VOL. VIII. NO. 35.

WINONA LAKE, IND., FRIDAY, AUGUST 3, 1906

PRICE 3 CENTS.

A BIG WEEK AT WINONA

Editors Coming to See Airship, Hear Newsboys' Band and Fine Program of Speakers.

The Republican and Democratic editors of Indiana come to Winona Lake next week when they will join hands in a five days' outing. It will be the first time all of the editorial organizations have held a rally, and, since the plans for this one have been developing since back in the winter, when the snow was on the ground, it is thought that the attendance will be large. The editors who have families are going to bring their children, and there will be as much entertainment for the women as for the men. Each of the editorial visitors will receive a ticket when he reaches the Winona grounds which will open the way to steamboat rides, bathing beaches, trol-next Wednesday. They will bring eight regulation cutters which were given to the academy by the United States government, and they will bring their tents and go into camp on what is known as McDonald Island. The Island is bounded on all sides but one by broad sandy beaches, and a twenty-foot canal cuts the island off from the main park. On August 9 the Culver sailors will have a sham battle on water and on shore and during the two or three days they will be here they will entertain the editors and other visitors with their picturesque drills.

On Thursday, August 9, the editors will ride over the new Winona interurban line to Goshen, where they will be the guests of the Goshen Commercial Club, and will be taken on automobile trips about the city and entertained at the Elks' club rooms. They will find it one of the most delightful trolley routes in Indiana. It goes through the lake region of northern Indiana, crosses the historic Tippecanoe river at a point so near the headwaters that the river is a creek, and the party will get a beautiful view of the negro race. John G. Woolley, Prohibition candidate for President in 1904, will be heard on Saturday night.

Dr. Robert W. Rogers, the American explorer of sand-covered cities of the Holy Land, is a fruitful source of genuine knowledge. He will lecture every day during the week. On August 7 he will speak on "Egypt, the Language and Literature;" August 8, "The Preparation for the Exodus;" August 9, "On the Way to Sinai;" August 10, "The Wandering in the Wilderness." Prof. J. W. Crooks, of Amherst College, will lecture on August 7 on "Population and Food Supply, With Some Suggestions on Race Suicide," and on the next afternoon he will be heard on "Bears and Bulls, or Speculation in Wall Street."

The editorial week will include a national choral contest on August 10, in which singing societies from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois will participate. Five hundred singers will be here, including male and women's choruses, and the prizes to be awarded by the Winona management amount to over $1,000.

WAR SCENES SET TO MUSIC

Great Overture of Franco-Russian Conflict Will Be Played by the Thomas Orchestra.

The Theodore Thomas orchestra will present one of its most popular programs tonight, Mr. Stock having decided to make a general change in the one first arranged. The composers represented will be Wagner and Tchaikowsky. The last number of the evening will be made up with stormy scenes of war set to music, telling the story of the Franco-Russian conflict of 1812 as the Russian composer has placed it on paper. The title of the overture is "The Year 1812." The great orchestra will give Napoleon's invasion of Russia, the siege of Moscow by the French general and the final overthrow of the French. There will be the enthusiasm of Russian victory in the ley excursions, rowboats, the lectures and other affairs on the regular program of Winona Assembly. But all these things will be only a part of what will help to make the five days speed by.

The Indianapolis News' Newsboys' Band will arrive on Monday afternoon in time for an evening concert, and during the week will give programs in the auditorium, in the Park and at other points about the big grounds of the lake shore. It will be the first visit of the band to this summering place, and it will be the first time the editors have heard it since the band won high honors at the St. Louis exposition. The sixty young musicians will play in both meanings of the word while they are here. They will have many opportunities for splashing in the lake and they will find summer life at Winona is decidedly different from what it is in the heated streets of Indianapolis.

Another boys' organization that will be here part of the week will be from the summer school of the Culver Academy, at Lake Maxinkuckee. A special train will bring 250 of the youthful sailors to Winona on view of the Elkhart river from the car windows. One of the scenic sights of this region is "Buzzard's Glory," a stretch of high, gently rolling hills, which unfolds in a panoramic picture as the car rolls by a half mile away.

Still another attraction that is coming is an airship—a monster 100 feet in length, containing hundreds of yards of Japanese silk. The aerial navigator who is to fly the craft has assured the Winona management that only contrary weather can prevent the ship cutting figure 8's a thousand feet above the lake. The navigator also boasts that the ship a few weeks ago flew twenty-two miles from Harvey, Ill., against a strong wind.

The week will be as strong as any of the Winona season in the point of speakers. Dr. W. J. Dawson, the famous English preacher, will be heard on Monday night. Dewitt Miller, the veteran lecturer, will speak on Tuesday evening. Ople Read, the story-teller and humorist, comes on Wednesday evening. A feature of the week will be an address on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Booker T. Washington, the lead-

The women who come with the editors are to be looked after by committees made up from their own number and from the social leaders who are spending the summer at the lake. Many special affairs will be given for them. They will also find that the various summer schools are full of interest, especially those of domestic science, swimming, physical culture and nature study. Isaac Brown, "the bird and bee man," will be here for the week, and Prof. D. W. Dennis, of Earlham College, will each day give a lecture on native birds and trees.

For the children there will be an endless round of outdoor pleasures. There are special boys' and girls' clubs here, the adult leaders of which give their attention in entirety to looking after the youngsters.

Many of the visitors who have been here this week to hear the Thomas concerts will have departed for home by next week, so there will be ample shelter for all who come with the Indiana editors. The visitors will find the week so crowded with events that they will have no idle time on their hands, national hymn of the troubled land of the Czar, while the Marselleise, the patriotic air of France, can be heard trying to force its way into prominence, only to be shut out and forced to surrender by the overwhelming power of the Russian air.

The night program will end with a genuine cannonading that will awaken the whole Park. This number as played by the Thomas orchestra is the most spectacular thing it gives. During the teamsters' strike in Chicago, when mobs and riots were common, the orchestra one night gave "The Year 1812" at one of its concerts, and the firing of the cannon caused a great gathering of strikers and mob leaders under the impression that another riot had broken out.

One soloist will be heard today, Howard Wells, one of the best of Chicago's pianists, will play in the afternoon.

Frederick J. Wessels, business manager of the Thomas orchestra, is at the Winona Hotel, he and Mrs. Wessels having come for a few days' vacation. Mr. Wessels is now working out plans for the orchestra's season next winter in Chicago. He said that the orchestra will give fifty-six concerts, covering a period of twenty-eight weeks, the longest series of concerts ever undertaken by a symphony orchestra. Subscriptions for seats are already pouring into the home office of the organization. The orchestra is this summer filling engagements covering seven weeks.

Mr. Stock is to conduct the concerts through the rest of the summer and he will, of course, direct the long series given in Chicago. Those who have from day to day watched the energetic efforts he gives to his work when leading a concert, have noted that he has remarkable powers of endurance.

"Work does not seem to hurt Mr. Stock in the least," Mr. Wessels said. "When he was a child he took up music. He has for years given long hours to study, day after day. When a player in an orchestra he was on duty night after night, month after month. What he does would wear an ordinary man completely out, but Mr. Stock shows no signs of giving out."

A STUDENT FROM CHINA.

Bright Young Woman Is in Care of Mrs. Eliza Blaker.

Ellen Tang, of Klukiang, China, is in the Winona Summer Schools as a student of kindergarten and primary work. She is a mite of a girl, short in stature, and does not weigh ninety pounds. Her hair is as black as midnight, her eyes are soft, dark and expressive, and she talks English as clearly as any of the young school teachers from Indiana schools, with whom she is daily associated. She is exciting more interest among the students in the summer schools than any other student, and she demurely goes about her affairs unmindful of the attention.

Ellen, in Chinese, means "two lilies," and Tang, pronounced as if spelled Tong, is a family name. Miss Tang is at Winona Lake learning the American method of teaching and playing with the younger children, and it is her purpose to return to her native land in the autumn and become a kindergarten among her countrymen, where there is marked scarcity of such teachers.

Miss Tang has one of the strongest religious organizations in the world that is seeing her through schools of the United States—the Women's Board of Foreign Missions of the M. E. church. She came to this country as a charge of the Board eight years ago, and Bishop Joyce, of Minneapolis, has kept his eye on her, and taken a personal interest in seeing that she became well educated. She studied public school work and kindergarten training in Minneapolis and was afterward graduated from a four years' course at the Methodist college at Warrenton, Mo.

This Chinese girl arrived at Winona Lake a week ago a stranger. Bishop Joyce had written Mrs. Eliza Blaker that the girl would be sent here to become a student in Mrs. Blaker's school. And now Mrs. Blaker looks after the little Chinese pupil and guards her as closely as if she were a nine karat diamond. Miss Tang lives at Mrs. Blaker's cottage. She crosses the broad Winona Park, with its bubbling fountains and bright, nodding American flowers, and climbs the steep terrace to the summer school building, every step being taken at Mrs. Blaker's side. If ever a girl got through the Blaker summer training school, getting every thought of information that was to be had, it will be Miss Tang, of China. Every teacher in Mrs. Blaker's department who comes in contact with the Chinese girl and her ready smile finds her an apt pupil. She writes a hand with a fountain pen that is as well formed as the writing of any American girl.

Miss Tang without hesitancy tells who she is and where she came from, and she is a living evidence of the good missionary work the Methodists are doing in China. When she was a few years old her father and mother were converted to Christianity through the efforts of American missionaries. Her parents sent her to the mission schools, and she, too, became a Christian. Of recent years she has been fired with an ambition to teach and help the girls of her race. It was through the Methodist missionaries that Bishop Joyce's attention was called to Miss Tang, and when she reached America she could not say a sentence in English. Now she talks it with more clearness than some of the Southern girls who are in the summer school with her.

When a baby, her mother bound up her feet in the usual Chinese fashion, but after the mother was converted to Christianity, the girl whose name means two lilies was free to grow as a girl should, and now from beneath her Chinese gown of purple peeps a neatly shod, well-formed foot. At times the girl from China may be seen in apparel that is part Chinese and part American.

It is not her intention entirely to adopt American ways and fashions. When she goes back to her mother in November it will be in a Chinese gown to show that she has not lost all ties to her native heath. Next year her brother is coming to this country to acquire schooling. Miss Tang has seen none of her home folks for eight years, and she has been too busy to become homesick.

MORE ROOMS ARE WANTED.

Cottage Owners Should Report Available Rooms to General Offices.

The demand for rooms is growing every day and has reached a point where a systematic effort will be made to help visitors find shelter and also help those who have rooms to obtain occupants. There is no evidence that the number of people now at Winona Lake will get smaller, but the signs point in the other direction until the close of the Bible Conference on August 28.

A bureau of information will be opened at the general offices in the Administration building, and cottage owners and others who have rooms available for rent are urged to give their names and the number of people they can take care of to the bureau. This is of such importance to the comfort of new visitors who are arriving every day that cottage owners should attend to it at once.

The Tennis Tournament.

The big tennis tournament of the season was begun yesterday and will continue all day today, play starting at 8 a. m. on the Arbor and Fountain courts. The entry list contained names of contestants from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Virginia. The list in full of singles was: J. W. Green and Albert Black, Albion, Ind.; O. P. West, Franklin, Ind.; J. E. Bost and W. T. Manning, Morrisonville, Ill.; O. B. Snider, Toledo, Ohio; A. F. Reed, Oberlin, Ohio; R. J. McKay and Paul Weer, Indianapolis; A. R. Bond, West Point, Ga.; C. A. Cook, Chicago, and Jos. Thomas, E. D. Parkhill and Hal Fulton, of W. A. I. Seven pairs entered for doubles: Black and McKay, Bost and Manning, Thomas and Parkhill, Reed and Snider, Bond and West, Cook and Fulton, Weer and Wilbur Elliott.

In the preliminary round in singles Green and Bond drew byes, Black won from West, 6-3, 9-7; Bost beat Snider, 6-2, the first set and the latter had to forfeit the second, as he strained an ankle badly; Reed won from McKay, 6-2, 6-3; Manning won from Cook, 6-0, 6-1; Thomas won from Weer, 6-4, 6-4; Parkhill beat Fulton, 6-4, 6-4. In the first round Black took his match from Green by default as the latter did not get in; Reed defeated Bost, 6-3, 9-7, in the prettiest match of the day; Manning won from Thomas, 5-7, 6-3, 6-0, and Parkhill beat Bond, 6-2, 6-3.

In the doubles Black and McKay drew a bye in the first round; Bost and Manning won from Elliott and Weer, 6-2, 6-2, and Cook and Fulton beat Bond and West, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2. If Snider is able to play this morning, Reed and Snider will play Thomas and Parkhill and the winners will play in the semi-finals.

Willowmeer House Party.

Mrs. J. R. Welch and daughter, Miss Mildred, are entertaining a house party at their cottage, the Willowmeer. The party is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Van Ray, Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Dodge, Jr., Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Reagan, Spencerville, Ohio; Dr. Chas. D. Gamble, Philadelphia, Pa.; Miss Lutie Bitcher, Wapaponta, Ohio, and Miss Hazel Jennings, of Warsaw.

A Marshmallow Party.

The Social Club's marshmallow party across the lake last evening was one of the most enjoyable events of the season. Two launches were filled with happy young people who have planned other most enjoyable events, among them a trolley party on Monday night.

WHAT TO DO WITH BOYS.

County Superintendent Haines Spoke at the Convocation.

Prof. J. F. Haines, superintendent of Hamilton county, spoke at the convocation yesterday on "What Shall We Do With the Boys." Prof. Haines is the originator of a "Corn Club," composed of boys who meet to study corn raising, and in his talk spoke of the environments and the cultivation of corn.

He spoke of the importance of heredity, but placed greater stress upon the environments and culture or training. He said that heredity carries with it possibilities for effectiveness, but that training made these possibilities actual.

The school, or rather the course of study that teaches the boy to do something and to do it effectively, was Prof. Haines' closing advice as to what to do with the boys.

National Choral Contest.

Entries for the National choral contest to be held at Winona Lake next week, continue to arrive, and the indications are that not less than 400 or 500 singers will be here for the various events, for which $1,000 will be awarded by the Winona Assembly management.

The newest entries made are by the Gas City Glee Club, which will send a quartet and a tenor soloist to the contest. An excursion from Marion will be run for singers and music lovers who will come for the event.

SENATOR ON RATE BILL.

Republicans Take LaFollette to Task for Statements on Platform.

The authorities of the Indiana state Republican organization are refuting statements made by Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, who is speaking at a number of summer assemblies over the country, and who was heard at Winona Lake early in July. Carl Reddick, secretary of the State Republican committee, is spending his vacation at Winona Lake, and is spending his time at the lake.

"Senator LaFollette," said Mr. Reddick, "is giving the impression in Chautauqua speeches over the country that those Senators who did not support certain amendments to the rate bill were guided by treasonable motives.

"I believe Senator LaFollette is mistaken. I submit his voting record that the people may judge for themselves. The Senator says that is the way to judge our Senators, and he held those Senators up to public scorn and ridicule who did not vote as he did.

"Senator LaFollette lined up with the Democratic party on every vote in an effort to embarrass the President. On the other hand we and the Indiana Senators in the Republican column voting to sustain the President of the United States and his administration and enacting into law a rate bill that would give relief against the unfair practices and discriminations of the great railway corporations of the country. He was not satisfied with the judgment of the President of the United States and insisted upon engraving his views into the rate bill.

"Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, who has done more to bring about this legislation than all other forces that have ever been brought to bear, gives his approval to it. The people of the country approve it. Albert J. Beveridge and James A. Hemenway, Senators from Indiana, stood with the President and the Republican party not only in bringing about this legislation, but in other great reform legislation that was brought about by this Congress. Senator LaFollette, on the other hand, stands convicted by the roll-calls of voting with the opposition in trying to destroy the great railway rate bill by amendments."

Warsaw lost to Goshen in a hotly contested game at Goshen yesterday. Both teams worked hard to send a run across the plate, but neither was successful till the seventh, when the Goshen boys made two tallies, the only ones of the game. This puts Milford at the head and sends Goshen one notch above Winona.

The Orchestra and Its Soloists

By E. J. Fluegel, of Purdue University

The secret of the wonderful playing of the Thomas orchestra is revealed more and more with each new concert, and the more we acquaint ourselves with the players and their style of playing. It is the high intellectuality of each player that pervades every movement, combined with perfect technique and welded together by a conductor who, while young in his position, naturally has a deep and intelligent conception of the music played by his orchestra, and an art in conducting even the finest details which ordinarily comes only after many years of experience.

The quality of the tone produced by the players of the wind and reed instruments is superior to anything else along this line heard in this country, the strings are not inferior to those of any similar organization of Europe. And the orchestra does not stand and fall with its leader, as was the case with musical organizations heard at Winona in previous years.

Nor do the soloists endeavor in the ensemble plays to outshine the others. Each player, from the first to the last, as well as the conductor, understand well in what the highest perfection of art consists: it must be in entire harmony, in regard to form and contents, with the artistic intention, just as contents and form must harmonize with each other completely.

The expenditure of tone and instruments corresponds to the importance and weight of the contents to be presented, as the composer must use the various instruments according to their nature and peculiarity and the artistic purpose. Nowhere in this, composing as well as playing, mere whim or arbitrariness reigns, nowhere extravagance. Where the effect of the whole, i. e., the artistic intention, requires it, the individual instruments have to fall in and enhance the effect of the whole, be this by emphasizing the melodious outlines, be it by strengthening the musical motive in order to lend transparency to the frame work of the tone structure, be it by brightening up the colors or individualizing the harmony.

Not one instrument is employed and played for its own sake, not one pushes itself unduly forward. The whole, the structure of the work itself, is the highest consideration. Thus it is complete harmony and wise economy which satisfies in these concerts the aesthetic sense, as well as artistic understanding.

What a high state of perfection the soloists have reached was clearly demonstrated by Mr. Becker's exquisite performance on the violin. He, to whom the glorious old patrician city of Franfort-on-the-Main, like to another son of that old seat of culture, Goethe, gave the first inspiration and training, leaves nothing to be asked for by the severest critic. Most wonderful, so powerful in its magic effect as to make the listeners hold their breath, is his combination of temperament, fire and pathos with brilliancy of technique and delicacy and purity of tone. His rendering of one of the most difficult pieces written for the violin, the Belgian Vieuxtemp's Fantasia appassionata, as well as Chopin's Nocturno cannot be imagined surpassable by any violinist, whoever he may be. There were no mere fireworks, there was warm life pulsating rapidly, electrifying.

The other number of the first part, Massenet's "March Heroique," Goldmark, the Hungarian's overture "Sakuntala," the dainty Nocturne and Scherzo, from Mendelssohn's Dream, were played so beautifully that encores were asked for. A Serenade by Moszowski, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March—all "inspiring," not only the last one—were the response.

The second part opened with the ever beautiful overture, William Tell, by Rossini, so rich by its melodies. Mr. Steindel charmed us in this, and the next selection, by the way in which he handled his magic bow. The program closed very excellently with some music of a lighter vein, a waltz by Joh. Strauss and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 14, a composition easily as brilliant and brilliantly rendered as No. 2, by which we were delighted Tuesday night.

On Thursday afternoon the waves of musical enthusiasm were still going high, even the small boys were whistling Tannhaeuser and William Tell, a fact of which Mr. Stock may justly be proud. But the waves of conversation are also going high in the auditorium during the rendering of pieces, and the audience does not seem to have come to a realization that perfect quiet must reign where such a delicate building of tone is to be erected and its symmetry and colors to be transmitted to the listeners' minds and souls.

The first two numbers presented to the audience some of the best Weber, our friend of previous concerts, has written, and, indeed, the interpretation and conception of both the orchestra in the Overture of Freischuetz, and Mrs. Edmunds, in that lovely aria, "Leise, leise," were exquisite. The pianissimo, as well as the fortissimo, shows her voice evenly beautiful and carefully trained.

The Shepherd's Dance, the second of the three dances appealed to the audience so much that it had to be repeated, and the rendering of the weird Torch Dance caused another encore to which was responded by playing Mendelssohn's Springsong.

The last selection of the afternoon, Theme and Variations from Suite op. 55 by Tschaikowsky, with violin solo by Mr. Becker, let the audience forget themselves, revealing to them what the real problem of music is, viz., to shape in musical tones that which cannot or can only imperfectly be shaped artistically in any other way: inward man and his emotions.

Oil Paintings on Exhibition.

The art exhibit at the Daguerre building is being well attended and is creating much favorable comment. This is a real opportunity for the cultured people of Winona to see this most beautiful and unusual exhibit.

Ten original oil paintings of the Christ by ten of America's best artists are shown. The pictures are well hung and the lighting makes the exhibit as effective when seen at night as during the day.

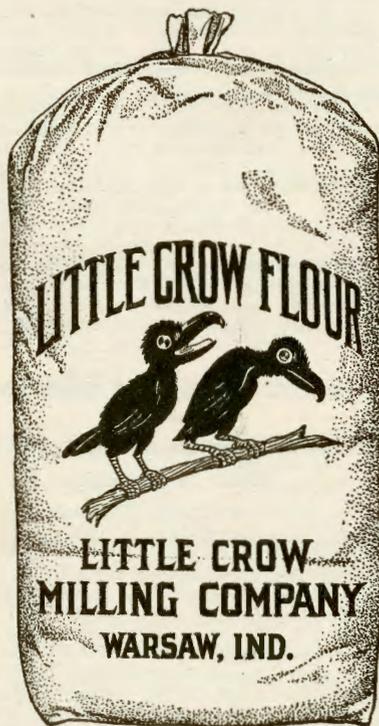

One of the most popular of the ten is the painting by John LaFarge, which shows Christ as a shepherd.

Social Club Trolley Party.

At the Social Club trolley party next Monday evening members of the club will be furnished tickets by the management. Anyone who desires may accompany the party by buying a fifty-cent ticket. A stop of an hour will be made in Goshen.

TANGLE OF HUMAN RACE

Light Thrown on Tenth Chapter of Genesis by Dr. R. W. Rogers in Lecture Yesterday.

Dr. Robert W. Rogers, in his Bible lecture yesterday, plunged into the tangle of the human race as found in the tenth chapter of Genesis, and made it alive with interest. Perhaps no chapter in the Bible has been so little understood or the application so little applied as has this same chapter of Genesis, and yet, under Dr. Rogers, it was alive with interest. The universal brotherhood taught so long ago was made clear.

Dr. Rogers apologized for the lecture of the morning and said it was the "driest" of his entire course. He gave his audience an opportunity to escape, but they laughed at the chance and settled to enjoy a lecture on details, the dryness of which was so cleverly hidden under the brilliancy and humor of the speaker that no one was conscious of its presence.

Dr. Rogers made vivid pictures of the migrating hordes whose wanderings cover great sweeps of history. He told of Tiras, the founders of Tarsus. This word means "to break." Here were the tin mines of old. The tin was put into breakers and broken or crushed, hence the name.

He told of the blue and purple brought from the isles of Elishaw by the bold Phoenicians, the rulers of the old time civilization, who traveled 1,500 miles on the untamed seas. Great was Tarsus, but greater were these brave Phoenicians. Dr. Rogers traced in history the sons of Ham. Kuth was then the southern limit of the known world. Ethiopia had absolutely nothing to do with the black people. It had a white civilization. The few blacks in Ethiopia came from Nubia. The Ethiopians were a wonderful, alert and bright people, while the Abyssinians are direct descendants of Kuth.

Dr. Rogers gave a laughable description of a modern map of Arabia, calling it the modern geographical puzzle.

He spoke of the fertility of the Arabian soil and its greatest product, which is the delectable brown coffee berry. He told of the bravery of the genuine Arabs, a race that has never been conquered or held in subjection. Rome did not conquer them, and the modern Turk cannot.

Dr. Rogers dwelt on the beauty of Damascus. It appears a paradise to the weary traveler coming in from the desert. It may not seem so to one who takes the French railroad and enters the city in that way. It needs the approach from the desert to be rightly appreciated.

Dr. Rogers said it would never be known who wrote this chapter of Genesis, but why it was written is easy to determine. The Hebrew had a clear insight toward the aim in view. This aim was the directing of the attention of the Hebrew people to the idea that they were only one among many people, and that all people were of like blood to themselves. The thought was pressed home on them that they were not the only people of whom God has taken a thought. But the Hebrew did not heed the message. He had a sublime faith in himself and never learned the tenth chapter of Genesis. It was here one first learns of the universal brotherhood of man and later Jonah takes up the same refrain.

The Hebrews couldn't and wouldn't hear the message and Jesus came Himself and sat down by the woman of Samaria to emphasize the message that God has made of one blood all the nations of the earth.

A Lake Dinner.

At the Kilkare cottage, Tuesday evening, a 6 o'clock dinner was given that carried out the idea of a lake carnival. The centerpiece, a large watermelon basket, filled with water lilies and ferns, the banana canoes filled with salad, and the water lilies made of deviled eggs on nasturtium leaves carried out the idea of the lake.

The following young people were present: Misses V. Clover, W. Michael, E. Ludy, G. Morris, Viletta and Kate Baker, I. Rhyman, M. Reddington and A. Smith, and the Messrs. W. Conrad, Ed Lybrook, C. Clawson, J. Clawson, A. Menke, D. Jones, J. Rinne, C. Goff and E. L. Lamson, of Rensselaer.

THE PRAISE SERVICE.

Dr. Chapman Spoke on "Recognition of Friends in Heaven."

The praise service under the leadership of Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman attracted a thousand people last evening, when he spoke to the subject, "Recognition of Our Friends in Heaven." Dr. Chapman said in part:

"Can you tell me what heaven is? It may be said it is a place not made with hands; a city the census of which has never been recorded; a city through whose streets no rush of toll or travel is heard; a city without griefs or graves, marriages or mournings, without sorrows or sins; a city whose glory is that it has Jesus for a King, the angels for its guards, and the saints of God for its inhabitants; a city whose walls are salvation and whose gates are praise. This is true, and yet this does satisfy you, and I am sure that it does not satisfy me. We are told that heaven is a place where all the fullness of glory dwells. Bunya once told an old woman who was asking him about that beautiful city. 'Madame,' he said, 'I cannot tell you about the city. The only advice I can give you is to live the life that is hid with Christ in God, and go for yourself to behold its splendor.' And yet, if this is true, it is a good thing for us to think about heaven.

"Shall we know each other there? When I see my mother I believe I shall know her just as surely as I knew her in this world, and that statement is not denied once in the Book, but its truth is implied over and over again, and I think this is about the strongest evidence that could possibly be given to us.

"Suppose you heard such statements as these for the first time: 'And Abraham died and was gathered unto his people;' 'Jacob died and was gathered unto his people;' 'Moses died and he was gathered unto his people;' what would you think? Why, if we take the Book and read it just as it is, there would be no question but what we shall know each other. What would be the use of gathering all the saints of the Old Testament to their people if they did not know each other in that better land?"

SCOTCH MUSIC AT WINONA.

Famous Kilties Band Will Spend Full Week at the Lake.

The musician to properly render and interpret Scotch music must be in touch with its history legend and story for all the songs of Auld Scotia have their legend or story. Take the beautiful Loch Lomond, "O ye'll tak' the hgh road an' I'll tak' the low road an' I'll be in Scotland a-fore ye," is the advice to his sweetheart of a Jacobite who was convicted at Carlisle. By the "low road" he meant the grave, by the "hgh road" was meant that by which the girl would return to her home. Death would relieve his spirit so that it would be in Scotland before she crossed the border. Annie Laurie was the daughter of a rich farmer; she loved a foreman named Wallace, for which he was discharged. He went to his home in Maxwellton and was taken very ill; Anna went to him and waited on him until his death. It is believed the song was composed on his death bed.

The Kilties Band understand how to render and bring out the beautiful melody and pathos of the Scotch music and it will be a treat that should not be missed when they appear at Winona Lake the week of August 13.

Praise for Summer Schools.

A. A. Hugart, city superintendent of the schools at Valparaiso, and J. Walter Dunn, county superintendent of Starke, are at Winona, and on yesterday were the guests of Principal McDaniel, of the Summer School. They visited every department of the schools from kindergarten up and are enthusiastic in their praise of the excellent work done in all departments, much of which, in their opinion, is not duplicated anywhere.

The wonderful growth of Winona along all lines is a surprise to even the friends of the movement. Principal McDaniel says that all the convocation lecturers are as loud in their praise of the excellency of the Summer School and Winona, as are Professors Hugart and Dunn.

Science in Selecting Proper Foods

People Are Unhealthy Because They Do Not Eat The Right Food.

In these days of adulterated foods and food products such a food as is known to be pure and wholesome is indeed welcome. We have heard of many breakfast foods and cereal products—some broadly advertised as whole products, others as cure-alls for every disease known to man. No doubt they are all good and possessed of some merit, but most of them are manufactured with some foreign sweetening agent to make them palatable. Among all the breakfast and cereal foods offered the public to-day, we believe we are warranted in saying that Malta-Vita is the only food that is simply and wholly pure grain product and nothing else, except a little salt. Malta-Vita as it comes to you from the factory is all of the wheat. It has been thoroughly cleaned, steamed to gelatinize the starch, then added to it is barley malt extract made from selected barley—this, acting upon the starch, turns it into maltose or malt sugar, pronounced by physicians and food experts the finest, purest, most healthful sweetening agent known. Then the grain of wheat is rolled out flat into a thin wafer flake and baked in the ovens. It comes to you fresh and pure and sweet—absolutely nothing but a grain product prepared in the cleanest and most wholesome way and turned into the most delicious whole wheat food that can be found. Malta-Vita is sold by all grocers. Now 10 cents.

Ten Great Life-Size Paintings

CONCEPTIONS OF CHRIST

By America's Master Painters.

DAGUERRE BUILDING, WINONA LAKE.

The largest group of religious paintings ever exhibited in America—the event of the past New York art season. Every one should be interested, even if not an art lover, on account of the great subject illustrated—The Christ. The paintings are owned by a number of wealthy Americans interested in the development of art in America. Each artist was commissioned to paint his own conception of The Christ—allowed perfect freedom to choose the text for illustration and paid his price in full for doing the great work. The collection cost $50,000 and will be exhibited in all the principal cities of the United States and Canada.
