100 PICTURES IN SALON

What Photographers' Association Has Done for Permanent Exhibit—Proceedings of Convention.

One hundred or more specimens of the finest work that the best photographers of the United States had to offer is today in position on the walls of the Daguerre building, the summer meeting place of the Photographers' Association of Indiana. This collection makes up the ground work of what is to become a permanent exhibit, or salon, of the Indiana organization, and in time may grow into one of the features of Winona Lake. About half of the pictures came through the National Photographers' Association during and after its meeting in Boston last year, and they were accepted for the salon only after the highest authorities on artistic photography had passed upon them. The pictures have been tagged with the subjects and name of the studio from which they came and a catalogue will soon be issued. The National Association helped gather up the pictures by spending $500 from its treasury for the purpose.

A few of the studios represented in the collection are: Hansen, Portland, Ore.; Phillips, Philadelphia; Stein, Milwaukee; Core, New York; Koehne, Chicago; Cornell, Philadelphia; Rosch, St. Louis; Garo, Boston; Lamson, Portland, Me.; Woodward, Cincinnati. The Indiana studios represented are: Holloway, Terre Haute; Neiswanger, Muncie; Parrott, Fort Wayne; Potter, Pike and Doehn, all of Indianapolis; Walden, Evansville; Larrimer, Marion; Phillips & Son, Lafayette.

Like an oil or water color artist who goes into a gallery of rich artistic treasures, the photographers who are at Winona for the state convention and training school spend hours looking at the pictures in the permanent exhibit. The pictures are so numerous and hung so close together that the whole exhibit becomes confusing unless one photograph is chosen and the attention is directed to it. The exhibit is a broad one, including all lights and styles of photography, and some of the photographers say they could give a month's time to it without exhausting all the suggestions that the pictures offer.

The Indiana Association is this year especially proud of its achievements. The members claim that their building at the Lake is the only one of the kind in the world owned by a general association of photographers, and that the permanent exhibition is the only one owned by a state organization.

The idea of winning a place for a photograph in the salon is proving a great stimulant to the studio workers of Indiana. Many of them have pictures at the convention this week tional Association meets in Indiana, or at least names a committee to inquire into the possibilities of such an enterprise. The Indiana men would like to have the endorsement, as well as the financial support, of the National Association in starting the school.

W. S. Lively, president of a school of photography in Tennessee, thinks that the Indiana Association should open the school. "There can not be too many of these schools," he said. "They are a great force in promoting

SCHOOLS IN ACTIVE WORK

One Hundred New Students Enrolled Their Names on Second Day—Most Are Young Women.

The Winona Summer Schools were in all departments in active work yesterday, and throughout the day young men and women—most of them young women—arrived at the lake and enrolled their names with the registrar. The total enrollment last evening was 360 or more, the number added yesterday reaching 100. This is a generous increase over the early days of the schools in other years, and the indications are that the high mark in the Winona Summer School history will easily be made before the term is far advanced. The enrollment will continue for two or three weeks.

Mrs. Eliza A. Blaker's department is far ahead of other years in point of attendance. Mrs. Jennie Ray Ormsby is conducting her School of Physical Culture in the Mount Memorial building, but will soon move to a large structure that is being erected near the Inn. C. M. McDaniel, principal of the schools, and Mrs. Blaker have opened the general school office in the building west of the Administration building.

Mr. McDaniel said that the students who are here, especially the teachers from the public schools, now have a fine opportunity to take up work that school authorities are interested in. "With Prof. Dennis and Col. Brown at Winona," he said, "the opportunity for nature study is unusually good. The State Board of Education is taking an active interest in the teaching of agriculture in the district schools, and there should be a heavy enrollment in this department of our summer schools, under the direction of Prof. Palmer."

The faculty held a meeting at the chapel of The Inn last evening, when it was opened by Mr. McDaniel. There was a prayer by Dr. H. A. Gobin, teacher of Hebrew, and Prof. Fluegel spoke on the beauties of nature and the benefits to be won from them at Winona. He told the members of the faculty not to work so hard that they could not get enjoyment out of the natural environment of the schools. Prof. Coffman spoke on fraternalism and friendship in all work. Prof. W. C. Smith, director of Winona Technical Institute, spoke of the success of which they hope will get by the committee having the selection of pictures in charge. The criticism by the committee is so sharp that probably not more than three or five photographs from Indiana artists will get on the walls of the salon each year.

The question of establishing a school of photography at the Technical Institute, Indianapolis, is getting a good deal of attention from the members of the State Association, some of whom are disposed to hold off on the undertaking until the Na-the artistic and financial advancement of photography."

If the Indiana men wait for action by the National organization it may be two years, and at least one, before the school at Indianapolis opens its doors. The intention is to make a fall and winter school of it, the summer school to continue at Winona Lake as at present.

Dr. Dickey, president of the Technical Institute, spoke to the convention the institution at Indianapolis. G. W. Worley, registrar of the Summer Schools, gave a report of the registration.

The Courses in French.

The attention of Summer School students is called to the work in beginning French and in French literature, offered by Charlton Andrews. The beginning class will pursue a purely conversational method from the start, each student actually using the language in a practical way. The course will also be so arranged that the bulk of the work may be done in the class room. Extensive outside preparation of lessons and exercises will be avoided. Every effort is made to sustain the students' interest throughout each recitation so that the acquisition of the language may not be in any way irksome.

The class in French literature will briefly consider the history of the subject by way of preparation for the reading of various masterpieces. In the drama some such play as "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be interpreted. The method will be as largely inspirational—rather than mechanical—as possible.

The tentative schedule places the beginning French from 9:45 to 11:15, and the French literature from 9:00 to 9:45, but these hours may be changed to suit the convenience of the students.

Talks on Birds and Trees.

Prof. D. W. Dennis, at the head of the School of Nature Study, has begun his lectures on birds, and he and his students are out from 6 to 6:45 in the morning, watching the feathered songsters. Prof. Dennis will also lecture on trees during the summer, the time for these talks being 9 to 9:45 a. m.

during its brief business session yesterday morning. He invited the photographers to investigate the possibilities of locating the school at Indianapolis, saying that the Institute authorities would furnish the building if the photographers would provide the equipment and instructors. He reviewed at some length what the Institute is doing toward training young men, and the support that is coming from different National organizations in the form of equipment and scholarship.

President Houser appointed a committee to consider the school question and report to the association later in the week. This committee is made up of George Holloway, of Terre Haute, and George Parrott and F. Schantz, both of Fort Wayne.

Treasurer George Smith, of Elwood, made a partial report, showing that the receipts, including a balance from last year, amounted to $711.59, and the expenditures were $230.20, leaving a balance at the present time of $481.39.

W. S. Lively, superintendent of the class instruction, outlined the work to be done by the classes and by 10 o'clock the photographers were at work in the dark and operating rooms of the building.

Mary Angell's Recital.

Miss Mary Angell, the Chicago pianist, whose playing with the Rogers' orchestra at the Winona auditorium on Monday evening was so enthusiastically received, is to give another program tonight, as well as on Saturday afternoon, which, with the numbers to be given by the orchestra, will be a musical even worth hearing.

It is fortunate that there is a piano of such excellent quality in the auditorium for performances of the virtuosos order. The size of the instrument which Miss Angell will play tonight is unusually large, it being a professional concert grand, and this instrument has an interesting history. It was sent to Winona by Rogers & Wilson, of Goshen, who obtained it from a Chicago concern, and it was used by Harold Bauer, the French pianist, on his trans-continental tour last year. It was also a favorite with Ganz and Paur, and has been used by them in this country on a number of unusual musical occasions.

The concert tonight begins at 8 o'clock, and the program follows:

- March—"Nebelungen" (Wagner).
- Fantasia from "Carmen" (Bizet).
- Trombone Solo—"Ave Marie" (Gounod).
- Piano Solo—"Funeral March Impromptu" (Chopin).
- Overture from "William Tell" (Rossini).
- "Salute D'Armour" (Elgar).
- Piano Solo—"Twelfth Rhapsody" (Liszt).
- "Hunting Scene" (Bucalossi).

MORNING BIBLE HOUR

Dr. White Discussed Book of Amos and Its Meaning—Study of Scriptures.

"Help us to take heed how we hear," was the burden of Dr. White's prayer at the 11 o'clock Bible hour. Amos 4:13, 5:8, 9:5 and 6 was read for the morning lesson.

Jesus Christ is the central figure of the Scriptures, and wherever one studies, it should be in reference to Him, said Dr. White.

In study it helps one to make a three-fold division, the center, or heart, being Christ with the Gospels, which would not have been written if Jesus had not come on one side, and on the other the Old Testament, which would not have been written had Jesus not been coming. From Genesis to Malachi one studies of the offspring of Abraham. In this race study one would make two divisions, that of Adam and that of Noah. At first, one studies the race as a whole, but now there is an effort on God's part to bring the race to Himself by a change of plans.

God now takes the individual and has him train his family in His way, with the result that there is a flowering of the nation in Christianity. In these preparatory centuries there were three great divisions, those of national development and decline and the time of restoration. In 586 is the end of the period of national development—the time when Jerusalem was taken and divided.

Dr. White, by way of parenthesis, says that higher pedagogy is destroying higher criticism.

There were three classes of rulers at this time—prophet, priest and king; of which the prophet was the highest.

Whether the priest was of late or early development is a question of debate. The prophet stands in a relation unique, as the office did not pass down in the same family, but the prophet was appointed by God. One reads of Aaron appointed by God through Moses the prophet.

In the time of Christ, and the cross suggests his name, Rome was the great ruling power of the world, while before her came Greece, Persia, Babylon and Assyria. Here is grouped all the great and minor prophets, the minor prophets being so named because of the length of their books.

Of the kings of the north, beginning with Jereboam, one finds nine different dynasties in a period governed by nineteen kings. This was not so of the kings south. Here one finds nineteen rulers, as in the north, but one dynasty keeps in power all of the time. In this one sees God's promise to the sons of David and though many of the rulers were wicked, and all were idolaters, yet God kept them in power until they became so bad that He allowed Jerusalem to be taken and the sons of David made captives.

The date of the late period of Syrian rule was 625 to 725; of middle Syrian rule 725 to 825, and of early rule of Syrians 825 to 925. This Syrian period comes between the experiences of the Nile and Euphrates valleys.

When the prophet Amos said that he would rise against the house of Jeroboam with a sword, he was advised to flee to the land of Juda and there prophesy; that he had no right to be at Bethel in the king's sanctuary. Amos was not uncouth, yet he was not as polished as "a member of our 400," Dr. White said.

In Amos 7, one reads the answer of the prophet Amos to the priest Amaziah: "I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son; but I was a herdsman and a gatherer of sycamore fruit. And the Lord took one as I followed the flock and the Lord said unto me, 'Go prophesy unto my people Israel.'"

In Dr. White's opinion, Amaziah had no high ideal of the priestly office. The highest conception he had of it was to make a living.

Dr. White spoke of the great contrast in the nine chapters of the book of Amos. Chapters two to nine tell of destruction because of sin. One finds the strain of destruction in the first ten verses of chapter nine, but from ten to fifteen is the bright part of the construction. And here is the great contrast in Dr. White's opinion, for the book tells of the palace and the hut, but the palace of the king comes down while the hut comes up and David's house is established forever.

LESSON IN METHODS.

Mrs. C. S. Besserer Spoke on Three-fold Nature of Children.

Mrs. C. S. Besserer's first lesson, in connection with the Bible School, on "Methods," was held in the auditorium at 10 a. m. yesterday morning. She took as a basis of her talk, Mark 4:28, "First the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear."

Mrs. Besserer spoke of a child's threefold nature, the physical, intellectual and spiritual. Of these, Mrs. Besserer said: "These three are not compartments in which one could pigeonhole the knowledge which we wish them to have, but out of these experiences of the threefold nature they gain impressions by which they grow."

The practical work in the Winona Bible School in New York, the expressions and impressions of gospel kindergarten work, and the East Side boys' development was then spoken of and shown "how if we, as religious instructors, can enter into the realm of the child's expressions, we may lead them through these avenues to the point of contact in the religious world."

This leads up to the hour of methods on next Tuesday, which again will take up object talks.

FLEEING FROM CITY HEAT

Scores of Pleasure Seekers and Students Coming to Winona Park on Every Train.

Almost a procession of visitors are coming to Winona Lake. The July temperature is driving them from the cities and towns, and from many states the students and pleasure seekers are arriving at the Lake on every train. Hotels, boarding houses and cottages are filling up, and as soon as the visitors have found shelter they turn their attention to the waters of the lake, the woods on the Winona shores and to the bubbling fountains in the Park. Guests at the Winona hotel, from which they can get a wide and unbroken view of the lake, are enjoying the beautiful sunsets on these July evenings. The long, windswept veranda, with many comfortable rockers and settees, are occupied by guests who give expression to the beautiful pictures formed by the lake, its shore lines and the setting sun. From out the windows of the dining-room floats the music of an orchestra, adding to the charm of a restful time to those on the veranda. The hotel is one of the most delightful retreats on the lake.

William Reed, manager of the Winona hostelry, is a lover of flowers. At his hotel, the Hays, in Warsaw, the big white portico around two sides of the structure, is decorated by long green vines and boxes of blooming plants in generous variety. The lawn, or as much of a lawn as one could expect to find about a downtown hotel, is refreshing in its green coloring and well kept, and the flowers are tended with careful hands. It is a very slow day when the Hays house does not have enough guests to fill this inviting little retreat which Mr. Reed watches as attentively as he does the money box in his hotel office.

GOSHEN NOW AT THE TOP

Milford Lost an Exciting Game in the Fourth Inning—Knew How to Bat and Field.

Winona Interurban League Standing.
	Won.	Lost.	Prct.
Goshen	2	0	1000
Milford	1	1	500
Winona	0	2	000
Warsaw—No games.

Milford outbatted and outfielded Goshen yesterday and lost the game. In fact, the home team played better ball than the victors except in the fourth, when the balloon went up and some one unkindly cut the string and left it floating until enough runs came in to win any ordinary game. Both teams were nervous at the start, as the game meant the leadership in the Winona Interurban League for the winner, and the first few innings were weird in spots. After they settled down, the contest was a pretty one.

Ogden started in to pitch for Milford, but lacked control, and Rapp took his place in the middle of the fourth. He went in the box from the field and was rapped a little at first, but soon settled down to business and allowed only one hit after that inning. Ben Goldstein, the big Goshen catcher, got mixed up with a bat in the ninth and split his hand, Starbuck taking his place.

Goshen opened up in the first. L. Kelly singled to center, Brother Irvin sacrificed. Ogden hit Goldstein, R. Kelly drove a hard one at third, which he muffed, and L. Kelly scored. Hutchinson drew a base and Wiseman another, scoring Goldstein. Starbuck fanned and Gripe was out pitcher to first. In the last half Betts doubled, went to third, when L. Kelly threw Miles' grounder over L. Kelly's head and scored on a passed ball, Niles going to third. Felkner fanned, but Goldstein dropped the strike and he was safe at first, Miles scoring. Felkner tried to steal second, but was too slow. D. Miles passed up four wide ones, but was caught at second, and Clayton flew to right. There was no more scoring until the fatal fourth. Three hits, four errors, a base on balls, one man hit by pitcher, and a combination of circumstances kept the scorers busy and seven striped legs crossed the pan before the smoke cleared away. Milford scored two in the fifth, one in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the ninth, and it looked very much like extra innings before L. Kelly threw the last man out at first.

A large crowd of enthusiastic rooters accompanied the team from Goshen and a number went from Warsaw to see the game.

Score by innings:

Goshen	2	0	0	7	0	0	0	0	0	—9
Milford	2	0	0	0	2	1	1	0	2	—8

Batteries—Bamberger, Goldstein and

Starbuck; Ogden, Rapp and Felkner. Two-base hits—I. Kelly, Betts. Sacrifice hit—I. Kelly. Stolen bases—Starbuck, Rapp. Innings pitched—Bamberger, 9; Ogden, 3½; Rapp, 5½. Hits—Off Bamberger, 9; off Ogden, 3; off Rapp, 2. Struck out—By Bamberger, 5; by Ogden, 3; by Rapp, 2. Bases on balls—Off Bamberger, 1; off Ogden, 3; off Rapp, 1. Hit by pitcher—Bamberger, 1; Ogden, 1; Rapp, 2; Wild pitch—Bamberger. Passed balls—Goldstein, 2; Felkner, 2. Double plays—Wiseman to R. Kelly to L. Kelly; D. Miles to C. Miles to Betts. Left on bases—Goshen, 8; Milford, 8. Umpire—Carl Miles. Time, 1:52.

TWO MONKEYS LIVED HIGH.

Large Crowds Saw Performances of Schepp's Dog and Pony Show.

Schepp's pony, dog and monkey circus gave a performance to as many people as could get into the big tent yesterday afternoon. The park was alive with children before the animals began giving their turns, but the youngsters, dragging grandmas and slow-moving grandpas by the hand, rushed pell-mell toward the tent when 4 o'clock came. The ponies drilled, the dogs gave their tricks, and the monkeys cut their capers to the full satisfaction of the crowd that saw them.

The dogs cuddled up in the tent for a nap and rest soon after supper and the ponies had a breathing spell in their stalls. The monkeys lived high for supper at the serious expense of one of their number. A frail looking little fellow had lost his appetite, as he had for four days been afflicted with illness. He was not larger than a kitten, and he had a gaunt, pitiful look in his gray eyes. His keeper offered him carrots, radishes and tomatoes, but still the patient could not eat. Then the keeper tried bananas, cookies, and other food that usually delights monkeykind, but the sick animal, occasionally giving a rasping cough, could not take a bite. But the other two monkeys could, and they fairly feasted on the food that had been brought for the invalid. "It's a bad sign when a sick monkey can't eat," the keeper said, as the patient wandered to the end of his chain and dropped down to the ground as if he would never rise again. It was thought he would not live through the night.

At the evening performance the animals performed again before a large crowd and they will continue to give two performances a day through the week.

Five Per Cent. GOLD BONDS

Of the Winona Interurban Railway Co.

Nine months ago we offered to the friends of Winona the bonds of the Warsaw-Goshen Division of the Winona Interurban System, and every available bond has been disposed of, the division is built and in operation. To build the division from Warsaw to Peru, Ind., a distance of 42 miles, the Company now offers Five Per Cent Gold Bonds, interest payable March 31 and September 1, in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. The stock of the Company belongs in its entirety to Winona Assembly, being held in trust for it by the board of directors. By the purchase of an old right-of-way of the Wabash railroad only 33 miles of the Peru Division will have to be constructed. The power house, costing $300,000, is already built at Winona Lake. The whole system from Goshen to Peru, over 70 miles, is to have the best equipment for passenger and freight service, and will give direct trolley connection with cities of Northern Indiana, Southern Michigan, the Wabash Valley, the Indiana Gas Belt, Indianapolis and Central Indiana.

The bonds of the Peru Division contain none of the elements of speculation or "frenzied finance." They are safe and sound for investors of small means, or large. It is expected that these bonds will find as ready sale as those of the Goshen-Warsaw Division.

Full particulars relative to the bonds will be sent on request.

THE PROTECTION OF BIRDS

Isaac Brown, "the Bird and Bee Man," Spoke at Summer School Convocation—Helping the Quail.

Col. Isaac W. Brown spoke on "Close to Nature" yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, this being the second of the Summer School convocation addresses. Col. Brown was at his best as he talked to his large audience about the beauties of nature that appeal so strongly to him.

C. M. McDaniel, principal of the Summer Schools, introduced the speaker, who was warmly received as he told the audience that he was just as anxious for their appreciation as he was thirty-three years ago, when he asked a certain girl to be his wife.

Col. Brown said that the necessity of nature study was very pronounced in this country. The time is here when one must know more of God and His thoughts, and so one studies nature.

How important it is, is indicated when the legislature wishes to pass a fish law it goes to those who have lived close to nature and know the habits of fish. Col. Brown told of the habits of the blue sunfish; how on the 15th of May the young fish are hatched. The young need fifteen days of careful watching, but the legislature decided that the fifteenth of May was the proper day for men to fish, when it should have decided on the first of June. The old fish being caught, the gar fish eats the eggs, and unless the law is changed the lakes of Indiana will be without the blue sunfish.

Col. Brown said his father owned a quail net from which the profits were $15 or $20 a year. The first money the Colonel ever earned, he said, was by netting quail. He was eleven years of age, and went out one rainy day all alone to try his success. He walked to Delphi, sold the quail for $2 and his mother told him he might have 10 cents—the first money he ever had in his life. Five cents of the money he spent for sausage for himself, and the other five cents for meat for his dog and, as he and his dog sat by the roadside and ate their meat, they were as happy as kings.

If one sees a quail on a rainy day one will notice that the head is held upward, but the wings are very close to the body. They dislike to get wet, and will not fly in rainy weather because their wings get heavy.

The most untamable bird is said to be a pheasant, but they can be tamed. There are no wild birds, the people make them wild, the speaker said.

Colonel Brown says that bagging quail is fine sport, but 15 per cent of the number caught must be saved. Take care of them until the first of March, then turn them into the barnyard and they will differ from the other fowls only in that they are self-supporting.

The day is coming when one will look back on the days of the shotgun with as much horror and revulsion as one now looks back on the thumb screws of the French inquisition, the lecturer said.

Col. Brown offers a prize of $20 to the woman teacher or pupil who attends the largest number of his lectures. If more than one attends regularly the prize will be divided with an extra $5 added.
