THE NEEDS AND METHODS

Temperance Work and Its Advancement Discussed by Rev. U. G. Humphrey—New School.

Rev. U. G. Humphrey gave the first address at the opening of the Temperance Training School yesterday morning.

The subject, "Agitation—Needs and Methods," was skilfully handled by the speaker. He told of the necessity of teaching temperance to the high school boys and girls and related an incident of a banquet served to high school pupils at the home of one of the pupils. Wine was served by the mother and three boys were taken home, too drunk to walk and many of the girls were slightly intoxicated. "What of that woman's influence?" was the question asked by Mr. Humphrey.

Another incident related by Mr. Humphrey was that at a school picnic the principal was horrified to find that the boys of the school had taken a quantity of beer along.

"The saloon," said Mr. Humphrey, "is making a systematic effort to create appetite. Children under nine years of age have been invited to drink by saloonkeepers and when the invitation was accepted, the children were told to come in whenever they wished and the drink would not cost them anything." Many saloonkeepers are prosecuted for the violation of the law in regard to selling drink to minors, but still the evil goes on. Mr. Humphrey advised the Lincoln pledge as a means of securing more signers among the boys and girls. Many a boy has become what he is because of a total abstinence pledge given to his mother.

"To make agitation effective," said Mr. Humphrey, "we must not have a division of forces; it only prolongs the battle. When the W. C. T. U. and churches unite in their efforts, the saloon must go. "We do not want," said Mr. Humphrey, "more facts about the evil of the saloon, but more about the unification of our forces. The church of Christ has the power to fight the saloon, and it must furnish not only the leaders in the work, complete the organization, but furnish the finances as well. The work in Indiana is greatly hampered by lack of funds.

"The W. C. T. U. and kindred organizations have made possible the work of today, but they can not save alone the people from this curse. Prayer alone will not serve them. There are 650,000 people engaged in the liquor traffic. The churches uniting with the temperance organizations can, if they put their shoulders to the wheel, put the saloon out of business before breakfast."

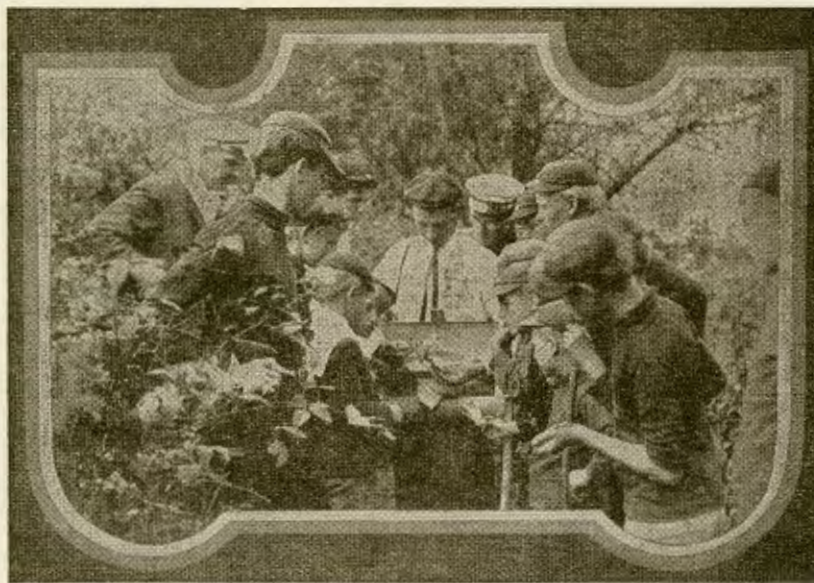

Rev. J. F. Lewis, attorney for the Anti-Saloon League in Indiana, spoke on the hillside at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The subject, "Our Laws—Their Strength," was well handled by Mr. Lewis.

He instructed his hearers how to swearing the many questions asked by the interested hearers. It is better to file a remonstrance without an applicant, if possible, was Mr. Lewis' advice, while Mr. Humphrey thinks that the reason many people object to signing power of attorney cards, is because they do not understand just what they are signing.

If they did a perpetual injunction against saloons might be in force. It was suggested that it is best to have two men go together to get signatures, as one can witness the signer's signature. The case of the trouble in South Bend was cited, and the decision of the judge which gave such a victory to the temperance workers.

Out of 161 townships in Indiana that have filed remonstrances under prepare and file a remonstrance. If the signers remain legal voters the remonstrance is good for ten years. The law requires that the remonstrance be signed three days before the meeting of the Board of Commissioners—that is, it must be filed by midnight of Friday, but Mr. Lewis advised that for fear the auditor was not in sympathy with the movement the remonstrance had best be filed by 5 o'clock on Friday.

Power of attorney cards are good for two years, but Mr. Lewis advised that one does not wait for the two years to expire, but to file sixty or ninety days ahead.

A most interesting round table followed the close of the address, Mr. Humphrey assisting Mr. Lewis in an-the Moore law the expense to the signers has not exceeded $200. In the old law the name of the applicant was entered, but now it is not so, it is not against a certain party, but against the traffic.

On the 10th of next October the Supreme Court will hand down its decision on certain questions now pending.

Mr. Humphrey thinks this decision, even if adverse, will benefit the temperance workers.

A township remonstrance which includes a majority of the voters in the township, it is hoped, will include the city. In this case Warsaw, Goshen, Elkhart and many other cities in Indiana will be put on the dry list.

DRAGON FLY AND SNAKES

Prof. Schmucker Told Many Stories of Insects and Reptiles at Summer School Convocation.

Prof. S. C. Schmucker, a city-born naturalist, who has acquired a great fund of information of life in the open, is contributing materially to the worth of the convocations of the Summer Schools. He spoke at the auditorium yesterday afternoon to many teachers and students of the schools, as well as to many cottagers and visitors at the Park. He is a gifted storyteller, as well as a naturalist, and his lectures, abounding in simplicity, fairly bubble with good humor.

He spoke yesterday afternoon on "The Dragon and the Hippogriff." The dragon he spoke of is known to every Hoosier by the common name of snake feeder, or devil's darning needle. The last name was acquired, he said, by an old belief among small boys who ran away to a swimming hole that a dragon would sew up the mouths of the wicked.

Prof. Schmucker said that people generally have a fear of the dragon fly, yet the flies are perfectly harmless. Their mouths are not large enough to bite, they do not sting, and they have no venom to discharge into the flesh of any human who picks one up. He told of the compound eyes of the dragon, and said they were more wonderful than the eyes of any other insect. When one catches a dragon fly and gets the sunlight on its wings, it is an insect of wonderfully radiant beauty.

Snakes and snake stories received much attention from Prof. Schmucker and he scoffed at many superstitions. He said that the common snake that one will find in Indiana, with the exception of the rattler and the copperhead, is perfectly harmless; that the common varieties have a tongue that is as soft as a piece of silk—so soft, in fact, that a snake can not poke its tongue through a piece of tissue paper, unless the paper is wet. A woman who sews with a needle pricks her finger far more seriously than a snake of the ordinary kind does when it bites. It may bring the blood from the finger of a person who picks the reptile up, but that is the end of the injury. He said he had been bitten times without number without any serious results.

Prof. Schmucker said that he had pupils in the Pennsylvania State Normal who have asked permission to let a black snake bite them that they might have the experience, and he never refuses the permission.

The speaker said that this thing of people who go into the woods and fields killing every living thing they found—bugs, snakes and the like—is all wrong. "Almost everybody," he said, "is afraid of every living thing they come across, so they go about tramping on every living thing they may know little about. The whole enjoyment of outdoor life is because of needless fear destroyed for many people."

Prof. Schmucker will continue his convocation talks this week, and measured by those he has already given, those to come will be well worth hearing.

CROWDS SEE ELEPHANTS.

Eph Thompson's Troupe Delights Throngs of People.

A crowd which packed every seat in the big tent saw Eph Thomson's elephants perform yesterday afternoon, and loud applause greeted the conclusion of each "stunt" done by the huge animals. The acts on the repertoire of the Thompson elephants are entirely out of the usual line of tricks done by trained animals, and the claim that this is the greatest troupe of trained animals in the world has gained general acceptance among those who have seen them at Winona this week. The performances are at 4 and 7:30 p. m. each day, the evening performance closing in time for the auditorium events.

Two Important Conferences.

Dr. S. C. Dickey left yesterday afternoon for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will meet by invitation the National Electrical Contractors' Association to discuss the identification of the association with the Electrical School of the Winona Technical Institute at Indianapolis.

On Wednesday Dr. Dickey will meet the National Typothetae, the association of employing printers, at Buffalo, N. Y. The Typothetae is preparing to endorse and endow the Training School for Printers of the Technical Institute. Dr. Dickey will return to Winona Lake on Thursday.

Party for Miss Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Woodmansee, in honor of Miss Williams, of Lima, Ohio, entertained about fifty of the young people of the Park. Miss Ella Toy won a box of candy for having the most correct answers to sixteen advertisement puzzles and ten song puzzles.

Fortune-telling, in which the fates of the young people were revealed was one of the events of the evening. Ice cream, cake and punch were served.

Goshen .....	3	1	750
Warsaw .....	1	1	500
Milford .....	2	2	500
Winona .....	1	3	250

The Winona team had a good thick coat of whitewash applied with a big brush yesterday. The Milford team, with Mr. Ogden in the box, proved to be excellent artists in that line and at the same time they managed to accumulate nine tallies. Winona was weak and John Thomas got his bumps with regularity. He had an off day and more hits were registered off his delivery than in any two other games this year. At the same time his teammates contributed a few bobbles which helped in the slaughter. Ogden was in great form. He held Winona down to two singles, both scratches caused by the uneven infield. The crowd was small but enthusiastic, and "Red" Scott came in for his share of the applause. The feature of the game was Miles' one-handed catch of Hogue's line drive in the fifth, after a fast double had cut off Winona's chances for a score.

Score by Innings:

Warsaw Defeated Goshen.

Warsaw won a good game from Goshen yesterday. Clean fielding and bunting hits won the home team with some lack of judgment in base running on the part of the visitors.

A Party of Young Folks.

A party of young folks—young at heart, at least, is at The Inn from Mansfield, Ohio. Mrs. J. M. Calhoun, eighty-four years old, is chaperoning Mrs. M. D. Graham, Mrs. E. O. Clarke and Mrs. Catherine Sayre. The average age of the party is 75 years. Their rooms at the hotel open into each other and the Buckeye "girls" are having a merry "house party" while at Winona Lake.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN WORK

The General Assembly's Committee
Will Hold Meeting at Winona
Lake on August 28.

Dr. John Clark Hill, of Springfield, Ohio, is at Winona Lake arranging for a committee meeting on men's work, which is to be started next fall in the combined Presbyterian and Cumberland churches of the United States. The committee was appointed by the Presbyterian General Assembly at Des Moines, last May, and it will meet at Winona Lake on August 28, when the plans for the general meeting at Indianapolis, on November 14 and 15, will have been about completed. The general committee includes besides Dr. Hill, Dr. J. Balcomb Shaw, of Chicago; Dr. S. E. Young, Pittsburg; Dr. E. S. Barr, Detroit; Dr. Dewitt Benham, Baltimore; W. T. Ellis, of the Philadelphia Press; C. T. Thompson, Minneapolis; Andrew Stephenson, Chicago; J. M. Patterson, St. Louis. It is the intention to have the Indianapolis local committee, which will probably be made up of the pastors and an elder from each Presbyterian church of the city, meet here in August with the committee.

Dr. Hill says that the committee has had invitations from Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Washington and Detroit, all being anxious to obtain the November meeting, which will be perhaps the most important gathering the Presbyterians will have in this country next winter. The purpose of the committee on men's work is to start a fresh movement among 400,000 men now on the membership rolls of the church, the object being to advance the cause of the church in all directions and to keep the men in close touch with the spirit of Presbyterianism.

Some of the foremost Presbyterian laymen of America will be at Indianapolis. The committee is having the most eminent men seen personally, and among those who are being invited are Grover Cleveland, William Jennings Bryan, John Wanamaker, C. H. McCormick, John H. Converse, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works; Justice John M. Harlan, of the United States Supreme Court, and many others.

Dr. Clark says that at least 1,000 representative Presbyterians, besides those from Indianapolis, will attend the two days' convention, and the meeting will, it is understood, be held in Tomlinson hall, it being the only structure that can accommodate the men who will be there.

Indianapolis was chosen for the convention, Dr. Hill said, because of its central location. The city is within comparatively easy reach of the Cumberland element in the South, as well as the Presbyterians in the North.

THE NEEDS AND METHODS.

intendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, gave the address of last evening to the Temperance Training School.

Rev. Humphrey introduced the speaker, who from his official position is able to take a broad view of the temperance question and give much valuable information to the earnest students in attendance upon the school.

Rev. Baker said that he thought the Anti-Saloon League was born in the six great sermons preached by Lyman Beecher three-quarters of a century ago. The league was re-born when Lyman Beecher's illustrious son preached in Plymouth church his great sermon on temperance. The league became a real, living, working force in the world, at Oberlin, which is in the North Ohio Methodist Conference.

A young man from Oberlin was sent to different ministers to induce them to use their influence to have an interdenominational Anti-Saloon League organized. The result is that 43 states are now interested in the league and 400 persons give all their time to promoting its interests.

"The time for the denouncing of the liquor traffic is past," says Dr. Baker, "it is now the time to solve the great problems presented."

Dr. Baker urged, as did Rev. Humphrey in the morning address, that the one thing necessary is a closer union of all the temperance forces. The W. C. T. U., the church, and all its organizations, must join hands in the great cause and so secure the great end.

If township local option had not been secured, municipal local option would not have come. The result of township and municipal local option will be county local option. The people must be educated to local option and work up to the county.

An Exhibit From Alaska.

The Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, with headquarters in New York, has sent to Winona Lake a boat, a sled and two bows, which have been placed in the boathouse. The outfit was made by the Board's Indian school in Sitka, Alaska. It was the contribution of the school to the Board's exhibit at the St. Louis world's fair, and, after the close of that exposition, the boat and other articles were, at the suggestion of Governor Brady, sent to Winona Lake as a permanent exhibit. The boat is large enough for several people and is substantially made. It does not in any way suggest the kind of craft that the red men made in olden days.

Miss Anna M. Speakmann, of Kennett Square, Pa., is a guest at the Tennessee cottage. Miss Speakmann is a teacher at the Presbyterian college at New Windsor, Maryland.

PROPHECIES OF MICAH

How Prophets of Old Looked Into the Future Discussed by Dr. W. W. White.

Dr. W. W. White, of the Summer Bible School, gave his closing study on the book of Micah at the 11 o'clock Bible hour yesterday.

Micah 4:1 to 3, was combined with a passage found in Isaiah 2:2 to 4. The passage in Micah is found to fit in better to which precedes and follows than the one found in Isaiah, and Dr. White drew the conclusion that the passage in Micah was written first and Isaiah quotes from him remembering that Isaiah was a contemporary of Micah.

In Micah 4:9, one finds the prophecy that the children of Israel are going to Babylon. One finds that the prophet always stands in front of his prophecies and he continues to tell the people that God will fulfill His promise to the children of Israel.

In Micah 5:1, one studies of the indignity heaped by the enemies upon the rulers. Contrast this with the respect shown the one who was to come. Here one finds the famous Bethlehem prophecy that was fulfilled in the New Testament.

The children of Israel, in the prophetic times, were in a national decline. Many thought there was no future for them, but the prophet never wavered in his faith and predicted their bright future. Micah held up the glorious future to the discouraged ones to stay them in their faith in God when the Assyrian was coming.

Micah 5:7 foretells international peace. All the prophecies of Moses are recalled and it is made plain that the children of Israel belong to God and that their future is secure.

A strong passage in Micah is found where the prophet calls upon the mountains to witness his prophecy and to remember what was said to Moses.

Another passage is the pathetic call of God to His people. He was forsaken yet He called them. Jesus could not be more tender than is the God of the Old Testament.

Micah 6:7 and 8 is the famous morality passage. The people are trusting in a formal worship which the prophets say will not do.

In the seventh or last, chapter of the book is the darkest picture shown. Princes ask for bribery and priests are ready for it to be given. Through all the darkness is shown the faith of the prophet in God and the vitality of the remnant.

In the last of the chapter comes the figure of the shepherd and here the prophet dwells on the days of old. This dwelling on the days gone by is a characteristic of these prophets.

They went back in history and got parallel with God's plans and then shot out into the future.

One finds the righteousness of God a distinct strain through all these prophecies, just as it is the underlying thought of the sermon on the Mount. Justice is associated with righteousness and mercy.

"But," said Dr. White in closing, "one always finds the book of law under the mercy seat. Justice and mercy are always associated in God's thought."

The lesson for today, will be on the book of Hosea and Dr. White wishes that each member of the class look up the historical allusions, and to read the book thoughtfully noting the most striking fact in each chapter.

MUSIC BY THE DUNBARS.

Bell Ringers and Singers Delighted an Enthusiastic Audience.

The Auditorium was filled yesterday afternoon by an enthusiastic audience to hear the program of the Dunbars, bell ringers and singers. The quartet sang "The Old Brigade," responding to two hearty encores, the last number being "Is It Hot Enough For You?"

Then came "Narcissus" played on the bells. The large audience seemed charmed as the musical peels of the bells rung out this beautiful air. The music was the best ever given by bell ringers on Winona's platform. Encore followed encore, the members of the company responding to the demands of the audience.

Ralph Dunbar, a gifted cellist, played a selection, followed by Ralph Parland, who sang with all the freshness and strength of the Spanish bandit, "The Bandellero." "The Tragic Tale" was the encore given by Mr. Parland.

"The quartette sang Riley's "There Little Girl, Don't Cry," then more and more encores followed. In fact, every number was so enthusiastically received that one lost sight of the original program. A stirring march played on the bells was followed by a reading given by Harry Dunbar. He was accompanied on the violin, the soft tones of "Home, Sweet Home," blending sweetly with the sentiment of the reading.

The Dunbars gave another delightful entertainment last evening.

Winona School Catalogue.

The combined catalogue of the Winona Agricultural Institute and the Winona Academy is being distributed by Dr. J. C. Breckenridge and Prof. H. E. DuBois, two officers of the schools, the catalogue containing announcements for the coming school year. The institutions will be separated next fall, one giving its attention to the teaching of scientific farming and its allied branches, while the academy will teach boys that they may prepare for college and university instruction. The catalogue is replete with information.

THE GIDEONS AT WINONA

National Convention of Christian
Traveling Men Begins at Winona
Lake Next Friday.

The Gideons, an organization of Christian commercial traveling men, will hold its national convention at Winona Lake beginning July 20 and continuing through the following Sunday. The association has a membership of 6,000 and W. C. Hall, of Indianapolis, one of the active workers in the organization, thinks at least 1,000 members will be here.

The Gideons have camps all over the United States, divided into state and subdivided into district or local organizations. The motto of the order is from Judges 7:21—"And they stood every man in his place round about the camp." There is no goat to ride, little or no red tape to be unwound, to gain a membership in the Gideons. A commercial traveler must be a member in good standing in some church where the belief is that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. This is the creed of the Gideons. A letter from a church pastor is all that a commercial traveler must have in the way of credentials, the letter showing him to be in good standing.

The headquarters of the National organization are in St. Louis, and E. A. P. Haynes, of that city, is president; A. H. Humphrey, Chicago, is secretary, and Nels Rylander, of Chicago, is treasurer. W. C. Hall is the only Indiana man on the board of trustees. Practically all of the national officers will be here for the convention. One of the visitors will be John Nicholson, one of the three men who founded the Gideons in Wisconsin five years ago. The cabinet officers, who have full charge of Gideon affairs between conventions will hold its closing meeting of the fiscal year, and the executive committee, composed of cabinet officers and presidents of state organizations, will hold its meeting at Winona Lake. These committee meetings will be held on next Friday.

The convention will be called to order on Saturday morning, when National officers, state presidents and superintendents will make their reports, and in the afternoon there will be another business session for the election of officers. The annual camp fire will be held in the evening.

All of the convention programs take on a religious tone. On Sunday morning a consecration service will be held and Chaplain L. C. Smith, of Waukesha, will preach the annual sermon. John Nicholson will lead the men's meeting in the afternoon and at night the officers will be installed.

S. M. Ralston and family, of Lebanon, Ind., are at the Tiago cottage.

Mrs. S. B. Anderson, of Dayton, Ohio, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. P. Blessing, at the Rest-A-While.

DAUGHTERS EARNING MONEY.

Steamboat Ride and Refreshments on Thursday evening.

A steamboat ride, with music, and "good things" to eat is what the Western College Daughters of the Park are planning to entertain the public with on Thursday evening, immediately after Dr. Chapman's service in the auditorium.

At chapel one day last spring, Dr. Z. B. Campbell, the college chaplain, gave to each girl "one talent" (one dollar) which she is to multiply. These multiplied talents on the sixteenth day of October will be given back to Dr. Campbell. With this sum of money, which the girls have determined shall be a large one, it is hoped, that when it is combined with the money already raised, with what generous friends are giving and with the $50,000 that Andrew Carnegie has promised, it is hoped that the $250,000 endowment will be wholly completed.

The steamboat ride will cost ten cents. The "good things to eat" will be numerous, but cost only a small price. Come one, come all and bring all of your friends.

The Milkweeds.

The milkweeds are in the glory of their bloom. Do not sneer at the milkweed as a flower, for there are few flowers that are more beautiful or interesting when closely examined. The usual floral envelopes—the calyx and corolla—are bent back in the milkweed and the most conspicuous part is the circle of large, colored stamens which surround the pistil, forming what is known as "the hood." From the back of each stamen a peculiar little horn or stem reaches out to the pistil, and this arrangement of the flower parts is the distinguishing feature of the milkweeds, or asclepias, as they are scientifically known.

If these plants were natives of Asia or Africa they would be cultivated in green houses, both for their beauty and their fragrance, but being American and plentiful they are simply weeds. One is sometimes cultivated in gardens. It is the orange-colored one, found wild in the higher grounds all about Winona, which is commonly known as butterflyweed, or pleurisy root. It is the one milkweed that is not a milk weed, i. e., its sap is not white and creamy as that of the others is.

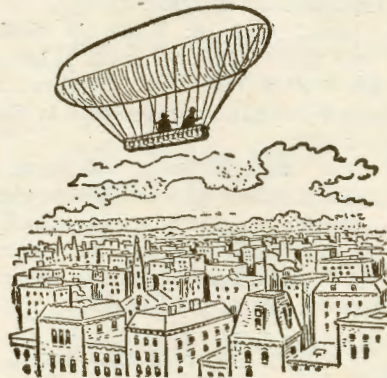

There are half a dozen species about Winona. Everybody knows the common milkweed with its clusters of dull pink-purple, turning to white, but not many know how beautiful and fragrant the flowers are. Next to it in abundance probably comes the butterflyweed, though the swamp milkweed is very common in moist ground. Then there are the poke milkweed, the broad-leaved milkweed, the red milkweed, and others not quite so common, but easily found by the earnest seeker, and really they are worth seeking if one cares for flowers.
