MY NORTHERN TRAVELS.

BY JUIJA A. WOOD.

The results of faith and prayer—based upon a tour of nine months through Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Canada. The Author says:

"It contains 167 subjects, of interest to various Protestant denominations, also Catholics; there is something to interest saint and sinner; different vocations; the old and young, the sick and well, and is especially dedicated to the many I visited, bearing kind messages to them in return. My quondam friends also have their share. May each one purchase, get the worth of their money, and receive some profit thereby, is the earnest prayer of the writer."

It also contains the author's autobiography with a full account of her remarkable conversion, and an excellent portrait, from one of her late photographs. No library of persons belonging to the Tunker Fraternity is complete without it. Bound in Paper, 50 cents, Cloth, 75 cents, Gilt $1.00.

NUMBER OF ACCESSIONS DUR-ING THE YEAR.

According to the reports given in the Evangelist, there were 1401 additions to the church during the late ecclesiastical year.

In this number are included all churches organized during the year, even if a number did belong to the church previous to the organization. In many instances this would be all right in arriving at the number of accessions; for before the organization they could not really be looked upon as members of the Brethren church, even if their sympathies did run that way.

We have also endeavored to avoid the repetitions, where the same meetings have been reported by more than one person.

The accessions are divided among the states in the following order:

A VALEDICTORY.

Two years and six months ago we commenced turning the sod in Washington Co., Md. During this time we have received into the home church 47 members. In the church at large 159 members, three Sunday Schools have been organized. Funkstown and Mapleville are evergreens, James closes for the winter, but opens in spring. One church building has been erected at a cost of $1500, a balance of $250 to be raised, which the building committee will attend to. tract society has been organized which has scattered 500,000 pages of tracts and books, waves of influence have been started which will break only on the eternal shore. Some of the work done has been done with the hearty co operation of church, and some under many difficulties. We have not done all we wanted to do, but what we could, no sacrifice is regretted. May God bless the Brethren church of Washington Co. "Finally, brethren, farewell. perfect, be of good comfort. J. D. McFaden.

SOME HISTORICAL FACTS CON-CERNING THE EARLY CHURCH.

[The following facts we glean from information obtained from Bro. Abram Cassel, Harleysville, Pa., for the coming "Church History."

The Brethren Church in early years was not strictly uniform in the manner of observing what we term the "ordinances." There was, very early in her history, a great difference in the manner of observing feet-washing. There was also a very material difference in their manner of observing their Love feasts. In some localities they would have the Supper all ready on the tables before feet-washing. At other places they would not allow the Supper on the table until after feet-washing, about which they quarrelled at least 20 years, until the founders, Michael Wohlfinally the annual meeting allowed the churches to have it off or on, as they pleased. At some places they had beef and soup; at other places only beef, with bread and butter, and no soup. Some churches were particular in having lamb or mutton, instead of beef, while others had only sweet bread and coffee, and no meat whatever.

There was also a difference in the formula used at baptism; also in the questions asked the candidates while in the water. Some added to the usual baptismal formula, "and in the death together as a society,' said he. 'it of Christ." But notwithstanding pleased God to enlighten our all these differences they com- minds so far as to see that some muned together, bore with each other in love, and no one tried to domineer over the other in the matter of these minor, non-essential differences.

The Brethren always held that the Gospel was an all-sufficient law. In proof of this, the following conversation took place between and one of the old Brethren. Dr. Franklin was a great friend of the old pioneer Brethren in Germantown, Pa. Our Bro. Cassel has this record in his possession, and as it is a rare gem of our early history, a verbatim extract is given here. In speaking of the Brethren or Dunkards, Franklin says:

"I was acquainted with one of fahrt. He complained to me that they were grievously calumniated by the zealots of other persuasions; and charged with abominable principles and practices, to which they were utter strangers. I told him this had always been the case with new sects, and to put a stop to such abuse, I imagined it might be well to publish the articles of their belief and the rules of their discipline. He said that it had been proposed among them, but not agreed to do so, for this reason, for 'when we were first drawn doctrines which were esteemed truths, were errors; and that others, which we had esteemed errors, were real truths. time to time He has been pleased to afford us further light, and our principles have been improving, and our errors diminishing. Now we are not sure that we are arrived at the end of this progression, and at the perfection of spiritual or theological knowledge, and we fear that if we should print our confession of faith, we should feel ourselves as if BOUND and CONFINED by it, and perhaps be unwilling to receive further improvement; and our successors still more so, as conceiving what their Elders and founders had done to be something sacred-never to be departed from."

This conversation was in about 1748, to which Franklin adds:

"This modesty in a sect is perhaps a singular instance in the history of mankind. Every other sect supposing itself in posses. sion of all truth, and those who differ are so far in the wrong; like a man traveling in foggy weather, those at some distance before him on the road he sees wrapt up in the fog, as well as those behind him; and also the people in the fields on both sides; but near him all appears clear; though in truth he is as much in the fog as any of them," &c.

ing anything that might tend toward a creed or discipline. They were even notfully agreed to the printing of the Elder Alexander Mack's book, for fear it might be regarded as their creed, and that would shackle their progress. To illustrate the danger,

ALEXANDER MACK, JR.,

Refers to the changes they had made in feet-washing. For at first, he says, they did not wash feet until after the Supper and Communion was partaken, and they thought that right. John says, "after Supper," &c. after getting more light, he says, they changed to washing them between the Supper and Commun-Then they were satisfied that now they were right. But it was not long before several highly educated men from Strasburg united with them, who understood the original Greek text. They convinced the Brethren that it meant a finished or a ready prepared supper, instead of an already eaten one. Consequently they were glad and willing to make another change to wash feet when the preparation of the supper was finished or "ended," but before it was eaten or partaken of. Mack gives this as an instance of progress, and to show how easy we can follow our convictions so long as we are not shackled with anything alongside the Word of God.

While on this subject it might ren were in not writing or print. be here stated, that as late as 1809, it was attempted to publish an English translation of Alexander Mack's book, made by our good old brother, Henry Sling-John Binns, of Philadelluff. phia, was engaged to print it. It went to press, and about a fifth part thereof was printed. when the press was stopped for the reasons above given. printed sheets were used waste paper; but happily thirtysix pages of it escaped destruction, and which is now in the possession of Bro. A. H. Cassel.

ANOTHER INSTANCE

of how careful they were in not adding anything to the Word of God, will be found in the fact that in 1743, when old Bro. Christopher Saur printed the first edition of the German Bible, he added four pages of historical matter as an addenda, giving an account of the different books of the Bible, also of the different translations of it, &c. Interesting as this was, many of the Brethren, that had subscribed for it, would not have these pages bound with their Bible, for fear it might be adding to the Word of God. For the same reason some would not allow blank leaves to be inserted for the "Family Record."

Although the Brethren Church was organized in America in 1723, there was until 1742, and no printed min utes, that are, at least, to be found, until Bro. H. Kurtz commenced to print them about 1836 or 1840. Then they were published with considerable opposi-Yet the church had praction. tical printers among its own members almost from its first origin in Europe. Among its first and most prominent members in America were some of the most popular and prominent printers, such as Christopher Saur, Sr. and Jr., and their sons, Elders David Saur and Samuel Saur, beside Peter Seibert and others. Although they attended Annual Meetings, assisted in formulating the advices and decisions—not the laws, as there were none enacted in those days, and also signed them, but never printed any, because they feared the outgrowth which we have since unhappily realized.

The early church held that each congregation had a right to apply law and government without consulting other or adjoining congregations, provided the church could do so to the general satisfaction of its members, and without conflicting with a Gospel principle.

She did not hold that it was necessary for

ADJOINING ELDERS

To be present when members were to be expelled or officers elected. The early congregation never did hold such a doctrine, but enacted their business as each one thought proper. Many old brethren now living say they saw a good many members expelled without any adjoining elder being present, and there are records to show that it was so done long before the actual remembrance of any living. Expulsions have even been accomplished in congregations had no elder, as many had none at that time. It was always done by the voice of the church. Elections were frequently held without any elders being present beside the resident or elder.

The great change that has since taken place in this respect was really never made. It crept in gradually through, or rather by, the self assumed authority of elder ruling. In some localities it made its appearance sooner, and in others later. The seed of this assumption was already sown as early as 1810, which began to sprout quite plentitully in 1840, and in 1866 its most luxuriant growth commenced, and the mundatory act of 1882 was the ripened fruit. ASHLAND COLLEGE,

The record of Ashland lege for the past year has one of decided progress. It is not meant by this that the height of the ambition of the manage-that was bearing it down, and that this swelling tide is raising the institution from the threatening rocks and the indications are very strong that it will soon float calmly out on the sea of prosperity.

Two years ago the enrollment for the first term was 5; last year it was 25, and this year, (at the sixth week) it is 35.

At the close of the school year. Prof. Perry resigned his place as Principal. He gave two reasons; first, his health seemed to demand a release from confining work, and secondly, called on to go and preach the gospel. Mrs. Perry still remains. As a successor to Bro. Perry, the Board secured Prof. W. W. Felger, an able, conscientious Christian gentleman. They are to be aided by Bro. S. E. Shook, experienced teacher and an enterprising business man. whole has been placed under the general oversight of having been connected with the school from the beginning. prospects are bright for a largely increased attendance.

For some cause Bro. Holsinger's report to the convention failed to do justice to the financial management of the institution when he said, "There is a general dissatisfaction with the present management, and there is, at least, some reason for its existence," he should at least ment has been reached, but that have told what there was to say there has been a turn in the tide in favor of said management; that he did not do this will cause disinterested parties to believe that much of this dissatisfaction was in the imagination of the Solicitor.

In his report, he mentions $1504.95 as received on old notes and accounts, while the books of the Auditor and Treasurer, which were always open to his inspection, show a credit, from that source, of $4895.49, so that the interest on the $20,000 had been kept down and some paid on the principal. Notwithstanding this he has listened to complaints against the management without raising his voice in its defense though he was a part of it.

The enthusiasm started Bro. Bashor at the convention, will, we are satisfied, result in the final liquidation of the debt, and all that is now necessary make the school a success is for the Brethren to patronize it; and to encourage them in this would have them remember that if they send, their children to Ashland College, and have them room in the Boarding Hall, they are doing just as much for the College as those who donate fifty dollars, and this without expending any more money than would be required at any other similar school.

THE EARLY CHURCH AND THE IN STALLATION OF OFFICERS.

[For the data in this as well as all other articles on the Early Church, I am indebted to Bro. Abram H. Cassel. E. MASON.]

The pioneer Brethren in the early Church knew nothing of the three degrees in the ministry, and their actions plainly disapprove of it. Abundant proof of this could be shown from their record. But as this practice is so unscriptural, we will be content with the mere denial.

There are overwhelming proofs that deacons were installed by the laying on of hands and prayer. In the first place, we will refer to the old

Which is in Alexander Mack's own handwriting, and which is still extant; where, under date of December 13th, 1761, he says: After a unanimous council, Bro. George Schrieber was by a majority of votes elected to the office of Deacon or Poor Server, to serve with the already confirmed Bro. Henrich Schlingeluff.

Then further on, under date of May 15th, 1766, he says Bro. George Schrieber was, by the laying on of the hands of the Elders, confirmed to serve in the office to which the hand of Providence called him, &c.

More might be quoted from Mack, but we will quote from the commonplace book or

DIARY OF OLD BRO. CHRISTOPHER SAUR.

He says on the 1st of June, 1748. I was chosen with four brethren to the service of the church.

Then, under date of the 8th of the same month, he says, "To-day the care or oversight of the church was laid on me and Alexander Mack, on trial."

Then on 3rd of November, 1748, he says, "I baptized for the first time,"

Under date of June 10th, 1753, he says, "Hands were laid on me, and on Bro, Alexander Mack, and on Bro. Henry Slingluff," &c.

It was the custom of the old Brethren to elect all officers of the church on trial. Then if they proved themselves worthy and useful, they were atter awhile, confirmed in their several offices to which they had been elected by the laying on of hands. the above occasion, four were elected, two for the ministry, and two as deacons or servers. hands were only laid on the above three, because Bro. Urner had left for Coventry, so he was not present at the time, but was afterward confirmed by the laying on of hands, and was a worthy deacon.

Whenever a congregation needed a brother in any capacity, it was their custom, after mutual agreement, to hold an election without any Bishops or adjoining elders being present, and elect brethren to their several offices on trial. Then after giving proof of their efficiency, they sufficient to convince, without a were confirmed fully by laying on of hands.

As a farther proof, we will give another extract from the same diary. It is the account of a little trip through several of the adjoining churches.

He says, Aug. 9th, 1780. I took a journey to the Schuylkill churches [now called Coventry] in Chester Co., Pa., and on the 10th, went with Bro. Martin Urner to the Little Swatara on the 12th, we had meeting there, and laid hands on the following brethren, namely on Bro. Martin Gaby as overseer (varsteher), and on Bro. David Kintzy as speaker (Diener) in Oley, and on Bro. Michael Frantz as overseer. Also on Bren. George Bashor Jacob Meyer as speakers at the Little Swatara. On the 15th, we laid hands on Bro. George Miller at the Big Swatara to confirm him as overseer of the church On the 16th, we went to there. the White Oak church, where hands were laid on Johannes Zug, to confirm him to his office under as overseer, to serve Christel Longenecker. But in case Bro. Longenecker should die, be sick, be on a journey, or move away he is fully empowered to serve in the office. But except in the above cases he should not undertake anything of importance without his council or advice. Had also a large meeting there;" etc.

doubt, that the old church did install all the officers in the church by the laying on of hands. never until they had approved themselves as worthy and useful. This caution they observed with reference to the Apostle Paul's charge to Timothy, (5:22,24,25) where he says, "Lay hands suddenly or hastily on no man, as only some men's sins are open beforehand going to judgment, some men's follow after" etc. Therefore they delayed until they were assured that there were no hidden sins to "open" or "to follow after."

Much may be said of the grand harmony that reigned during those balmy days of old, before priest-craft and elder-rule had such a firm footing; and before meeting Annual and Elder crookedness overcame this primitive order, and established their own ruling power; but as there will be little, if any, glory to God or any good accrue to man, we will abstain.

One thing the church seems to have lost sight of, for which no reason can be given, that is the of Deaconesses. The election early church had them, and the mother church in Germantown had them almost down to the recollection of some brethren still living. They were elected by votes, the same as all other of-In the old church book of Germantown we read as follows:

to the instructions of the Holy Spirit, in 1 Timothy 5:9, 10, and after the manner and order of the Apostolic churches, Sister Margretha Beyerin was, by a majority of votes, elected to the service of the church as a Deaconness."

THE CAUSE OF THE BRETHREN CHURCH IN NEBRASKA.

The Annual of 1887 contains no report of the church in Nebraska, and it becomes necessary, therefore, to refer to the past condition of the membership in this State to make this report intelligible.

The Falls City Church, the principal Brethren church in Nebraska, is located in Richardson county, and worships in a church building, known by the name of the Silver Creek meeting house, four miles north of The house was built Falls City. before the division in the Dunkard church, and is now occupied jointly by the German Baptists and the Brethren. One year ago the clerk, brother Lafayette Messler had enrolled upon his book sixty-five members as belonging to this church.

At Carleton there had been a church partly organized, outside of this there was no other organized church in this state.

Early last spring the church at Carleton was revived by a series "August 20th, 1769, according of meetings, by S. H. Bashor, and eight were added by baptism, and a few by relation, and the church decided to secure a pastor for the ensuing year.

At Holmesville, Gage County, Elders John Nicholson and Samuel C. Stump held a protracted meeting which resulted in an organization of a church and the selection of Elder Nicholson as its pastor. This church now numbers over fifty members, and is in a prosperous condition.

An organization was also effected at Dorchester, in Saline county, by the efforts of Elders

Stump and Nicholson.

The Falls City church held a revival in February, conducted by Elder Nicholson, at which time about forty were added to its membership. Since that time others have been added by baptism and relation, so that the church at the close of the church year of 1887 numbers one hundred and twenty-one members.

Samuel C. Stump, the Elder of this congregation, with the other ministers and the church agreed to call the writer to labor as pastor in this church during the year, which call was accepted, and the same arrangement is to continue another year. Stump has been doing efficient work in his office, in preaching at school houses in the home congregation, and traveling as a missionary, and aims to continue to work in this line. Eld. Stump is the veteran Brethren minister of this State.

During the year Eld. Jacob Gephart was ordained to the full ministry and offers his services as pastor of some church. Elder William Forney preaches occasonally. Elders L. Messler and Joseph Johnson are ministers not actively engaged at preaching, preferring to assist in supporting a minister while they give their attention to other pursuits.

The Somerset church is in this state. I have no data, and do not have the address of any of its members.

On the whole it can be said that the cause in Nebraska is in a prosperous condition and promises good results for the ensuing year. The members, as a whole, are zealous of good works, active, intelligent, progressive.

A CHURCH DEED.

Our experience of late has taught us that we should be very particular in making the deeds for church property. As many of our congregations are building new churches, and it is very essential that the deeds be ironclad to prevent any trouble in the future. We offer the following form, as a suggestion toward this end.

To * * * * * * Trustees, etc., of the Brethren Church, incorporated for the purpose of perpetuating and extending the Christian religion and the influence of the gospel; and which recognizes no creed but the New Testament, and tolerates no interference with congregational control or government.

The wording agrees literally with that of the "Articles of Incorporation" on file in the office of the Secretary of the State of Ohio, at Columbus.

EARLY SCHISMS.

[Through the kindness of Bro. A. H. Cassel, I am able to submit the following. E. Mason.]

The first schism of any consequence was that brought about by Conrad Beissel, who afterward founded the Cloister or Nunnery at Ephrata. He came to this country about 1720, and lived several years with Elder Peter Becker in Germantown, and was baptized by him on Nov. 12th, 1724, and split off from the Brethren in 1734. But most of what relates to him is so well known that I will not give any particulars.

Next, George Adam Martin and John Horn produced a considerable schism betweem 1755 and 1760, at which time they had nearly one hundred followers. The most of them came from the ranks of the Brethren. They afterward united with the German Seventh Day Baptists of Ephrata, Pa. Some account of the leaders may be found in the Cronica Ephratensia.

Still worse was the schism caused by John Ham, a man of great talents and very popular address, who became a Universalist and separated with quite a number from the Dunkers in 1700. He had followers or adherents in Kentucky, Missouri, and in the southern part of Illinois. Some account of him may be found in the Book of Minutes.

Next came the schism caused by David Saur, Abraham Krupp, Charles Hubbs and Michael Corbet, which caused a vast deal of trouble from about 1810 to 1815. The most of them were or had been members of the old mother church of Germantown. One or two of them were baptized by old Bro. Christopher Saur. They were all among the most intelligent men of the times. Hubbs was a doctor of medicine and minister, David Saur was editor and printer and also a minister, Krupp was an author and a profound biblical scholar. In short they considered themselves too intelligent to be governed by ignorance. So after quarrelling several years, they were disowned. They organized themselves and soon adopted single immersion by the backward action. The trouble commenced in the Methatchy church, Montgomery Co., Pa. Some of them afterwards moved to Fayette Co., Pa., and some to Pipe Creek, Maryland, where they also were the cause of much trouble to the church.

The above were about all the early schisms that are worth noticing, until the Bowmanites, Leedyites and Congregational Brethren arose. Besides these there were yet several small schisms such as the Thurmanites, who also called themselves "The Little Flock," "The Holdeman's" and "The Reinholds." But as these were not very extensive and are of comparatively modern occurrence, we will pass them by in silence.

ELD. GEO. WOLFE.

BY H. R. HOLSINGER.

It would afford me pleasure, and doubtless would be a source of satisfaction to the readers of this sketch, if we could furnish the genealogy of our dear brother for several generations; but I have not in hand the data wherewith to inform myself of his ancestry. I can only say that he was born in Union County, Illinois, on the 25th day of June, in the year 1809. Here he grew to manhood, and in his youth was married to Rua Faggart, whom he loved through a long and adventurous life, with all the devotion of a faithful husband. was born in Cabaris County, North Carolina, May 28, 1812, and died May 13, 1880. During my visit to his home in the fall of 1883, he took me to the cemetery, and pointed out her grave, with the remark: "Here rests my faithful wife." He also took me to the grave of his son, Jos. H. Wolfe, who died Oct. 25, 1875. He had been elected to the ministry, but had not yet exercised in the office.

While yet living in Illinois he joined a branch of the Dunkard church, then known in our literature as the "Far Western Breth-Just think of it: Illinois in the "Far West." His uncle, Eld. Geo. Wolfe, Eld. Isham Gibson, Daniel B. Sturges, and others, were leading ministers in that church. Here, too, he was called to the ministry, and ordained in the office, and became an active worker. By action of the Annual Meeting of 1859, this body of people was associated with the general brotherhood of the Dunkard church, but retained some of its peculiar views and In the mean time, practices. however, Eld. Geo. Wolfe, Jr., the subject of this sketch, had removed to California, whither he emigrated in the year 1856, remaining several years in Monterey county, but locating permanently in San Joaquin county, in the fall of 1860, and took a home near what is now called Lathrop. Here, with others, he soon joined in the organization of a church, in which he labored faithfully, to the best of his ability, to the time of his death. Said an outsider to me: "We never considered him much of a a good man, and so when he has entirely died out.

comes to preach, we always go to hear him, and try to give him a full house." And that is about what everybody said, except those who had some religious bias, which was more potent than their admiration of Christian nobility. He was fond of reading the Bible, and was well acquainted with its teachings, and loved to quote its promises. He was kind and generous toward all. Bro. Walter Myers, one of his co-laborers, says of him, as a preacher: "He was well liked; his plain way of telling the story of the Cross, drew the congregation toward him, and they never tired of hearing him speak. 'loved to tell the story' of 'Jesus and his love.' As an exhorter he had few equals, and it has been our privilege more than once, while traveling and preaching with him, to see the whole congregation in tears."

The Annual Meeting of 1874, sent a committee to California to adjust some difficulties. visited the San Joaquin Valley church, in the latter part of Oct. of the same year, only two elders, however, serving, namely B. F. Moomaw and H. D. Davy. the action of this committee he had much to say, the saddest part of it being, that they divided the church, in order to give their pet theory: the double mode of feet washing, a foothold in California. But it did preacher, but we know him to be succeed; that part of the church plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up." Elder Wolfe was censured by the committee for several items of digression from the established usages, but they reported that their decisions and requirements had been complied with, and their report was adopted by conference. All went well from that time, until during the progressive reformation, when the California brethren joined in with the Progressives, and after the Dayton convention, decided to go with the Brethren church. All of which was in full accord with the wishes of Eld. Wolfe.

In a letter to a friend, written in March 1883, after describing the state of the church in Cal. he says: "I am of the same opinion as when you were here, only I think I see the promises of God a little more clearly. We are now in a probationary, temporary, preparatory state, for a higher station. And when the time comes that we can bid farewell to all things here below, we can then explain: O death! where is thy sting?"

About five years ago he had a stroke of paralysis, from which he sustained lameness of one side, especially the right hand. Otherwise he enjoyed fair health, until within an hour of his death, which occured on July 23, 1887, at the age 78 years and 28 days. His son, Bro. John P. Wolfe says of his last days: "His last days truly were his best days likeness taken, was regarded as very progressive. And Elder Fahrney was severely censured by some of his brethren for this act, and it was said at the time, that the severe criticisms, with the implied threats of ecclesiastical investigation, were the cause of his premature death. Among the accusations was that of idolatry; and it was accompanied by

I obtained with the consent of Eld. Wolfe, an extra cabinet photograph, from which the accompanying accurate prot rait has been taken.

ELDER DR. JACOB FAHRNEY.

We are pleased to lay before the patrons and readers of the Brethren's Annual, the face and tentures of one of the representatives of progressive work among the Brethren of the past generations. This we do in presenting the portrait of Dr. Jacob Fahrney, late of Quincy, Penna. It has been copied from a daguerrotype taken way back, early in 1848. At that time, having one's likeness taken, was regarded as very progressive. And Elder Fahrney was severely censured by some of his brethren for this act, and it was said at the time, that the severe criticisms, with the implied threats of ecclesiastical investigation, were the cause of his premature death. Among the accusations was that of idolathe prophecy that his children and friends would have that picture enlarged and hung upon their walls, a prophecy which has already been fulfilled, as can be witnessed in the writer's own house; kut the idolizing or worshipping of it must await the downfall of the intellectual empire and the return of an age of superstition equal to the mental and religious condition of the prophet who made the prediction.

Elder Fahrney was an eminent physician in his day, and practiced his professon in Franklin and Cumberland counties, Penn., and Washington county, Md., for a period ranging between 1821 and 1848. He was also a prominent minister of the Gospel, speaking both the German and English languages, and he was for several years the Elder of the old Antietam church. He was twice married, his first wife having been a Miss Welty, with whom he had several children, one of whom, now deceased, practiced the healing art in Philadelphia. The other one, John, is still living. His second wife was Elizabeth Holsinger, daughter of Elder Jacob Holsinger, for many years the Bishop of the With Antietam congregation. this second marriage he had six sons and four daughters. Two sons and three daughters died in infancy, one daughter, Cathe-The mother rine, is still living. died a number of years ago. Josiah and Daniel still reside at Waynesboro, Pa., and Dr. Peter is located at Chicago and is widely known as a manufacturer of Daniel H. will be remedicines. membered as publisher of the Advocate, Brethren's lived only a few years.

Another indication of the progressiveness of Elder Fahrney, was the radical position he assumed upon the temperance question. In his day it was common, even among church members, to take whiskey into the harvest field, and to give it freely to all working hands. Elder Fahrney, noticing the injurious results of this custom, not only advocated its abolition, but took an active part in inaugurating systematic opposition to it. such reformatory those days measures were not popular in the Dunkard church, and those who advocated them, could all be numbered on the fingers of one hand. In this work brother Fahrney and the late beloved Elder Isaac Price were comtemporary, and we feel assured they are now both reaping a glorious reward for their labors, for the Master has said: "The laborer is worthy of his reward."

H. R. HOLSINGER. The late brother Joseph P. S. Fahrney who lived in Preble Co., Ohio, and died within the last year, was the youngest and last remaining brother of the subject of the forgoing sketch.

ELD. ED. S. MILLER.

Edward S. Miller was born in Somerset county, Penna., Nov. 22nd, 1832, and died June 1st, 1887, aged 54 years, 6 months and 12 days.

Brother Edward S. Miller was the oldest son of brother Jacob D. Miller, still living near Somerset, Pa. His mother was a Saylor, and was a sister to sister Eliza Musselman and sister J. C. Schrock, and they had a brother who died near Falls City, Neb., several years ago. Brother Edward was the oldest of a family of eleven children, most of whom are still living. He was married Feb. 23d, 1859, to Mary Catherine Brewer, of Maryland. daughters, Ida and Orpah, were the fruits of the marriage. These were the care of his wife, and he gave them a fair education and both became members of the church when quite young, and Sister have remained faithful. Ida married brother L. C. Stiffler, of Duncansville, Pa., and now of Waterloo, Iowa, and died some time last Spring. Sister Orpah still remains with her mother, and is in delicate health.

Brother Edward was called to the ministry when quite young, and spent his first years in that ing to teach rather than to en-Somerset county, ın calling among the companions of his youth, and his father's as well, member that I heard him preach and we used to come to hear him more than one sermon. He was relate his early experience among a good writer, and was a conthe old brethren, who then ap- tributor to the several periodicals peared to delight in their young helper. About the first six years of their married life, they resided at Somerset, Pa. Then they Hagerstown, Md., moved to where they lived twenty years, and where he spent the strength of his life, preaching for nothing and selling sewing machines and musical instruments for a livelihood. In Nov. 1884, he removed to Dayton, Ohio, where he resided at the time of death, and was pastor of the Bear Creek church during the first year. He purchased a lot on the corner of Broadway and Amity streets, upon which he was erecting a very comfortable house, where he had expected to make his home, and which was almost completed, but instead of moving into it, he has gone to his heavenly home. He attended the Dayton Convention, and his photograph is in the group of ministers taken at that place, and he is the first to break the circle through death.

Brother Miller was an earnest, intelligent, conscientious, Christian gentleman, a devoted husband and father, an interesting and entertaining companion, and a good neighbor. As a minister he was plain and practical, aimtertain, but appeared to be timid and reserved, and I do not republished by the writer, and a zealous advocate of progression in the Christian life and experience. He was chaste in his language, and pure and tasty in all his personal habits; was opposed to the use of tobacco and intoxicants, war, intemperance and secret societies; and his death is a great loss to the Brethren church. We pray the Lord that He may establish many others in the doctrine of the Gospel to take his place in the ranks. We pray the Lord to sustain and comfort the lonely widow and daughter, now all that are left of the family, and hope the brethren will not neglect to discharge their duty toward them.

His youngest brother, Jacob Jay Miller, Esq., of Pittsburg, Pa., and his eldest sister, wife of Elder Jos. I. Cover, of the Vindicator, were the only relatives present at the funeral, the relatives residing at too great dis-

ELD. JOS. BOWMAN, OF VA.

On the 22nd of August, a telegram was received, bearing the sad news of the death of Eld. Jos. Bowman, of Rockingham Co. He was buried on the 24th. A faithful soldier has fallen by the stroke of comour alwho mon enemy, one promotion of the kingdom of by them meant trials and perse-

Christ, and beloved by all. Bro. Bowman was an unassuming Christian gentleman and served his church faithfully; his appointments were always filled, rain or snow. We can surely say he has fought a good fight. His trials in life's pathway were more than most have to endure. During the years 1867-68, when definite time was preached by Thurman and others, Bro. Bowman, with a number of other brethren and sisters, gave their time to the study of prophecy and believed the time was at hand. Also being strong advocates of single mode of feet washing, the German Baptists passed ruling against them. They received a number into their body by trine immersion. As time went on they were reviled and lightly spoken of, when quite a number of the band knocked at the door of the general church for fellowship. It was granted to all of the old members, but those who were baptized during the time must be rebaptized. Some yielded, others who looked at the matter from a scriptural standpoint, doubted the propriety of such a course.

Here was a trying time for this noble man. To be with the "Old church" was his choice, but to desert those who were received in good faith, leaving them without a shepherd, was more than his Christian disposiways was ready to work for the tion could entertain. To stand

IN MEMORIAM.

MARY ANN KEIM was born April 12, 1855. On August 31, 1873, she was married to Jonas M. Keim, of Louisville, Ohio. Bro. Keim was , left with one boy about two years old when his first companion died. Sister Mary undertook the care and control of the little household, and love swayed the sceptre of happiness over the home.

On Sunday evening, Nov. 13th, 1887, her spirit calmly and serenely took its flight into the presence of her God, in whom she so earnestly trusted. She had suffered much and long, but was full of faith and hope, and bore all un-complainingly. The brief inscription, "At rest," on the lid of the casket was the true condition of her soul.

She was only known to be loved. Her hope and faith in Christ and his promises were bright and steadfast in a superlative degree. She needs no eulogy from mortal lips. Her life, words and actions shine out brightly. and are indelibly impressed upon the memory of those with whom she came in contact. We do not believe that such a life with such a record should go by unnoticed and unmentioned.

She was not only true to her home and family, but was an earnest, constant and devoted worker in the church. Religion with her was not a mere sentiment, but a heart work. She was for years a teacher in the Sabbath The large class of bright children that met her each Sabbath were strongly attached to their teacher. Many attempts were made to divide the class, but the children would not consent to leave her. The heavily draped chair which was placed at the head of the casket on the funeral day, with silent eloquence spoke volumes for the respect of her scholars and co-

Within the last few months of her life she had set her heart on raising a certain sum for the Ohio Home Mission Fund, in addition to the much she had already done. When she became too sick to go around any more, and the amount was still a far way from being raised, with her characteristic liberality she gave what was lacking. She was a substantial friend of Ashland College. Although she had already given liberally, and had induced her husband to give a handsome donation, only a short time ago she sent $50 more, so anxious was she to see the institution clear of debt.

A few weeks before her death, I was called to Louisville, to hold a protracted meeting. She had set her heart on enjoying these meetings. But God ordained otherwise. She requested to be anointed in the name of the Lord, according to the admonition of the apos. tle James. This was done on Tuesday, October 18th, immediately after which she took her seat at the Lord's table, and partook of the communion. effort to do this was a great task on her strength, but she relied on the Lord and he strengthened her. The next day she was obliged to remain in her bed, which she never left during life.

On the day following she requested a private conversation with me. called for the Bible and Hymn book, and we selected the hymns, scripture lesson and text to be used at her funeral. I asked her if these conversations about her death and funeral did not make her feel sad. "Oh no," was the calm reply, "why should I feel sad when I am going home to Jesus?" Then seeing my tears she said, "Why do you weep? You would not have me remain here to suffer?" Oh, what a sermon this humble and earnest follower of Christ preached by her childlike trust in her Savior.

Her sufferings toward the last were great, and all that love could do did not seem to alleviate them. During the silent watches of her last night on earth, she spent in earnest prayer and communion with God. A friend coming in to see her a few hours before she passed away, asked her, "Are you still resting in Jesus?" "Yes, if it were not for him I would get discouraged." Thus ended a life, 13 years of which was spent in activity in the Lord's service. The immense congregation present at the funeral, the tears shed throughout the whole service, tells of the respect and love of those who knew her.

The funeral was preached in the Brethren church at Louisville, by the undersigned, from the words, "And there was no more sea," Rev. 21: 1. The casket was lowered into the grave, amid the sobs of the heart-broken relatives, and the strains of "Shall we meet beyond the river?"

Yes, brother Jonas, hold on to the promises, you will meet your beloved wife on yonder happy shore. And you Bro. Charlie, look up, the Lord's promises are yea and amen to all that believe. We shall all meet on that "evergreen shore," if we trust and lean on the everlasting arms of God.

KIEHL-These remarks preface a brief biographical sketch of sister Libbie Kiehl, wife of Bro. Samuel Kiehl, pastor of the Brethren church, of Dayton, Ohio. She was born in Montgomery county, Ohio, April 9th, 1829. Her maiden name was Shoup, belonging to the large and respectable families of that name. In the year 1846 she married John Folkerth, with whom she had four sons: George, Charles, Ethan and Truman, all still living and all honorable and worthy men, the first two being members of the Brethren church. Charles resides in Los Angelos, California, at present, and the others live in Dayton. After the death of Folkerth, in the year 1861, she mar-ried brother Samuel Kiehl, from which union she received two, sons and a daughter, Chester, Ambrose and Mary; the latter was born of her sister who died a few hours after, but reared and loved as her own, and consequently was loved and is mourned as a mother. Ambrose and Mary are also members of the Brethren church. She was a member of the Brethren church for a number of years, and in the late troubles shared the same fate as many others of us,

Sister Kiehl was a good woman; kind, humble, devoted and pious. She was a faithful, dutiful wife, and to her husband truly a helpmeet. As a mother she was kind and self-sacrificing, and raised her children for good and usefulness, and the esteem in which she was held by her children shows how well she did her work: "They rise up and call her blessed." It was a pleasure to be in the home of such a family, and perhaps for that reason so many of our ministers participated in their hospitalities, and will testify to these facts.

Sister Kiehl did indeed set her house in order. When she became afflicted, she sent for the elders and was anoint-When it became apparent that her "sickness would be unto death," she meekly resigned herself to the will of God, and in an earnest prayer entreated the Father to bless her husband and children.
