WINONA TEAM IS STRONG

In a Blinding Snow Storm Both Teams
Fail to Score—Teams
Evenly Matched.

In a blinding snow storm and a driving wind the Winona Academy football eleven and a team representing Company H, I. N. G., of Warsaw, battled for honors on the Winona Lake gridiron Saturday afternoon, but neither team was able to cross the other's goal and the contest ended in a score of nothing to nothing. A cleaner game of football has not been played on the Winona Lake grounds this fall. The teams were evenly matched and the greater part of the contest was played in the center of the field and much of the remaining time the oval was in Warsaw territory in Winona's possession.

The officials were placed at a great disadvantage, the side lines and cross lines being hidden by snow. Captain Thrush, of Warsaw, won the toss and chose the west goal. Rarick, for Warsaw kicked to Daniels, of Winona, who returned the oval 10 yards from his own 30-yard line. Penhilligan's attempt to circle the left end met with a loss of five yards, the player being thrown backward. Rarick, Hankins and Boggs, forming the Warsaw back field, pounded the line for gains of five yards each and had worked the ball down to within 25 yards of the Winona goal, when it was found necessary to punt on the third down.

Pledger, for Winona, recovered the ball and on the first down punted 35 yards. Two attempts at the line failed to net the required ground for Warsaw and Rarick punted 25 yards. A Winona player touched the ball with considerable force and sent it high in the air. When it touched the earth Tobin, of Warsaw, was covering it. This was the longest gain made during the entire game.

Penhilligan on the offensive for the Winona team was a star and on the defensive he several times pushed the Warsaw man carrying the ball back for a loss of several yards. He is probably one of the best men in the back field in the history of football at Winona. Pledger at quarter also showed up well. He made the longest run for the Winona eleven, circling the left end for 17 yards. Winona was in possession of the ball at the center of the field when the whistle was blown for the end of the first half.

Early in the contest Hankins was kicked in the knee. He left the gridiron at the conclusion of the first half and was substituted by Fred Trish. Both teams took a brace in the last half. Quarterback Pledger punted across Warsaw's goal line and the ball was brought out to the 25-yard line and Thrush punted to Winona. Rarick surprised everybody by recovering the ball. Penhilligan was kicked and

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

The Pilgrims Inaugurated a Custom
That Will Live Forever.—Anniversary Next Week.

The issuance of the proclamation by President Roosevelt, setting apart November 26th as a day of thanksgiving, calls to mind the origin of that universal custom.

There was seven houses in Plymouth, Mass., in the autumn of 1622, the second autumn after the landing of the Pilgrims. They stretched along one side of the road leading up to the fort which stood on the hill, keeping watch over the little community.

One house stood alone on the opposite side of the street, the meeting house, and the home of Governor Bradford as well. These homes were built of logs with hardened earth between, to keep out the wind and rain, the sleet and snow. Little windows with panes of oiled paper let in the light and made the rooms within cheerful and pleasant. Great fire places there were, with bright fires burning in them and kettles filled with food hanging on the cranes over the fire. The high post beds, the chests of drawers, the settles, and the cubboards, were brought from England and Holland, and were sometimes of the darkest, richest mahogany.

Hunger, starvation and death had visited the colony the winter before, and fifty of the one hundred who had landed from the Mayflower lay buried just at the end of the village under the wheat stubble, where the ripened grain had lately waved in the summer sunshine. For no one must know where the dear ones of the little colony were laid to rest, lest the Indians discovered how weak and depleted they had become.

In the dead of the winter nights these sacred ceremonies had been performed by the band, and each grave smoothed over and covered with snow that it might leave no trace.

But today within these houses all was hurry and preparation. Gov. Bradford had read in church the Sunday before the call for a feast of thanksgiving to be given in gratitude for the bountiful harvest which the autumn had brought them. For days the housewives had been busy preparing the food for the feast. Pumpkin, mince and cranberry pies, bread

Mrs. Zartmann Much Improved.

Word reaches this office from Rev. Parley E. Zartmann, who is in New York, to the effect that Mrs. Zartmann is now getting along nicely. Mrs. Zartmann underwent an operation in a hospital in that city and her condition was much more complicated and serious than was at first expected.

and cakes had been baked, and today the great feast is to be held. Massasoit and the hundred braves are to come for dinner, and much food is needed to satisfy their hunger.

The day dawns fair and bright and the people are early astir, for much is yet to be accomplished before the dinner will be ready. Out-door ovens have been built, and great brass kettles are strung over fires in which to bake and boil the meat and vegetables for the dinner. And while it is yet early Massasoit, with a great deer he has killed, slung over his shoulder, stalks into the village followed by his hundred warriors.

The Indians stand about during the morning watching the preparations with the greatest interest. The venison they have brought and the great stuffed turkeys the Pilgrim fathers have shot in the forest are roasting in the ovens. Here also the jars of baked beans are simmering and savory smells issue from the kettles.

Fascinated by the odors the Indians like little inquisitive children peer into the ovens, and lift the covers from the kettles, emitting grunts of intensest satisfaction. Long tables are stretched at the foot of the hill, some for the Indians and some for the Pilgrims. There have been services in church on every other day of the week but today is given over to feasting and rejoicing. The harvest is plentiful, the Mayflower is returning with friends and help from England, the Indians are friendly and the fear of the coming winter is abated.

After the feasting is over and Massasoit and his people have expressed their approval of the dinner, the games begin and the women clear away the remnants of the feast. The straw dummy of a Pilgrim is placed against a tree with a white patch over his heart. Then a pilgrim with his great gun held up by a rod thrust into the ground, and an Indian with a bow and arrow try their skill at hitting the mark.

There are races, and wrestling matches and tests of strength until the afternoon is worn away and the sun is setting in the west.

Then the great chief with his men strides away through the forest, and the evening shadows fall upon the first great festival in the history of our country, the first Thanksgiving day.

A Big Train.

The largest train that was ever pulled over a railroad track in Indiana, passed through Winona Saturday over the Pennsylvania road. One of the company's largest freight engines headed freight train of 122 cars, 65 loaded and 57 empty.

Between Cleveland and Pittsburg this company runs trains of 120 cars at eight miles an hour and figure that it is economy.

From Fort Wayne to Winona the train made 18 miles an hour with ease. Regular through trains over this division make 60 miles an hour.

Winona Park School News

Miss Ethel Woodford has been ill for several days with bronchitis.

Miss Anna Davis was the guest of Miss McNaughten at dinner on Saturday evening.

Mr. J. T. Carpenter, of Fort Collins, Colo., was the guest of his daughter, Jeanette, on Sunday.

At Y. W. C. A. Sunday evening a full report of the State convention at Richmond was given by the delegate.

Last Saturday the Park school entertained with a reception for students and faculties of the Winona schools. The parlor was artistically decorated with garlands of red poppies and ferns. During the evening most delightful music was furnished by Miss McArthur. After the serving of dainty refreshments, the guests took their leave having spent a very enjoyable evening.

The Chapel of the Park school on Monday morning was in charge of Mr. V. M. Hatfield. Following the devotional exercises Mr. Hatfield gave a series of readings from his own poems. It was a matter of surprise to many, and of pride to all that Winona could claim as a resident, and the Park school as a trustee and loyal friend, a man so gifted in clever literary work. Both students and faculty are indebted to Mr. Hatfield for a pleasant half hour and will most gladly welcome him again.

The Union Chapel last Thursday morning was in charge of Miss McNaughten, of the Park school. After the devotional exercises Miss McNaughten gave an accurate and comprehensive discussion of the French academy and its influence upon French literature. It was pointed out that the academy was granted a charter by the King in 1835 but had existed previous to that time. The majority of prominent writers were members, though certain ones of recognized standing were refused admission and in consequence opposed the work of the organization. The aim of the academy briefly, is to promote the purity and flexibility of the French language, and such an institution in England would go far toward effacing the eccentricity and providential spirit of which its genius barely compensates. The tendency of the academy is in the direction of conservatism, and while it has done much to elevate the standard of French literature there remains the insurmountable objection of its having hindered creativeness.

The second regular meeting of the Literary society occurred Friday evening and a program of unusual merit was given:

Paper—Mabel Toy.

Tatler—Flossie Schott and Marie Breckenridge.

Original Story—Lea Rue Lynch.

Current Events—Olive Hall.

Extemporaneous Speech: Why Written Examinations are a Mistake—Josephine Crawford.

Violin Solo—Miss Davis.

The Winona Literary Club.

A very pleasant meeting of the Winona Literary club was held in the parlor of the Winona hotel on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 11. The members responded to roll call by giving expressions of Lincoln. After the regular business of the day, Miss Clark, the president, gave a condensed report of the annual convention of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs, which was held at Indianapolis.

It was an excellent report and much enjoyed by the members.

The regular program for the afternoon was then taken up. The subject, "Battlefields and Monuments," being in charge of Mrs. Arlen, assisted by members of section A.

The battlefields were touched upon by Mrs. Arlen. It was a difficult subject for a few minutes' paper, but she succeeded admirably with it. Mrs. Arlen then introduced Dr. Scott, who gave a graphic account of the battles of Chickamauga, Chattanooga and Shiloh, in which he had participated. He also told how the battle fields are now preserved as a national military park to perpetuate the bravery and patriotism of the men. At the close of his talk the vice president, Mrs. Stuart presented him with a small flag, while the club members expressed their appreciation of kindness in speaking to them by a rising vote of thanks.

Mrs. Breaks read a well written paper upon Gettysburg, the battlefield and monuments. Miss Young followed with an exceedingly interesting talk upon Lexington and Concord.

Mrs. Nelson, of Warsaw, was a guest of the club.

No More Saloons in Warsaw.

Notice was last week published in Warsaw notifying the citizens that an application would be made for a license to run a saloon in the building opposite the Pennsylvania depot.

The next evening the Warsaw city council met and outlined the residence and business portions of Warsaw and as the location of the proposed saloon is in the residence portion of the city, the county commissioners cannot grant a saloon license in that ward.

All other wards have practically perpetual remonstrances in them.

The city council were highly complimented upon the stand they took in the matter which shows that they are following the wishes of the large majority of their constituents.

State Grange to Meet at Winona.

The State Grange will meet at Winona, Dec. 8th, 9th and 10th. Their headquarters will be at the Winona Hotel and their meetings will be held in the Westminster. Many speakers of national prominence will be in attendance. There will be 75 delegates and at least 300 visitors are expected.

Rev. Harry Arlen fell from a ladder while at work around the house last Thursday and severely cut his left hand. Dr. Nehrbas was obliged to take several stitches in dressing the wound which is getting along nicely.

There are more winter houses occupied in Winona than ever before. In fact, the supply of available properties is almost exhausted, and more will have to be built within the next twelve months. As an investment a house here pays good dividends.

Literary Club's Prize Poem.

The following poems were the ones selected from the many good ones presented at a recent meeting of the club. The title was selected on account of its being their club flower.

The Violet.

A little face looked up at me
From out its violet hood,
And softly breathed a tiny sigh,
A perfume from the wood.

"I like the vase you set me in,
The water at my feet
Is clean and cool as any brook,
The air is fresh and sweet.

But will you take me back again,
Back to the deep green wood?
The toad and robin wait for me;"
A tear fell from the hood.

—Florence Fox.

Beneath the hedge a violet stood,
Retiring, and of honest mood;
Though hid in leaves of richest green,
Shed fragrance, to the world, unseen.

The days passed by, the floweret blue
Put on a dress of paler hue,
Then dropped its head and sank and died,

And Modesty wept by its side.

—Mrs. Jonathan Rigdon.

20 Years With Heart Trouble

"Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has cured me of heart disease of over 20 years' standing. I was so bad that I could not do my work, and could scarcely draw a full breath without fainting or smothering. The doctor told me he could do no more for me; then I commenced taking the Heart Remedy. I shall never forget that night. I slept better than I had before in months. I kept right on getting better, until I was perfectly well."

MRS. LAURA RUSSELL,
Logan, Iowa.

When the heart action is weak, it fails to pump the blood through the lungs with sufficient rapidity. Then the lungs do not absorb the proper amount of oxygen, although they may be taking in a normal amount of air. The result is shortness of breath, smothering spells, difficult breathing, oppressed feeling in chest. Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy strengthens the heart nerves and muscles, and in this way increases the circulation.

Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

The election is a thing of the past, and both of the great parties have something to rejoice over. The wheels of business will continue to revolve, and the next four years will, no doubt, mark a season of unparelled prosperity in the United States. Roosevelt will enter the journalistic field, and Bryan will probably become a member of the senate.

The government mints have begun the coinage of a new five dollar gold piece that interests us not a little. They are said to be designed on a different plan from any heretofore coined in the world, in that it is possible to pile up a great many of them. Just the kind we have been looking for all our lives! We never could pile up any considerable number of those designed on the old plan.

Thanksgiving day comes at the right time for Winonians this year. Four hundred thousand dollars has been placed at the disposal of the Assembly for the purpose of completing the Peru railroad. This amount was required, and the directors provided it at the meeting that was held here a few weeks ago.

The American Marketing company will continue to sell stocks and bonds of the Winona Interurban Railway as heretofore. The assumption of all the unsold shares by the directors will not prevent other investors from participating in these benefits, as holding will be released as far as the demand will necessitate.

No safer investment can be found than the stocks and bonds of Winona's railroads. Sixty-eight miles of well-ballasted track, running through the most productive part of the state, with excellent equipment of rolling stock, provides a service that warrants large patronage. The profits of this far-sighted enterprise have been demonstrated satisfactory in the operation of the Goshen division; and beyond a doubt the earnings will proportionately be greater when the connections are made with the network of interurbans clustering about Indianapolis and the southern portion of Indiana.

Rev. Chester Birch at Detroit, Minn.

The Detroit Record publishes a long article and a fine picture of Rev. Chester Birch, of Winona Lake. It was a fine article and shows the same sentiment towards Rev. Birch as is the case wherever he goes. The Record says in part:

"Mr. Birch has been unusually successful in reaching men, there being something in his makeup which wins their confidence and respect at once. His manly appearance and convincing manner of expression, both in and out of the pulpit seldom fails to enlist the attention of men. He assumes no air of superiority and when he greets you with his winning smile you feel at once that he is 'one of the boys.' * * * Notwithstanding his fatigue after the long and hurried journey from Scranton, Rev. Mr. Birch went into the pulpit of the Methodist church Tuesday evening and preached a stirring sermon on the theme: 'Letting Our Light Shine.' His text was Matt. 5:14. 'Ye are the light of the world.' This sermon was addressed particularly to the Christian people present. He affirmed that if there is a person on earth who should rejoice, it was one as who has assurance of sins forgiven. Such an one ought to be anxious to let his light shine. * * * The sermon was a bright wholesome statement of the christian's responsibility as a torch-bearer to them that walk in darkness. There was no abuse, no noise, no bluster, no affectation, nothing but good common sense counsel to the christian folks."

The editor refers to Rev. Birch as "the genial, whole souled apostle of the larger life."

Winona Represented at Chicago Convention.

Miss Rose Clark principal of the Winona Park school, returned Saturday evening from Chicago where she attended the Annual Conference of the high schools and academies affiliated with Chicago University.

At the time of the convention competitive examinations in mathematics, English, Latin and German are open to the seniors in any of the affiliated schools and a year's scholarship in Chicago University is given to the students making the highest grade in each of the branches.

The purpose of the conference is the promotion of harmonious relations between the university and the secondary schools and the furtherance of the interests of both.

A rule recently made by the University requiring English to be continued through the four years of high school or academy preparation has been the subject of much discussion and the cause of some ill feeling. It is probable that a change or some adjustment mutually agreeable will shortly be made. The meeting Saturday morning was opened by Prof. John Coulter, head of the department of botany at Chicago University, who presented an interesting paper on "What the college expects of the secondary school." He pointed out the fact that colleges are held back by tradition, while public schools are recent and the direct outgrowth of the demand of the times. This naturally gives rise to the problem of harmonizing. He objected to the idea that high schools should be only college preparatories since for many the high school training must constitute the preparation for life.

Supt. Kendall, of the Indianapolis schools, urged in his speech the necessity of more attention to civics and allied subjects, also emphasized the need of high school instruction in music, art, and manual training.

The conference will undoubtedly be productive of much good, securing as it will, greater freedom for secondary schools in arranging their courses of study and furthering to a considerable degree the co-operative spirit between Chicago University and the many schools connected with it.

How Shall I Decide

WHERE TO SEND MY DAUGHTER TO SCHOOL is a question many parents are asking every year. If you are not informed about the

it will help you to settle this momentous question if you will write and get one of its catalogues.

It is a Christian school with all the cultural advantages; and is under the direction of college trained women of recognized proficiency and experience.

The school is situated in the far-famed Winona Park, on the shores of a beautiful lake. Forest trees abound in a spacious campus; graceful walks lead to various points of interest; and countless springs of pure fresh water are to be found at frequent intervals throughout the inviting domains.

The natural environs of the Winona Park School are exceptionally attractive; but the feature that is most important and interesting is the high standard that is maintained in its curriculum. Graduates of the institution can enter without examination any college or university in the middle west, including fifteen states. Certificate privileges of Mt. Holyoke, and other Eastern institutions are enjoyed; and the rank of co-operating school has been given by the University of Chicago, which school also grants an annual scholarship to a graduate going out from Winona.

Hope? Very Well, Call It Hope.

There are rhythmic changes in every life, in the life of every individual and in the life of every nation. There are times when the ship is in the trough between the billows, but, stunchly built and rightly directed, she comes safe into port just the same.

Take the world for it, I believe that each day is better than the day preceding; that yesterday was better than the day before and that today is better than yesterday; that today in all the world is the most glorious day in 1900 years.

I am glad that when I came into this world nature had already touched me with something that pointed to a light beyond; a light in the distance, it is true, and a light you may say, that "never was on land or sea," but a light nevertheless that then fixed my gaze and has held it ever since; a light that has been with me every moment of every hour from that hour to this; with me in pain and in sorrow, in foreboding and in solicitude. * * *

I know there is something in the heart of man that sings and dreams while he works and that he works all the more and all the better because he dreams. I know there is something that turns indifference into interest and listlessness into life; something that winds up the coiled springs of endeavor, quickens and strengthens determination and takes up the tools of toil to turn them into toys.

I know there is something that levels the hill and bridges the stream and tunnels the mountain and climbs the bleak and barren peaks of difficulty and moves the world.

I know there is something that finds the beauty and not the flaw in every statue, the strength and not the weakness in every friend and the quality of good in every man.

I know there is something that with noiseless step comes tripping down to where weakness and weariness and worry and care sit moping and brooding in the sunless and cheerless caverns of gloom; something that lights up the spirit lamps of cheer, turns morbid imaginings into airy fancy and the monstrous shapes of darkness into creatures of lightsomeness and love; something that fills the timid soul with eager fire and turns the dark begotten fantasies of midnight into day-dream visions of beauty; something that floods the dismal walls with the glory of sunrise and turns the deeps of despair into sunlit places of the gods.

Hope? Very well; call it hope. Then I shall think of hope, not as a fairy of the imagination but as a reality in the everyday life of the everyday man. Futile hope, do you say? Nevertheless I say that when nature touched me in this way she gave me more than riches, made me more than a Croesus and gave me that that I would rather have than all her mountains of gold.

Miss Beaber Speaks.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Federated church held their praise service in Westminster chapel on Sunday evening. It was largely attended and spoke well for the interest in mission work at Winona.

Mrs. C. M. Stuart, president of the society, presided. After the singing of a hymn, Miss Chase read the Scripture and was followed by Mrs. Bebb in prayer. The choir, under Miss Wilson, gave a special number and showed much improvement. The speaker of the evening was Miss Beaber, formerly of Fort Wayne, now home on a furlough from her work as a missionary in Persia. She has been a resident there for nine years and is at the head of a large school for girls. She gave a forcible and very lucid account of her work done there and a splendid description of the political situation, showing that the country is now in a way to receive the gospel and that the opportunity is ripe for work. She gave much food for thought and all who heard her were impressed with her earnestness. The address was followed with the reading of a short poem by Miss Francis Toy and after the singing of a hymn the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Scott. The ladies realized a neat sum and as a missionary society they need much encouragement, for they are very earnest Christian workers, and are untiring in their efforts to spread the gospel.

Mr. Jacqua, the State Student Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., spent Sunday at Winona Lake. He attended the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and gave a very instructive and inspiring talk on the Y. M. C. A. Two classes in mission study were also organized, one in home and one in foreign missions.

R. A. Young Prominent in Ministers' Meeting.

At the regular meeting held in the Methodist church at Warsaw Monday morning the following minute was made by the Warsaw-Winona Ministerial association: "The meeting unanimously and heartily commended the mayor and city council of the city of Warsaw for their action in defining the residence section, which according to law, excludes the saloons from said section."

It was also reported that in nearly all the churches hearty commendation was publicly expressed during the Sunday service.

The essayist of the day was the Rev. A. A. Young, of Winona, the subject: "The Pastor as a Student." The paper was broad, erudite and scholarly and brought much approval. The next meeting will be December 7 with the Rev. J. L. Goshert, essayist on "The Social Work of the Church."

Mrs. Watson's Franconia Annex.

The contract for the construction of a three-story and basement Winona stone annex to the Franconia, for Mrs. Florence Watson, was let last week by Architect Cosmo C. Ellwood, of Winona. The general contract being awarded to Geo. W. Worley, of Warsaw, and the masonry to the Building Material Manufacturing Co., of this place. Work is now in progress and the building is to be completed by early spring. The exterior design is of a very pleasing effect, and the interior arrangement is entirely modern throughout. In connection with the Franconia the two apartments will give Mrs. Watson one of the most convenient and commodious cottages on the grounds in which to accommodate her guests.

Interesting Talks at Chapel Services.

Last Wednesday morning at chapel after the devotional part of the service, Prof. Sanderson gave an excellent talk on the life of Charlotte Corday, the French heroine, illustrating the power of one person to overturn governments and change the current of political events.

Miss McNaughton, one of the most popular teachers in the schools here, took charge of the chapel services at the Normal Thursday morning and gave a carefully prepared talk on the French Academy.

Prof. Withenbury, our latest addition to the faculty, held the attention of the students, Monday morning, at chapel, while he discussed the various theories advanced on the migration of birds.

On Tuesday morning when the various schools met at chapel, Miss Young, in her usual earnest and interesting manner took charge. She first appealed to her hearers as Christians, reading from one of the epistles of St. Peter. In her talk, which followed, she told of a delightful trip she had taken to scenes connected with the life of Whittier, and closed by reading some of his poems.

Mrs. Nelle Wall gave a most interesting talk on Friday morning during chapel exercises, her subject being "The Parthenon of Ancient Greece." She chose this subject as having been the inspiration of every lover of the beautiful that has lived during the past twenty-four centuries. Even in ruins it is still supreme in its hold upon the artistic sense of mankind. The men who put those renowned structures on the Acropolis and by their varied art made the "City of the Violet Crown" the wonder of the world and of all time to come, loved their work, entered into it with a pure and holy enthusiasm and the result was perfection, or, at least, the nearest to it that the world has ever seen.

Athena, whose temple the Pantheon was, was the Goddess of Intellect, and in the final analysis the highest function of the glorious rim on the Acropolis, is to remind us of the people who thought, and who by the power of their minds inaugurated civilization.

Blind Boy's Benefit.

Paul Breeding, a blind boy, of Warsaw, will be given a benefit concert at the Presbyterian church, at Warsaw, tonight. It will be a piano and organ recital, several numbers being given by the blind boy.

The 7:45 car from Winona will reach the church in time for the recital. Tickets can be had of H. R. Erbaugh, at the general office at 25 cents each.

The proceeds will go towards the musical education of the blind boy, who has one year more to finish his course.

Cure for Hiccough.

A young girl suffered for four days without cessation, says Health, from the distressing malady. She had thirty spasms to the minute, the attack being due, apparently to some gastric disorder. When she put out her tongue for a few seconds it was found that the hiccough ceased. She was then ordered to stick out this member at regular intervals for a few minutes at the termination of which only a few slight spasms followed. She was ordered to repeat it when the hiccough ceased altogether and did not return. This is a simple and easy remedy for what often proves a fatal complaint.
