocratic families of Germany, and at the time she married the viscount was the Baroness von Rahden, widow of a German cavalry officer. The new ambassador is sixty-one years of age and has been twice minister of foreign affairs of his country and twice minister to Germany, where he studied as a boy.

Patriotism and Song.

Many of the patriotic societies throughout the country are endeavoring to inculcate patriotism in the young by the singing of national songs in the public schools. In some of the great cities the authorities require high school pupils to repeat from memory several of our patriotic songs, like "America," "Hail Columbia" and the "Star Spangled Banner." Few would believe it until it was proved how many intelligent and loyal grownups there are who cannot sing through the national songs, which should be on the lips of every boy and girl. During the Spanish-American war a certain American diplomatic representative abroad, who was entertaining some of his countrymen, with foreign guests, requested the Americans present to sing the "Star Spangled Banner." All started with spirit and labored through the first verse. Then the affair lagged, and only two or three voices were heard at the end.

The schools are the places to begin the teaching of patriotic sentiments, and both songs and recitations may be used to that end. A singing pupil will naturally learn his song. Those who do not sing can at least commit the lines to memory. Memorizing is valuable exercise for the youth. The nobler the sentiment the better, and every one of our national songs takes hold. Some of them are not models of literary finish, hence may not be included in masterpieces for close study. If a special occasion is made for them the lessons taught will sink all the deeper. Patriotism stirs the blood, and a half hour devoted to this special exercise will be a welcome change after the grind of the three R's, parsing and the boundaries of unheard of lands.

Where Christianity Began.

The hills of Bethlehem are full of caves, natural and artificial, and many of them have historic significance. There is the milk grotto, in which Joseph and Mary are said to have concealed themselves before their flight into Egypt to escape the evil designs of Herod. The snowy whiteness of the soft chalk out of which it is hewn is ascribed to the spilling of a few drops of the Virgin's milk when she nursed the infant Jesus. Another grotto is pointed out as that in which St. Jerome for more than thirty years led the life of a hermit when bitter factional dissensions had forced him to leave Rome. On a western hill a rock strewn plateau, around which stately terebinths stand guard, marks a place where the ancient Hebrews brought their sacrifices unto the Lord. It is a solemn place, well fitted to excite devout thoughts—a place where a man might well keep communion with his Maker. In its broader features Bethlehem is almost unchanged since the days of David.—Four Track News.

CONFERENCE OF FARMERS

Meeting of Kosciusko County Agriculturalists and Editors Called by Winona Institute.

With a view to making it a school for farmers in fact as well as in name, the Winona Agricultural Institute is thoroughly reorganizing its forces and eliminating all instruction of an academic character. It is proposed to make of it the only school in the state exclusively for tillers of the soil and breeders of live stock, and all branches of farm management, including floriculture and horticulture and dairying, will be taught from practical and scientific standpoints. With these ends in view, and in the effort to obtain the ideas of farmers on what young men need in the way of practical instruction, thirty of the successful farmers and editors of newspapers in Kosciusko county have been invited to meet in conference with the faculty of the institute on June 29, when a number of questions will be discussed.

It is the purpose of the institute authorities to help in every possible way the further development of Kosciusko county lands, a region once abounding in marshes and swamps, and which now contains about forty lakes. Later on it is the intention of the men at the head of the institute's affairs to confer with the best informed farmers of Indiana with a view to interesting the various state associations in the work of the institution. C. J. Buchanan, a live stock man, of Indianapolis, and J. G. Kingsbury, editor of the Indiana Farmer, are two of the trustees of the institute. The principal is J. C. Breckenridge, who has about completed his teaching force for next year.

WILL LIVE IN TENTS.

Students at Biological Station Will Have Fine Summer.

Prof. Carl Eigenmann, who for years has had charge of Indiana University's Biological Station near Kosciusko Lodge, is at Winona Lake and ready to begin his summer's work. The two buildings which the station occupies have been painted white and renovated, and await the coming of the students. About fifty young men and women will be at the station during the season studying fish, bird, insect and plant life about the lake. This is quite an increase over the number here last year.

A number of the students will live in tents, which will be pitched in the woods near the station. The tents are to be commodious and a party of young women will occupy one of them. Some of the young women will also operate club cottages. Prof. Eigenmann has planned to work out a number of new ideas during July and August. A hive of honey bees has arrived at the station. They will be turned into the flowers about the lake and will store their honey in glass cases that the students may watch them at their work.

FAIL TO GET TOGETHER.

Small Attendance at Meeting of Northern Indiana Editorial Association.

Of the annual meeting of the Northern Indiana Editorial Association, scheduled for Winona Lake, for Thursday, June 21, it can be said that not a very great number of editors "got together" to enjoy the annual session and the pleasures and amusements offered the newspaper men by the Winona management.

The officers, including President H. A. Barnhart, of the Rochester Sentinel; Recording Secretary Editor Conlogue, of the Kendallville Sun; and Corresponding Secretary Mel R. Williams, of "The Times," were on hands, along with Editor E. A. K. Hackett, of the Fort Wayne Sentinel and Editor Smith, of the Mentone Gazette. Others arrived during the afternoon and lost themselves somewhere upon the park grounds. These were Brothers Metsker, of the Plymouth Democrat; Joseph A. Beane, of the Goshen Democrat; W. K. Sheffler, of the Angola Herald.

The small attendance is accounted for from the fact that all the five editorial associations of Indiana will meet at Winona in August, and as the many of the Northern Indiana Association were here during the fore part of the week, they possibly felt that, they could not come back later the same week for the meeting. The election of officers was deferred until the big meeting of the allied associations at Winona in June.

In honor of the visitors an informal reception was given at the home of Mrs. Reub Williams Thursday evening.

KNIGHTS OF THE HOLY GRAIL.

A Boys' Secret Society Similar to the Christian Endeavor Is Popular.

The fame of the Knights of the Holy Grail is beginning to spread over this part of the state. This is an organization for boys, founded by the Rev. Perry Edwards Powell, pastor of the M. E. church at Garrett. It is similar to the Christian Endeavor in some respects, and it has some features of the Methodist Epworth League, but in that it is a secret order, without fees or dues, it is different and affords a new sort of appeal to boys.

It has been organized in other cities of the state where Mr. Powell has preached, and he has gathered together in Garrett a body of fifty boys who love the ritual and are enthusiastic knights, in imitation of those whose leader was King Arthur. The lodge room, the ritual, the costumes and the secret work have the attractions of mysticism and the dramatic, which appeal to the boy mind, while the study of King Arthur's life and words serve to teach the members many great and useful lessons. The pastor is having calls for the ritual from other churches. He will deliver a talk on the new order at the Island Park assembly at Rome City, next month. He believes it will become a national organization.

POWER HOUSE AT WINONA

Massive Machinery in Big Brick Structure Is About Ready for Operation.

The new power house for the Winona Interurban railway—one of the largest buildings of its kind in the state—is rapidly nearing completion, and a brief trip through the building is sufficient to convince the observer that the contractors have been rushing the work as rapidly as possible since Contractor A. E. Baird commenced work on the brick work about six months ago. The interior of the structure, which has been kept private in order to keep the curious from interfering with the work of the builders, is a sight worth going miles to see and one that will be viewed by thousands of visitors as soon as the power house is in operation and visitors are allowed inside.

In comparison with the new power house the old one now in use appears merely as a toy and the reader has no idea of the mammoth machinery now almost ready for use in the new structure. The power station is made of brick with cement floors and ceilings and the structure itself is unusually heavy and massive. In the boiler room are four large 500 horse-power boilers, each of which is larger than the boiler room in the old power station and the coal bunkers alone are capable of holding many car loads of fuel. Freight cars will be hauled into the power house and the coal dumped directly into the bunkers from the cars. In the engine room are two monster compound engines, the fly wheels of each being about 20 feet in diameter. No belting is used, as the engines are connected directly with the big dynamos, which are capable of generating a current of 33,000 volts of electricity, while the capacity of the dynamos in the old power station is 500 volts, or one-sixty-sixth of the new ones. The dynamos are constructed on a different principle from those generally in use, and instead of the armature revolving inside of the field, the field revolves and the armature is stationary.

All the machinery is now in position and fires have been kept up in the boilers for the last two weeks. The cement floors are practically completed and workmen are engaged in doing the wiring in what is known as the "chamber of death," a room located beneath the engine room and in which the high tension wires for the trolley are connected and handled. No one, except certain employes, is ever allowed in this room, which is a veritable death trap to one unacquainted with the workings of electricity.

The mammoth intake, which has been under construction for several weeks is nearing completion, and it is said that the contractors will be enabled to finish that portion of the work for $6,000 less than the original estimate of its cost.

SERVICE ON INTERURBAN.

The Regular Schedule Begins Today From Warsaw to Goshen.

Beginning at both ends of the line at 5:45 o'clock this morning, regular service between Warsaw and Goshen will begin on the Winona Interurban line. The cars run about an hour apart.

The officials of the road are highly pleased with the volume of passenger traffic carried last week, before the cars were fairly settled on a schedule. The travel was especially heavy along the line on Saturday and that evening. The company believes that during the summer the road will do a large business among visitors at the park from over the country, who will find a trolley trip from Winona Lake to Goshen and return a delightful one. The indications are that the farmers and townspeople along the road will also be very liberal in their patronage.

The company has a large observation car, which will carry about one hundred people, which will be used considerably for trolley parties.

The following schedule of passenger tariffs will prevail on the Goshen-Warsaw division from Goshen:

	One Round	Way. Trip.
Waterford Mills.....	10	15
Fairlawn	10	15
New Paris.....	15	25
Beck's	20	35
Arnold's	20	35
Milford Junction.....	20	35
Milford	25	45
Felkner's	25	45
Maple Grove.....	30	55
Leesburg	35	65
Rosebro	35	65
Andrews	40	75
Lones	45	75
Warsaw	50	85

The Goshen station will be with that of the Northern Indiana company, and stations have been conveniently located at all points along the road.

Concerning the new road the South Bend Times says editorially:

"The electric line between Winona and Goshen was built by the Winona Assembly association. The work done in its construction was paid in cash by the association. The expense, including equipment, is about $20,000 per mile. The road was built strictly on business principles, without any jobbery. The owners therefore know exactly what the road cost them. No watered stock has any connection with this enterprise. It was a straight business deal. By and by through cars will be run to South Bend. Then a good many South Benders will go to Winona—Beautiful Winona."

Kilties Band at Winona.

The most picturesque band which will make a tour of the country this summer is the Kilties, which comes to Winona Lake on August 13 to spend a week. It includes about fifty men, who wear a Scotch highland uniform. The band is led by a drum major who is said to be the tallest Canadian, and he, too, wears the bright plaids of a Scot. The band has a male chorus of thirty voices, two bagpipers, and it will offer an unusual number of features during the Winona engagement.

WAS FALSE REPORT.

Sickness Upon Arrival Here Due to Change of Water and Climate.

The members of the National Editorial Association, who are now enjoying a few days at Mackinac Island, are indignant over the reports published in a number of papers stating that the sickness of a large number at Winona Lake was the result of eating sandwiches at Marion and also that the invitation to breakfast in the Chicago stock yards was declined for that reason. On Thursday resolutions were passed denying such reports and stating that the sickness was due to changes in climate and water. None of the editors was seriously ill and all are now in their usual health. The invitation to the stockyards was declined for lack of time, and the pressure upon members to look after matters of personal interest while in Chicago. The association tendered its thanks to the Chicago Press club for the reception given in that city on Wednesday last.

NEARLY HIT BY TRAIN.

Party En Route Home in Auto From Winona Have Close Call.

While returning from Winona in an automobile, J. M. Studebaker, Rev. Dr. Henry Webb Johnson and J. B. Stoll, of South Bend, had a narrow escape from being struck by a Vandalia passenger train in that city. The party heard no signals and there was nothing to indicate that there was any danger. They had just crossed the tracks when the passenger train shot by, missing the machine less than five feet.

A School of Swimming.

Miss Freda Schubert, of Fort Wayne, will be at Winona Lake early in July to organize a class among the women of the park, to whom she will give instruction in swimming. Miss Schubert is an accomplished swimmer herself and dipping in the lake will doubtless be a popular diversion among the women who receive instruction from her. She will also organize a class in fencing.

Prof. Dennies at Winona Park.

Prof. D. W. Dennis of Earlham College, will be at the head of the school of Nature Study at Winona Park this summer, it being his second summer here. His lectures last summer were highly interesting to his students, and he will again lead them on a number of excursions. His talks are particularly interesting to mothers who are seeking information of bird and plant life to impart to their children.

Five Per Cent. GOLD BONDS

Of the Winona Interurban Railway Co.

Nine months ago we offered to the friends of Winona the bonds of the Warsaw-Goshen Division of the Winona Interurban System, and every available bond has been disposed of, the division is built and in operation. To build the division from Warsaw to Peru, Ind., a distance of 42 miles, the Company now offers Five Per Cent Gold Bonds, interest payable March 31 and September 1, in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. The stock of the Company belongs in its entirety to Winona Assembly, being held in trust for it by the board of directors. By the purchase of an old right-of-way of the Wabash railroad only 33 miles of the Peru Division will have to be constructed. The power house, costing $300,000, is already built at Winona Lake. The whole system from Goshen to Peru, over 70 miles, is to have the best equipment for passenger and freight service, and will give direct trolley connection with cities of Northern Indiana, Southern Michigan, the Wabash Valley, the Indiana Gas Belt, Indianapolis and Central Indiana.

The bonds of the Peru Division contain none of the elements of speculation or "frenzied finance." They are safe and sound for investors of small means, or large. It is expected that these bonds will find as ready sale as those of the Goshen-Warsaw Division.

Full particulars relative to the bonds will be sent on request.
