WINONA LAKE, IND., SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1906

PRICE 3 CENTS.

LAST DAY OF FESTIVAL

Thomas Orchestra Closes Fine Series of Concerts at Winona Park—
Mrs. Edmunds the Soloist.

The Theodore Thomas Orchestra closes its series of twelve splendid concerts at Winona Lake this afternoon and evening. It has been a week that was rich in music, and not only has the attendance run well over the general expectations, but the music lovers gathered on the shores of the Winona waters have come from many states. It is doubtful if more representative people of the cultured classes of the Middle West ever came together for a summer season of music. One of the charms of the six days here has been the splendid audiences.

The great orchestra, which makes its home in Chicago, but which belongs to all America, for it is a representative American symphony orchestra, has this week to a very marked degree progressed in its high purpose—that of helping Americans to a higher standard of living through the knowledge of good music. This orchestra has, while here, made a warm place for itself in the heart of many thousand people who have through many years heard the magic words, "Thomas Orchestra," but who did not until orchestra and music lover met at Winona realized the full meaning of the words.

People who have from day to day been to the concerts have been pleased to single out some master musician in the organization and in following his efforts, as far as possible among so many, have found him to be an artist. It is in truth an orchestra of artists. Genial Frederick Stock, the conductor, whose good humor bubbles over in his work, has heaped up the measure of enjoyment for the people who have watched him and heard his musicians play by giving unusual programs and a generous number of encores. The common impression about Winona Park is that the mantle of Theodore Thomas has fallen upon the right shoulders.

The people who have come to Winona for the concerts have not been in a critical or fault-finding mood. With the music of the world's masters, played by one of the orchestras of the age, and visitors have found pleasure in their outdoor life among the fountains, flowers and trees of Winona, as well as in the music they have heard.

The last solos of the week will be heard this afternoon, when Mrs. Edmunds will sing. Her extraordinary voice has won the plaudits on two other afternoons, and her personal charms have won for her many friends when she was not appearing with the orchestra. Her singing has been one of the treats of the week. The other soloists have also enriched the programs. In years to come there is present promise that musical affairs will be measured in all directions by the standard fixed by "Thomas week of 1906."

Another audience that filled the auditorium and the space around its windows heard the orchestra last night. A special train brought 300 people from Anderson and Wabash.

The Golf Tournament.

The regular weekly golf tournament will come off at 10 o'clock this morning. It will be at eighteen holes, medal play, handicap. All golfers on the Park are invited to enter. Entry fee 50c. The prizes will be balls.

The Orchestra and Its Soloists

By E. J. Fluegel, of Purdue University

Somebody was overheard saying after Thursday night's concert: "Either I was particularly bright tonight, or else they played lighter music." Probably neither one was the case, but that person, as many others, no doubt, begin to have an understanding of the nature of this music about which "there is lots of science," as someone else said. Berlioz, the French master of instrumentation, who, like the proverbial prophet, was not appreciated by his countrymen, at least not till after his death, gave us another exhibition of his art, this time the overture, "Carnival Romain," a piece which brilliantly characterizes this gayest of all gay times of mediæval and modern Rome.

Goldmark, an excellent Hungarian composer, would have been charmed if hearing his Wedding March and Variations from his symphony, "A Country Wedding," played as it was. Beautiful the way in which the melody is first given by the cellos, taken up by the horns, then by the violins, at last the ensemble works it all up to a slow movement, after that dances, fascinating in all their variations. This was, of course, encored.

Svendsen's Scherzo Scherzando followed, by special request, for which no one was sorry. To give an adequate idea of Bruno Steindel's playing, one would have to be a musician equally great as he is. Because, as Mendelssohn once wrote home of the deep impression which the wild Norwegian scenery had made upon him, "It cannot be told, it must be played." It takes, to play such music, apart from technique, which can be acquired by consistent hard work, a man with a genius for music and a soul, who does not walk along in life stupidly, but with eyes and heart open, is susceptible for the wonders of nature, full of sympathy with man's joys and woes, with the struggles, defeats and victories of peoples, it takes a man, a big hearted man.

There is gentleness, there is strength, there is grand conception, there is that tone, that mellow tone which like a current of warm, pulsating life, flows into the listeners' hearts, creating joy of life, longing for the ideal, ethical values. Probably no other instrument has such profound effect as the violoncello when played by a master like Mr. Steindel.

His program had been changed, the first being "O cara memoria," by Servais, with orchestral accompaniment, the second Delilah's aria in which she confesses her love to Samson, from Samson and Delilah, by Saint-Saens, arranged for cello and harp by Mr. Steindel himself, and as an encore, "Ave Maria," by Gounod.

The wonderful effect of the whole was brought about in no small degree by Mr. Singer's perfect and artistic playing of the harp. The second part of the program consisted of Wagnerian music exclusively, the overture of the "Fliegende Holländer" (Flying Dutchman), one of Wagner's first operas which centers in the idea of a pure maiden sacrificing herself to redeem the beloved man, a favorite idea in all of Wagner's poetry, with the sea as the scenery. The "Siegfried Idyll" was shortened somewhat, but quality counts here not quantity. The last two pieces formed remarkable contrasts, the tender "Vorspiel Lohengrin," and the thundering Ride of the Valkyries.

On Friday afternoon the first numbers were a march by Moszkowski (not March Heroique by Saint-Saens), the composer of "Carmen," Bizet's overture "Patrie," which is full of patriotic melodies, telling of the hopes and sorrows and triumphs of glorious France, and by request, Hahdel's Largo, which gave the second concert master, Mr. Esser, and opportunity to win the general favor and admiration.

After this, Mr. Howard Wells, of Chicago, displayed brilliant technique and artistic conception on the piano in Concerto for Pianoforte in G minor by Saint-Saens. The only circumstance that marred the pleasure of listening was the excessive heat in the auditorium, by which the players, too, must have suffered greatly. After the first number of the second part, Mendelssohn's overture, "Fingal's Cave," the famous Funeral March by Chopin, orchestration by Theodore Thomas, was rendered in a manner that surely pleased the master in his grave. Haydn's popular Theme and Variations "Kaiser Franz" and Tschalkowsky's "Capriccio Italiano" closed the matinee.

The fact that we will have the orchestra for only three more concerts is the only thing that we regret in these hours of ideal enjoyment. But let us hope for next year.

SEATS FOR KILTIES CONCERTS.

Sale for Season Seats Will Open on Next Wednesday.

The sale of reserved seats for the Kilties concerts will begin at the Administration building at 9 o'clock next Wednesday morning, and will be conducted along lines followed when seats for the Thomas orchestra were sold. For the first three days of the sale only season tickets for seats at night concerts will be sold, the price being a dollar. After Saturday, August 11, no season tickets for reserved seats will be sold. On Monday, August 13, the day of the first concert, the sale of seats for single concerts will open, and will continue each morning from 9 to 12 o'clock, these seats being 25 cents each.

For the convenience of Warsaw people, orders for season reserve-seat tickets will be received at the Winona Interurban station. On August 13, the sale of seats for single concerts will also begin at the interurban station.

The greatest Scottish band in the world, and the pride of all Canada, is a permanent touring organization with its headquarters at Belleville, Canada. The Kilties have no connection with any regiment, although practically all of its members have served in the Canadian regiment bands. The Kilties have been touring constantly during the past five years, playing the important cities in Canada, United States, Mexico and Europe, during which time 125,000 miles have been covered. The Kilties were the only Canadian band honored with an engagement at the World's Fair, St. Louis, and the only Canadian band to make trans-continental tours.

The Kilties were twice commanded by H. M. King Edward VII, appearing at Balmoral Castle, Sept. 27, 1904, and at Sandringham House, Nov. 9, same year, the latter date being the occasion of the King's sixty-third birthday. The European tour took in every important city in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, where they were received with open arms, and in many cases were officially received by the lord provosts, mayors and magistrates.

Bible School Schedule.

The schedule for the Bible classes in Bible hall during all of next week will remain as during this week except that Dr. Rogers will speak on Job and Amos at 3 p. m. instead of 3:45.

LANDSCAPES OF WINONA

Report of High Authorities on What May Be Done in the Way of Improvements.

Olmstead Brothers, of Brookline, Mass., regarded as the highest authorities in this country on artistic landscape work, have made a report to the Winona Assembly as to possibilities in the way of further improving the grounds on the shores of Winona lake. The Olmsteads have directed the improvement of the landscapes of forty-seven of the largest educational institutions of the United States and have made the plans for the improvements of many public parks and scores of private estates. They were employed by the Assembly to go over the Winona grounds and the suggestions in the report are being worked out as rapidly as possible.

The report on what may be accomplished on the Winona grounds was made after a personal and thorough inspection of the big tract which comprises the Winona realty holdings. The Assembly has already done much work from suggestions by the Olmsteads, but the report shows that a great deal more can be done, that the Assembly has only begun the development of landscape possibilities here.

One of the most important improvements which the landscape artists have in mind is a circuit drive entirely around the lake, which would, by crossing the mouth of the bay at the northwest corner of the lake, be about 3½ miles, which would help open some beautiful tracts of ground for summer homes. The Olmsteads suggest that it would be best to have two roads around the lake—one to be along or close to the shore for pleasure driving and walking, and the other to be utilized by street car tracks and heavy teaming. The streets should be about 100 feet wide. The sidewalk on the lake front should be twenty-five feet wide on each side of which double rows of shade trees should be planted. The sidewalks of the other street should be fifteen or twenty feet wide with single rows of trees. It is further suggested that at five or six intervals in the course around the lake these two main thoroughfares should be accented by passing through open square or circles, or around a monument, a fountain or a public building site. Each such spot would tend to become a local center upon which the more important buildings should front. The idea is to keep away from the more improved boulevard the confusion and noise arising from street car traffic and teaming. But, it is thought, a street car line around the lake is needed, as it would greatly shorten the distance people now have to go to the cars.

The report recommends that Chestnut avenue be widened and reconstructed in preparation for an extension of the car line which now terminates at the north end of the Assembly grounds. The avenue, the report says, should be extended to the north, past the Winona hotel to connect with the road to Warsaw near the present entrance, at which an arch may well be erected. The space between the Winona hotel and the Pennsylvania station should be developed as an ornamental ground of such shape as to bring the two buildings into some recognizable relation with each other. Where Chestnut avenue turns an angle, a circle of moderate size, with a tall slim monument in the center, would be an appropriate feature. The report suggests that at the other end of Chestnut avenue, it would be well to lay out a very large circle around a tower on Indian Mound, which should be left with its growth of trees. Then the avenue could start off at an angle, perhaps to pass west of Chicago Hill, or to the east of it.

The Olmsteads say that in building the drive around the lake strips of land of considerable size should be left between the drive and lake that should not be occupied by buildings. Where the shore is so meandering as to make it awkward to conduct the main drive continuously along it, there may be branch pleasure drives following the shore. It is objectionable, the report says, to have dwellings and other buildings between the public drive and the lake, especially if such buildings back upon the lake.

In addition to the suggested shore reservations, the Olmsteads would have intervals of considerable areas set aside for landscape effect and recreation purposes. The little park in which the principal Assembly buildings now stand is an excellent illustration of this type of pleasure ground.

The report suggests that trees be planted on the bare farming land which is now owned, or which may be acquired, by the Assembly management. "The Assembly is now such a firmly established and growing institution," the report says, "that it must be recognized that the number of people who will congregate or walk across the park will constantly increase. Hence, every effort should be made not only to protect the park from encroachments by buildings, but we strongly recommend the removal from time to time all of the large buildings now on the park." This suggestion was in large measure carried out by the Assembly last spring, when the large business buildings were moved back toward the lake.

The Olmsteads think that the only large building that could be placed in the park as it has been developed, would be an auditorium, so planned that its floor could be at or below the surface of the surrounding ground, that the sides might be opened in pleasant weather. It might be desirable, the report says, to have two auditoriums, one of the open type to hold uncommonly large crowds, and the other not on the park, but facing it, possibly in a form resembling a theater, for moderate sized audiences during inclement weather.

Another suggestion of the Olmsteads, which the Assembly has carried out was the erection of roomy open pavilions, one being on McDonald Island, another near The Inn and a third near Marshall Memorial. It is also suggested that a restaurant with a large paved area under the trees be built in connection with the park. Or such a restaurant might be situated in ample grounds of its own on the shore of the lake, from which the fullest advantage in the way of a lake view should be available.

"In the existing park," the report says, "there are too many trees to remain permanently." There should be two main walks, the report further says, one tolerably near the east side of Park avenue, to serve the purpose of an ordinary sidewalk, and yet be more parklike, and the other walk should be near the base of the little bluffs on the east side of the park.

It is suggested that the remainder of the ground on which Mount Memorial is located should be kept free from dormitories, and given to work buildings for students. The planting of elm trees in such a way that they would ornament the campus of the Agricultural Institute building is also recommended.

"The railroad grounds are much in need of improvement," the Olmstead report says. "These grounds should be made to extend as far southeast as a point opposite the south end of the hotel, and as far northwest as the arch under the railroad. The steep railroad embankments should be filled out with gentle slopes, easing off gradually at the bottom to join graceful lawns. Shade trees should be planted, but not in such quantities as will unduly obscure the views from the station and from the railroad trains. The ornamental planting should be done mostly with shrubbery, and a graceful approach drive on easy grades should be constructed, instead of the present extremely steep and awkward one."

The grounds outside the entrance building, the report further suggests, should be improved with shrubbery and a few trees. The street railway loop should be made less conspicuous than at present by the planting of shrubbery and the pleasure driving approach from Warsaw should be improved. "This is such a big problem that it cannot be accomplished all at once, but Park avenue could at once be extended west of the electric railway, where the railway now impinges upon the shore of the lake. "Very much would be gained," the report says, "if the Assembly should insist upon certain rules in the appearance of buildings. For instance, there should be a uniform building limit line adopted for each block or street, which would permit of door-yards before verandas and bay windows. The height of buildings in certain lots or blocks should be limited. The use of flat tin roofs and false fronts should be prohibited. Purchasers of lots should be induced, if not required by deed or lease, to follow certain styles in building on particular streets, and the coloring of buildings should be supervised with a view to a reasonable degree of harmony on a certain street, or part of a street."

The Olmsteads think that the Winona hotel is much too close to the Pennsylvania railroad and that instead of enlarging it, a new hotel should be built at the south end of McDonald Island, or on the bluff overlooking the bay between the Island and the Biological Station.

"The Assembly should take a broader and bolder view of the future of their enterprise now that it is firmly established," the Olmstead report says. "It should study comprehensive plans for the probable requirements of future generations, when the public will come to have complete faith in the enterprise. Then plenty of able men will turn to aid it, abundant funds will flow into the enterprise and thousands of patrons will flock to it, not only for summer instruction and entertainment, but as a permanent place of residence, where they can live with every essential comfort of a city at less expense, and away from the degenerate and unfortunate members of society who crowd the larger cities."

ARRIVAL OF THE AIRSHIP.

Navigator Reaches Winona Lake With His Monster "Columbia."

A. J. Bodkin, Captain Mattery and a force of about fifteen men are at Winona Lake with their airship "Columbia," which is to give flights above the lake every day next week when the winds are favorable. Unloading the monster and all the equipment that goes with it at the Pennsylvania railroad station and getting the outfit down into the park is similar to unloading a circus. The airship itself is the easiest handled of all the equipment. While the balloon when expanded is a hundred feet long, when it is not inflated it can be stored in a trunk of generous size. The big bag is made of purest Japanese silk and contains 2,200 yards of this material. Captain Mattery guards the material like a bride does her wedding gown.

With the airship are the engines, steering gears and other appliances which are carried into the air. In addition, a big machine has been brought to the lake which will generate the gas which will be turned into the bag of silk. The machine, which uses gasoline, will be in operation every day, filling the bag after the older supply of gas oozes out.

When the Columbia is not in the air cutting figure 8's, it will be in a tent near Duke's fountain, where the animal shows were given during the summer. The aerodrome came with the rest of the outfit, and it will probably be tonight before the whole arrangement is ready, and on Monday will be ready for visitors. During the week lectures will be given in the aerodrome every hour, when Captain Mattery will discuss aerial navigation.

"A Princess of Winona."

The Winona Park book store has had a lively sale this season of a new Winona story, "A Princess of Winona." It is a being strikingly illustrated with green and beautiful souvenir of the park and lake, black pictures which are highly finished. The story is that of a girl and a bass, and a young man who caught them both, and it also contains the true story of Indian Mound. The book was written by a newspaper man who gathered his material first hand, while spending last summer at Winona Lake, the Assembly bringing out the booklet in the spring. The story is printed on eiderdown paper and has a deckle-edge cover in an attractive blue shade.

Porch Party.

Mrs. L. N. Kramer, at her cottage, the Sterling, gave a delightful porch party yesterday for the people of Frankfort, Ind., who are on the grounds. Light refreshments were served.

THE KINGS OF THE EAST

Dr. Rogers Turned Searchlight on Hidden Meanings of Chapter of Genesis.

The warmer the day the larger the crowds that go to hear Dr. Robert W. Rogers in his lectures at Bible School Hall. "Abraham and the Kings of the East" was the subject for yesterday and Dr. Rogers, made these stories of ancient kings and their exploits as interesting as fairy tales. "Well may the Jewish people swell with pride with such an ancestor as Abraham," said Dr. Rogers.

The fourteenth chapter of Genesis, in the light of recent discoveries, stands forth and fills a tremendous place in human history. Dr. Rogers said that a long space should separate the thirteenth and fourteenth chapters of Genesis, also that the fourteenth and fifteenth should be separated by the same space. The purpose of this is to see the fourteenth chapter in its entirety and learn that Abraham belongs not to Israel, but to the whole world.

Here Abraham is placed in his proper setting among the greatest kings of ancient times. These kings mentioned in Genesis 14 absolutely disappeared from human history and even up to 1869 it was thought that some Jewish scribe made these names up and placed them as persons contemporary with Abraham.

"But," said Dr. Rogers, "we live in an age when the ancient Orient is alive again." No romance of research equals this Bible research. In 1883 this research culminated in a complete restoration of this fourteenth chapter of Genesis. In that year an Assyrian tablet was translated that told of Eri-aku, the powerful hero, the presence of Ur, and the King of Larsa-Ellasar. This is the same man mentioned in Genesis 14 and from this inscription is also learned that in 650 B. C., Eri-aku led an army into the land of Elam, ravished the country and found there an exile from Babylonla. Reading the inscription on the back he found this exile was the poor goddess Nana, who had been carried in 2285 B. C., into Elam.

Eri-aku felt sorry for this goddess that had been so long a captive and decided to carry her back to Babylonla. To "get even" with the Elamites, he carried their goddess Lagamam with him into Babylonla. This is all found to be true of the Eri-aku of Genesis.

Amraphel was for a long time a puzzle to scholars. Then it was found that Amraphel and Hammurabi were the same man, with a different spelling of the name. It was he who ruled to 538 B. C., and made Babylon the great world power. Written on the old tablets one reads the story of his life. In 538, he acted as judge in the first case of bribery ever known. That bribery really existed at this early date is proved and Hammurabi gave the order that the offender be brought in bonds to Babylon and there tried.

The same ruler developed Babylon, dug canals everywhere and opened up a great river traffic. One now understands the passage of Scripture where it says, "By the rivers of Babylon they sat down." Dr. Rogers said that some wonder why they sat down by the rivers of Babylon. The answer is easy. There was no place else to sit, for Babylon was a perfect network of rivers or canals.

Dr. Rogers said he has but lately returned from a study of newly discovered Elamite tablets that are now in the Louvre, Paris. Here he saw the four black stones that are the most important of all modern discoveries. The inscriptions run in belts around the stone and contain the legal code of Hammurabi. Here are the 283 laws that cover every phase of social and individual life. Here were laws on marriage, but none on divorce, and laws on inheritance and here in this legal code, written nearly 600 B. C. one finds that the widow is given one-third of the property of her husband. Here the great ruler Hammurabi conquered all of Babylonla and came into the west leading the captive kings of the east.

But with all this, Dr. Rogers said, it did not prove that all found in the fourteenth chapter of Genesis was historical. But he with many other had a historical certainty of Abraham, and he felt that great discoveries were coming.

Dr. Rogers said he was ready to hear any new thing about the Scriptures, sure in his own mind that it would but uphold the power of God.

From these fragments that are but dust of history one can think of Abraham, not as a man who came out of the wilderness, but as one who lived in a great civilization. Abraham came out of Ur, a city noted for its fine linens and pottery. He was distinctly a man of the city and from his setting among these greatest of old rulers he seems to have grown even greater than ever before.

CONCERT AT GOLF LINKS.

New Addition for Summer Homes Will Be Opened on August 7.

The Warsaw Band will on next Tuesday morning give a concert on the golf links to mark the opening of a new tract of ground for summer homes. The entire golf links has been platted and the high, beautiful stretch overlooking Winona Lake will doubtless within a few years be thick with comfortable homes and this is your opportunity to get in on the ground floor and make your selection.

Many people of means who are at the lake and who are making inquiries of real estate values are turning their attention to this new addition, from which no lots will be sold until August 7. There is not a tract of land more delightfully situated for home building or investment purpose than this one and that there will be a great many lots sold on next Tuesday is already assured.

Remember that on all sales made and closed on this day only a discount of 5 per cent will be made. Come early and hear the good music.

BABY THAT DIDN'T CARE.

It "Tied Up" Soloist and Orchestra and Won Its Point.

A baby that was not in sympathy with the quality of music which the Thomas orchestra was giving, "tied up" the concert of Thursday afternoon while it entered a lusty protest. The afternoon was warm, and a mother, who is a music lover, and who had no one with whom to leave her baby, took the youngster to the balcony of the auditorium. The baby stood the playing of a heavy overture by the orchestra, and as the second number, to be sung by Mrs. Edmunds, was on the point of beginning, the infant set up an objection. It cried.

If there is anything that Mr. Stock, conductor of the orchestra, will not tolerate, it is a noise which destroys the airy castles of music which his master-musicians build up. With his baton in the air, Mr. Stock waited on the infant. The singer stood near at hand, but she was not impatient, for she remembered that she has three chubby youngsters playing about Winona Park. The musicians had their instruments in readiness for the signal from the conductor. Maybe four or five thousand people were in the auditorium and about the open windows outside. Everybody was waiting on the baby. It didn't care. It wanted out of the balcony into the park, where it could see the flowers and drink of every fountain that it went by.

Mr. Stock kept his baton in the air and rolled his eyes toward the offender in the balcony. He was not going to match the harmonious music of his highly skilled musicians against the crying talent of one twenty-pound baby. So conductor, singer, orchestra and audience waited. The baby didn't care. A minute went by. Mr. Stock kept his eyes on the baby, and still had the baton poised above his head. The music would start the first instant the baby would cease its protest. But the baby didn't care.

The baby was well into the second minute of its effort. The outlook for conductor, singer, orchestra and audience was not bright. If the baby realized that it was robbing the singer and orchestra of attention, it didn't care. It was going to get out of the heated balcony. There is nothing in classical music—to babies—anyhow.

Mr. Stock, with the baton still on high, could not tell whether he would finish the musical number in hand in time for the night concert or not, so he tried to compromise with the competitor in the balcony.

"Madam," he said to the mother of the disturber, in a voice that blended command with appeal, "this will not do."

So the mother thought. But the baby didn't care. It took a new breath and started again. As the mother carried it out the door and started down the balcony stairs, the baby crowed with a note of triumph. Mr. Stock cut the air with his baton, the singer and orchestra took up the signal, and the afternoon concert went on.

On Thursday night a red-haired baby—there are mothers who say that red-haired babies are the very best kind—took a turn at holding up the Thomas orchestra. The infant did not cry—red-haired babies seldom do. But it kept its prattle going, and the orchestra could not proceed until the baby tongue was still. Mothers are finding that Thomas orchestra concerts are a poor place to take their baby boys and girls.

MORE ROOMS ARE NEEDED.

Winona and Warsaw People Asked to Send Lists to Bureau of Information.

Carl D. Breckenridge has been placed in charge of the Bureau of Information at the general offices, Winona Park, where a list of boarding houses and rooms is being collected, so that visitors who have not engaged accommodations in advance may be directed to find quarters. Lodgings that are available at Warsaw, as well as at Winona Lake, are being listed. Persons who have vacant rooms at present, or in prospect, are requested to make an immediate report to Mr. Breckenridge, in person, by phone, or by mail, and those of whom inquiry is made concerning board or lodgings may refer the applicants to the general offices.

WASTE IN EDUCATION

Prof. DuBois Was Speaker Yesterday
 Afternoon at Summer School
 Convocation.

Prof. H. E. DuBois, principal of the Winona Academy, made an address on "Waste in Education" at the convocation yesterday afternoon. This address, one of the most interesting that has been given in this se-

Bols. "So delicate and so difficult is the task of training the youth and especially in these strenuous and stimulating days that great is the need of wisdom in the expenditure of so much time and money.

"What is true economy?" said Prof. DuBois, and answered with "not stinginess, not penuriousness, not hoarding, but the wise and judicious use of our possessions. It is opposed to wastefulness. We economize when we get the greatest good out of that which we expend."

The teacher's poor preparation, the loss of time in the school room, the teaching of irrelevant subjects or topics and the neg-ries of 4 o'clock lectures, presented a great deal of thought.

"It is my honest conviction that the whole problem of education is an intensely practical one and that the schools to be most effective must retain the confidence and support of the people," he said.

"Such confidence can be retained in one way and only one way, and that is, by giving full and ample returns for the money expended. This applies not only to teachers, but to school officers and all concerned. This subject, 'waste,' is a very vital one in all lines of business, all arts, all trades and all professions," said Prof. Du-Bois. "So delicate and so difficult is the task of training the youth and especially in these strenuous and stimulating days that great is the need of wisdom in the expenditure of so much time and money.

DR. DAWSON AT WINONA

Famous English Preacher Will Deliver Sunday Sermon—Other Events of the Day.

Dr. W. J. Dawson, the famous English preacher, will speak at Winona on next Monday evening, instead of the day announced yesterday, and Prof. J. W. Crooks, of Amherst College, will speak on Tuesday night. Dr. Dawson will also preach at Winona on Sunday morning and will lead the Hillside service in the evening. He is one of the greatest preachers who speaks the English tongue. He was born in England and entered the Wesleyan ministry in 1875. For two years he preached in John Wesley's pulpit in Wesley's Chapel, London and later he was at Glasgow, Scotland. He went back to London to take up work in 1892. He has not only gained fame as a preacher, but as an author, producing books on literature as well as novels. He has since coming to this country become as well known as in Great Britain.

Dr. Rogers, who has firmly established himself with hundreds of people who are hearing him every day, will have an attractive subject when he speaks at Bible School Hall at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. It will be "Where Was the Garden of Eden?" Dr. Rogers' research in the British Museum, where he spends much time about every year, and his explorations in the ancient cities of the Holy Land, gives him a voice of authority on Biblical questions, and there are few of more popular interest than that of the land of Eden and where it is supposed to have existed.

The meeting of the Y. W. C. A. will be held in the auditorium at the usual time. The leader for the evening will be Miss Helen White, and the topic, "God and Mammon," Matthew 6:24. All the young ladies on the Park are invited to attend.

Madonna in Needlework.

Raphael's Sistine Madonna, as reproduced in needlework by Miss Clara Ripberger, of Dresden, is on exhibition in one of the buildings west of the auditorium. It is a full sized copy of the original, eight by ten feet, with the same coloring, and was a part of the German government exhibit at the St. Louis exposition.

The Virgin appears floating upon the air at the opening of a window. The clouds above her are hazy with cherub faces. On the window sill below two angels appear. Santa Barbara is seen on the right and Pope Sixtus on the left in attitudes of adoration.

The principal figures are of the Mother and the Child. There is a remarkable likeness between them. Both have the great brown eyes, but the expression is quite different. The Mother's look is sad. She knows the suffering that will come to her Child. The eyes of the Child have the look of a man. There is a strong power in them. He seems to know His destiny, but is not frightened. He knows that the Father has sent Him to redeem the world. The admission to see the picture is 25 cents for adults; children under 14 years of age accompanied by parent or guardian free.

"Thy Will Be Done."

One of the attractive pictures of Christ, one of ten on exhibition at the Deguerre building, bears the title, "Thy Will Be Done." It was painted by William H. Crane and it, as well as the whole collection, is the original. The Crane picture represents the Christ in the extreme instant of the despair and agony which seized upon Him when He was tempted to pass by the supreme trial. The haggard, shrunken, bloodless figure and face are terrible when the imagination clothes them with the inconceivable load of agony and suffering being endured. No fear of physical death could produce such a mental state.

Picnic at Chicago Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fristoe, in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holman, of Rochester, Ind., entertained fourteen guests at a picnic at Chicago Hill.

THE TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Exciting Finish When the Finals Were Played Out.

The most exciting finish that a Winona tennis tournament has ever had was seen yesterday afternoon when Reed and Manning played out the finals. Reed had been sick the night before and Manning had played three hard matches earlier, but neither of these things was apparent in the play of the two contestants. Brilliant rallies, fast volleying and hard driving were the rule, not the exception, and the gallery which filled the arbor all around the court, applauded with great frequency.

It was nip and tuck from the first serve to the last return and time and again the sets, games and points were tied. Manning won the first, 6-8, Reed took the next two, 6-1, 6-1, and Manning won the fourth, 5-7. The deciding set was bitterly contested and finally ended 7-5 in Reed's favor. Both men were about all in when they finished, though their tennis seemed to get better and better. The finals in doubles in the morning were almost as fast and it took five sets for Thomas and Parkhill to win from Manning and Bost.

The scores—Singles, semi-finals: Reed vs. Black, 6-3, 8-6; Manning vs. Parkhill, 6-2, 6-2. Finals: Reed vs. Manning, 6-8, 6-1, 6-1, 5-7, 7-5. Doubles, semi-finals: Bost and Manning vs. Black and McKay, 6-0, 6-2; Thomas and Parkhill vs. Cook and Fulton, 0-6, 6-4, 6-1. Finals: Thomas and Parkhill vs. Bost and Manning, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The play-off for second place in doubles and singles will begin at 9 a. m. today, Bost and Manning playing Cook and Fulton, while the singles will be contested by Black, Bost, Manning and McKay.

DEDICATION OF PAVILION.

Impressive Service at Opening of the New Structure.

A beautiful service was that of the dedication of the Bethany Pavilion last evening just at sun set. Prof. E. O. Excell led the song, "Oh, That Will Be Glory," and "The King's Business." Dr. S. C. Dickey paid tribute to Mrs. C. S. Besserer, in a short address, congratulating her upon her work, both in New York and Winona. The beautiful new sign, "The Bethany Pavilion," was hung above the door by Dr. Dickey.

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman then offered the dedicatory prayer.

Dr. W. W. Hunter used II Corinthians 9:8, as the theme of an earnest address.

The audience went into the pavilion, where the service was dismissed with the song, "All For Jesus," led by Miss Bertha Chapman.

"Patriotism of Peace."

"Patriotism of Peace," a volume containing J. Frank Hanly has delivered since he became Governor of Indiana, has been issued. It contains, among many others, the address which he gave at Winona Lake early in July, and which attracted wide attention. The speeches were compiled by George B. Lockwood, who wrote the introduction to the volume. It may be ordered through the Winona Park book store.

Meeting at Hillside.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary meeting will be held at the Hillside this afternoon at 4 o'clock. If the weather should prevent, the meeting will be at the chapel of The Inn. Mrs. John Coulter, of Chicago; Miss Lambert, of Turkey; Miss Sutherland, of New Mexico, and Mrs. Birch will take part in the program, and Mrs. Breckenridge will preside.

Piano Bargains.

Thirty pianos now in use by the Winona Summer Schools will be sold at a big sacrifice, the sale to begin August 18. These instruments are all new and in good, first-class condition. Parties interested should see E. C. Wilson at the Elkhart cottage on Park avenue, or write Rogers & Wilson, Goshen, Ind.
