

GIDEONS ARE ARRIVING

Christian Traveling Men Come to Winona Lake for Convention Meeting and Vacation.

Members of the Gideons, an association of commercial travelers for the advancement of the cause of Christianity and right living, have been arriving at Winona Lake since yesterday morning for their national convention, beginning at 10 o'clock this morning. They are a well-groomed, prosperous-looking crowd from many lines of business activities, who are intensely interested in their association, and they are also bent on having a few days of vacation outdoors while at Winona.

Many presidents of state organizations came in yesterday, together with a number of the national officers. One of the first to arrive was Vice-President Blinn Yates, of Buffalo, N. Y., who made the rounds of the park springs, taking a cooling drink from every one he passed. Treasurer Nels Rylander, of Chicago, came in during the day. Trustee L. C. Humphrey, of Chicago, was another arrival, and among the former officers who are here are: A. H. Humphrey and F. A. Gralick, both of Chicago. Thirty or forty came in on the Pennsylvania train from the east last evening, and many more are expected this morning, including President E. A. P. Haynes, of St. Louis. About the busiest man in the association is W. C. Hall, one of the cabinet officers, of Indianapolis, who induced the convention to come here, and who now feels that it is "up to" him to look after each visitor. He meets all the trains and sees that every arrival registers his name in a book before the Gideon gets within the Winona gates.

Three or four affairs occupy the attention of the visitors, who are also holding little reunions with members they have met at former conventions. C. M. Smith, of Detroit, had hardly landed at the lake from the train before he started two campaigns. One was for himself for president of the national association and the other is to have the next convention held at Detroit. But Toledo is in the contest for the convention, and the Ohio men are doing some energetic work to land the meeting of next year.

The leading questions that are to come before the convention today relate to changes in the constitution, and the session of this afternoon promises to be warmer than the temperature at Winona. One of the chief changes is that of reducing the dues to the national association from $2, as at present, to $1 a year. Another is to make the national convention a delegate affair, instead of one that is open to the rank and file of the order. Still another question is that of employing a field superintendent to look after the organization of camps and paying him a stated salary. This, some of the members contend, is against the Gideon spirit. It is argued by those against the field superintendency that every Gideon should be a volunteer field worker as he travels about the country on private business. The organization has had a field superintendent. He was Charles Palmer,

Some studies, with inspiration as the subjects, are on display. A study of "Hager and Ishmel in the Desert" is the subject of some of the students' efforts. Another model, that of McNiel's Indian head, showed great skill.

Modeling is being used in the pottery department in decorating the little vases in individual designs, under Miss Freeman's advice. In the pottery department, molding and hand-building is used. The students are making a specialty of forming different shapes and applying the different glazes to suit the different pieces of

THE LIFE WORTH WHILE

Prof. Schmucker Discussed Purpose of Nature Study at School Convocation—Last Lecture.

Prof. Schmucker on yesterday gave as his address at the convocation exercises "The Real Purpose of Nature Study." This was the last of the interesting series of nature studies given by Prof. Schmucker and a large and attentive audience closely followed the speaker as he told them how best to get close to nature.

Prof. Schmucker said that one of the real purposes of nature study is to see things. As a rule people are not trained to accurate observation. One notices closely and remembers the things in which one is interested.

Prof. Schmucker gave an interesting account of his efforts to find a lace bug. This bug lives under the bark of the sycamore tree and is one of the most interesting of insects to the scientist. It is said to be clothed from head to foot in brussels lace. Too many children leave the school near the age of ten and it is their right to know something of elementary science. There can be no definite teachings, no text book science. Just take the things that are worth the seeing and teach the child to love to know them. Take the mosquito; teach its habits and tell them of the necessity of doing away with pools of stagnant water. Nature study need not be taught as a distinct study. In Prof. Schmucker's opinion the best work is done by the teacher who never lets the pupil know he is doing nature study. The power of one strong character to lift up is much greater than the power of one bad character to pull down is Prof. Schmucker's judgment. This is the great power of the social settlement. The speaker related his experiences in talking to a crowd of boys and girls from the slums. He told them of the dandelion, but the talk was a failure. Prof. Schmucker said the children were courteous, but showed no interest whatsoever in the dandelion. At the close of his talk he inquired of one of the teachers why such a lack of interest and discovered that very few of the children had ever seen a dandelion.

Prof. Schmucker gave a hard rap to of Chicago, who died about two weeks ago. He was paid $1,500 a year by the association and was the only man in the organization to draw a salary.

The association will hear reports of committees, including one from the committee on constitution, this afternoon and will also elect officers. The visitors will attend church services tomorrow, and in the evening will hold a campfire.

STUDENTS IN SCULPTURE.

New Classes Working in Clay in the Art School.

Classes in pottery and sculpture have been added to the Art department of the Summer Schools. One of the most interesting pieces of work being done in the sculpture department is that of a little statuette. Miss work. Some of the students are making belt buckles and locket of the soft clay, which, after they are fired and glazed, are mounted in metal, and made into artistic and individual decorations for special dresses.

The first firing in the new revelation kiln, No. 3, took place Thursday. About this phase of the work, Miss Freeman said: "The exciting time comes when the straw-colored heat in the chamber of the kiln has died away and the door is cool enough to open. There is always that element of chance in firing. One may find in his collection of articles fired something more beautiful and interesting than one would expect. Many entirely different effects, or so-called freaks, of the firing for which one cannot account, often occur when the same glaze is used on several vases and when they are in the same firing."

the men and women who rush to eastern resorts where they mingle with thousands of people and imagine they are taking their vacation. It is much better to go to the country where one can hold communion with visible nature, he said.

Prof. Schmucker made a strong plea for the boys to return to the farm; leave the heat and discomforts of the city and live the life worth while.

THE DOCTRINE OF GOD.

As Seen in His Ability to Predict—
Topic of Dr. White at Bible Hour.

At the 11 o'clock Bible Hour, yesterday, Dr. Wilbert W. White discussed that portion of the Book of Isaiah which establishes the doctrines of God by contrasting His ability to predict with the inability of idols.

By way of introduction, Dr. White called attention to the two great foreign experiences of Israel in Egypt and in Babylon. After Egypt came Syria, Assyria, Babylon, Persia, Greece and Rome. Since Rome there has been no single great world power. There have been kaisers and czars, but no Caesars.

We must think of Isaiah, as well as the other great prophets, Dr. White said, as belonging to the period of Israel's national decline, in the Assyro-Babylonian period. Isaiah is the center of one group of prophets, Jeremiah the center of another.

The Book of Isaiah is a poetical and prophetic production and must not be considered from the logical viewpoint alone. Certain ideas recur frequently. The despondency of Israel; the recognition of sin as the cause of Israel's trouble; the necessity of repentance; the hope of deliverance; the destruction of Israel's enemies; the coming of the nations to God, and the future glory of the redeemed—these are the themes that occupy the prophet to a considerable extent.

In chapters 40-48 the prophet declares with repeated emphasis that God is unlike the idols of the heathen. Beginning with verse 18, of chapter 40, the idols of the heathen are ridiculed with keen irony and the entire passage is a challenge to reason. We find this challenge repeated in 41:21, in 43:9-12, in 44:6-8, in 46:9-10, in 48:3-8 and 14-16.

The message of the prophet is comfort. "Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God." This comfort to God's people is to come not through finding others who have sorrows, but by reason of the doctrine of God. Dead-weight idols are going; the living, lifting God is coming. Is your God a burden or is He bearing you? This same God who has proved Himself in history is our God. Just as He led the people of Israel out of darkness, so, too, will He lead us if we but trust Him.

At the 11 o'clock Bible Hour on Monday, Dr. White will speak on the Book of Genesis.

INDIANS AT WINONA LAKE.

Rain-in-the-Face and His Braves Pitch Camp in Wilds Near Chicago Hill.

A band of Indians has pitched camp just east of Chicago Hill, where the blackberries grow the thickest. Under the leadership of Big Chief Rain-in-the-Face, assisted by his sturdy braves—White Feather and Red Cloud—a real Indian hut has been built among the trees and yesterday morning was the time of the first of a series of feasts and war dances which are peculiar to this tribe of Indians. Around the camp fire were gathered sixteen braves and sixteen squaws, as handsome and picturesque a band of Indians as have been seen in this part of the country for some time.

Shooting-Star, Minnehaha, Running Water and the other squaws worked hard picking berries and preparing corn for the feast while the braves contested with each other in games of skill and strength, and kept the camp-fire burning.

This band of Indians came across the lake, starting at the boat house, the braves somewhat in advance of the squaws, who carried the provisions and propelled their own boats in true Indian fashion. The boats made their way through the canal past the pier at Kosciusko Lodge, up to the mouth of the canal which leads east of Chicago Hill.

Here they found it necessary, because of a wide sandbar to disembark and carry their boats for some distance. The squaws worked like real Indian women, carrying and dragging boats and pushing them into the deeper water of the canal with the strength which betokened their healthy out-door life. One young squaw lost her balance and went into deeper water than she intended, losing her beautiful moccasins and blanket, but with stolid face she entered her boat and paddled quickly up the canal.

The feast around which the Indians gathered consisted of roasted potatoes, fresh blackberries, popcorn and lemonade. Lemonade? Why, do Indians make lemonade? Sure—and their war-cry sounded over the hill-tops somewhat like this:

"Mary had a little lamb, little lamb, little lamb;
Mary had a little lamb
It's fleece was white as snow.
Everywhere that Mary went, Mary went, Mary went,
Everywhere that Mary went
The lamb was sure to go.
Then hurrah for Mary—
Hurrah for the lamb,
Hurrah for the teacher

TEMPERANCE IN INDIANA

Training School of Anti-Saloon League
Ends Four Days' Work at Winona Lake.

The training school of the Anti-Saloon League of Indiana closed last evening after being in session for four days. The school was largely experimental, as it was the first of the kind ever held, and some of the best authorities on temperance in this country were the instructors.

J. F. Lewis gave his closing lecture yesterday morning on the hillside. This course of lectures on the laws of Indiana as they relate to temperance has been highly beneficial and instructive to those in the school.

In his address of yesterday, when Mr. Lewis was considering the abuses of the law in Indiana, he said that Indiana was now divided into five districts for practical temperance work and that after September six men would give their entire time to looking after the temperance interests of the state. The Indianapolis office of the Anti-Saloon League is in the Claypool building, where Supt. U. G. Humphrey and Attorney Lewis are to be found.

The Moore law has now been in operation for one year, and more has been accomplished for temperance in this one year than during the ten of the Nicholson law. Next October the supreme court will decide if the Moore law is constitutional and, until after this decision is handed down, it is not wise, in Mr. Lewis' opinion to discuss many of the points of weakness in the law. It is no doubt, he said, as strong a law as will ever be enacted by an Indiana legislature. The one great weakness is that the law does not compel the executive officers to act, and one is compelled to pay secret service men for work which should be performed by the officials who are paid by the taxes of the people. The law says that the saloonkeeper, or druggist may be imprisoned for violations of the liquor law, but who in Indiana ever heard of either being imprisoned? It is a source of pride to the workers of Indiana that in the last year the state has not retrograded, but has held on to all the "dry country" it has secured by hard work. At present there are in Indiana three counties absolutely dry, seventeen others that have saloons, but in one ward of a city. There are in the state 649 townships and forty cities without saloons.

When one considers that there are but 1,016 townships in the state and the township and city ward is the unit in the temperance work, there is much cause for rejoicing among those who know the saloon to be a thing of evil.

The last address of the Training School was given on the hillside yesterday afternoon by Rev. U. G. Humphrey. "Criminal Aspects of the Liquor Traffic" was the subject. Mr. Humphrey said that the judges of the courts attribute four-fifths of the crime of the nation to the saloon. The saloon not only creates and fosters crime, but gives the opportunity to its patrons to commit crime. In Cincinnati, since the Sunday closing law has been enforced, crime has been reduced 70 per cent. Mr. Humphrey asked for the percentage of crime with no saloons, if such a wonderful decrease in crime is shown with the saloon closed one day in the week. The churches must concentrate their efforts and in ten years wonderful strides will have been made in evangelization of the world, he said.

The Temperance School that has just closed was a success in every way. While the attendance was not as large as the officers hoped, yet it was very encouraging.

The first year of any similar work is usually spent in organization and preparation. This the Temperance School has now done, and the officers are looking forward to a great impetus to their work because of this week at Winona.

The Sunday Services.

The Sabbath services at Winona Park will be marked by important affairs. The Sunday School at 9:30 will be under the leadership of W. C. Hall. The sermon of the morning will be by L. C. Smith, chaplain of the Gideons' organization. Dr. Chapman will lead the Hillside services and in the evening will be the Gideons' campfire, and it will be largely an experience meeting.

A meeting for the Juniors will be held at the chapel of The Inn at 3 p. m.

Meeting for Intermediate Girls at Bethany pavilion at 4 p. m.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting will be held Sunday evening. The leader will be Miss May Corbett, who will have for a topic, "Fifty Joined Together," from Ephesians 2:21. All the young women of the Park are invited to attend this service, which is not only interesting but helpful.

Winona Girls Meeting.

The Friday evening Winona Girls meeting in the pavilion last evening was well attended. Mrs. C. S. Bessner used as her theme, "That then the Lord thy God will turn thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and will return and gather thee from all the nations, whither the Lord thy God hath scattered thee," which was taken from Deuteronomy 33:3.

College Girls' Excursion.

The girls of Western College are elated over the steamer excursion which they gave on Thursday evening. Five hundred tickets were sold and the net receipts of the evening were $70, which goes to the endowment fund of the institution. The girls were entertained at the home of Miss Lulu Helpman, of Warsaw, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Plumstead's Program.

Ellsworth Plumstead gave an unusually interesting program at his recital of yesterday afternoon. A pathetic reading entitled "Whither" appealed strongly to the audience. Mr. Plumstead impersonated the old gentleman who had lost his wife by death, and who told of his longing to see "mother" again.

Riley's "Raggedy Man" was given with the same childish abandon that Mr. Riley himself gives to this poem of childhood. The little people never weary of Riley's selections, and the "Raggedy Man" is always a favorite.

Mr. Riley wrote his "Raggedy Man" here at Winona. It was written and given in response to a toast made by the Hoosier poet at a banquet of the Western Association of Writers, given at the Winona Hotel.

In a musical number Mr. Plumstead showed that he is a versatile as well as a talented artist.

Mr. Plumstead was well supported by the Rogers' Band and Orchestra, which played several selections.

Baseball Schedule.

"THE CREATION" TONIGHT

Soloists, Chorus of Eighty and Orchestra Will Render Haydn's Masterpiece at the Auditorium.

Josef Haydn's masterpiece, "The Creation," one of the great musical compositions, will be presented at the Winona Park auditorium tonight by soloists, a chorus and the Rogers' Winona Symphony Orchestra. The chorus, under the direction of Prof. H. W. Owens, has been at work for some time. In the chorus are eighty of the best singers of Winona Park and Warsaw. The supporting orchestra includes twenty-five musicians. Charles Marsh will be the organist and Miss Helen Chipman will be the pianist.

"The Creation" is the first chapter of the Bible set to music, and the chief characters are taken by three soloists. Miss Bessie Tudor, soprano, impersonates Gabriel; Charles Piquette, tenor, takes the part of Urah, and Marion Green, basso, that of Raphael. In the last duet the soprano and basso impersonate Adam and Eve.

Haydn, the composer of the work, ranks with the composers of all musical history. He was born in Vienna, Austria, in 1732, and spent three years in finishing "The Creation." He wrote it, re-wrote it, changed it here and there many times, and said that he was giving it so much of his thought because he wanted it to last three centuries. It is regarded as the most melodious of the three greatest oratorios.

WARSAW IN FAST GAME.

Shut Out the Salaried Team From Plymouth in Sensational Contest—Score 2 to 0.

The fastest and best game of the season was played at Warsaw yesterday between Warsaw and the salaried Plymouth team. The latter had won eighteen out of twenty-one games played and looked for an easy thing at Warsaw, but they were fooled, for they took the little end of a two-to-nothing score. Baker, a new acquisition, was in the box for Warsaw and held the hard-hitting professionals to two hits. They were never in sight of a tally. Only three men reached first and one of these was caught in a beautiful double, when Hunter picked Wexter's line drive off his shoe strings and fired the ball to first. The visitors thought it was easy and started to play horse, giving one to Warsaw on a platter.

In the third Geist flew to Troutman, Cox hit an easy one to Blousses, who Cox hit an easy one to Blousser, who that he tossed it like an old woman and it rolled under Carbeiner, who turned around three time looking for the ball which lay between his feet. Before he found it, Cox was safe and Baker's two-bagger scored him a moment later. The second score came in the eighth. Geist doubled to right field, Cox flew to right, Baker advanced Geist a base on his single and the latter scored on a wild pitch.

It was as pretty a game as any one could ask for. Both pitchers were at their best and the support given them was sensational. Plymouth's only error was the fool play which gave the first score and Rufe Enyert contributed the only bobble for Warsaw, when Zellars hit him a slow one which he threw a few inches low in his effort to cut him off at first. Quite a number of Winona fans saw the game and it is certain that more will go when Warsaw plays again.

HOW TO TRAIN ELEPHANTS

Eph Thompson, After Years of Experience, Tells How It Is Done—Elephants Like Men.

Eph Thompson, the elephant trainer, a giant in size and strength, gets about as much attention as his four animals as he appears in the sawdust ring in Winona Park, where his herd gives an afternoon and evening performance during the two weeks engagement at Winona Lake. Thompson is an American negro, but he has wandered over the earth until he is almost a man without a country. There are few corners in Europe and Asia in which he has not been, and he has the manner of a finished cosmopolitan. His four elephants are named for his sisters—Rose, Tilly, Mary and Minnie. It is Mary's proud boast, which she announces by means of a painted card, that she is the only elephant in the world that can turn a somersault.

Thompson has been associated with elephants for years. He started in the show business when a boy with Adam Forepaugh, and he was "with the big tents" seventeen years before he went abroad. He says that patience is not the chief thing in training the beasts.

"Of course, it takes patience," he said, "to train anything, a man, a child or an animal, but the principal thing in teaching elephants is to study their character and dispositions and adapt yourself to their methods. Unlike other beasts, an elephant is like a man. If you know how to train a dog, you can train any dog, but show me one hundred men and I'll show you a hundred dispositions with which to cope in a hundred different ways. And the same is true of a hundred elephants. One elephant must be bribed to act. Another must be deprived and then be rewarded after he has performed. A third must be bullied, and the fourth coaxed and petted."

The Thompson elephants have been very popular while at Winona Park and several thousand people have been to see them do their new and novel tricks. They will give afternoon and night performances at the lake through July 28.

"LOP-SIDED FOLK."

Rev. George Stuart Kept His Audience in Good Humor.

Rev. George Stuart, the original and entertaining speaker who is always popular at Winona, appeared last evening in his lecture, "Lopsided Folk."

From the beginning to the end of the lecture Mr. Stuart kept his audience in a roar of laughter by his wit and humor.

Mr. Stuart said: "Some of the sweetest hours of life are spent in the home circle, when the women don't speak too much. Certain people develop in certain directions, but it is seldom one finds the all-around man or woman. God has given the great elements of manhood and womanhood to be developed.

"If you want a thinker, think," was one of the gems of thought dropped by Mr. Stuart. Tears of joy and tears of gratitude are needed in this old world. God laughs more than He cries was proved in a manner satisfactory to himself by the speaker. Joyous, happy people who can laugh, and weep are the well-rounded people. A woman had better be married to an automobile and a graphophone than to a man who has no idea above his business. If she marries an automobile it will take her places, and if she marries a graphophone it will talk to her, that is more than her stick of a husband will do. Chautauquas are now called "She-tauqua" because the men won't go."

The religion of the "Gideons" is good enough for Mr. Stuart, he said. There is the honest Christianity that converts and more to be desired than the amen kind that are overdue in heaven. Business, social and religious are the trinity that make the perfect man. What this country needs is brains. It is short on men of brains. "Take care of your body and throw away your old diseases," was the advice given by Mr. Stuart.

JACK TARS MAY COME.

Culver Naval School Planning Another Visit to Winona.

It is quite possible that arrangements will be perfected for the Culver Naval School to make another visit to Winona Lake this year, the time under consideration being the second week in August. The visit of the cadets in 1905 is remembered by Winonians as one of the most delightful experiences of the season. The battalion has been increased by fifty this year, and now numbers 250 boys, constituting the only naval school of its kind in the United States, excepting the Annapolis Academy. The drills of the cadets on land and water are of the greatest interest. The decision of the school authorities on the matter will be known within a few days, when announcement will be made. The cadets at Culver were asked to express their preference as between an outing on Lake Michigan at Chicago and a visit to Winona Lake and expressed a preference for the place which gave them such a warm welcome last year.

Saturday Golf Tournament.

This morning at 10 o'clock the regular Saturday tournament will be held. The winners of last Saturday will enter with less handicap and Will Didel, the state champion will go scratch. The prizes will be balls. Entry fee, 50c.

News of Biological Station.

Dr. Hodge, who has been giving a series of lectures in nature study to the students of the Biological Station, has left for his home in Worcester, Mass., accompanied by Prof. Eigenmann, who intends visiting Cambridge and other Eastern points, relative to procuring material for his work at the Indiana University next year. During the absence of Dr. Eigenmann Prof. D. W. Dennis has given some lectures on the line of work as presented by Dr. Hodge.

Dr. Pohlman has also given a very interesting lecture along the line of evolution. He will lecture next Monday morning on the subject, "The Disadvantages of the Upright Position in Man."

The nature study students spent Thursday in the jungles of the Leesburg swamps. "The Pioneer Maidens" have undergone difficulties which would have discouraged many of their sex. In the beginning their tent was two weeks late in arriving, and now two of their number have slight attacks of "chills." Dr. Pohlman is using every precaution to get the "upper hand" of the mosquitoes before they afflict any more with their bite.
