WATCHING FOR AWARDS

Who Will Win Prizes In State Photographers' Contests?—Fine Exhibition Open to Public.

The chief interest of the members of the Photographers' Association of Indiana, as the convention at Winona draws to a close, is the report of the judges on awards, which is to be made tomorrow. Who the judges are is a secret with the officers of the association, but the men who will decide on the prize winners are having a busy week, owing to the hundreds of pictures which are in the various classes. The awards offered in two classes resulted in bringing a large number of photographs to the convention from all over the country. The special class is for any size, style or number of photographs, no entrance fee is charged, and the winners will receive gold, silver and bronze medals. All pictures shown in this contest which have sufficient merit will be placed in the permanent salon of the association, and this in itself has been a strong incentive to artistic photographers to send on their pictures. The Doechn trophy, offered by an Indianapolis photographer, is a large and handsome silver cup, and a number of photographers hope to win it.

Another contest which has brought out many exhibitors is known as the grand portrait class, with $50 and $25 in gold as the two prizes. Each contestant was required to enter six pictures not less than nine inches, and many beautiful photographs are to be seen in this list. A gold button is to be awarded in another class and still another prize goes to the Indiana photographer who traveled the longest distance to reach the convention.

If there is an advance in the price of glass before autumn, some of the cause may be charged to the quantity used each day by the photographers who are seeking instruction in dark and operating rooms of the convention hall. Hundreds of sheets of glass, of photographic size, are being used for this purpose, and the photographers are taking more interest in the practical instruction than in any other thing on the week's program.

The photographers have an orchestra of their own which has added to the pleasure of the convention sessions. For an hour before the activities of the day begin the orchestra plays in the hall, and the musicians are all capable. The organization includes the following: Miss Meta Mattes, piano and leader, South Bend; J. Bourgholtzer, violin, Washington, Ind.; F. D. Sullivan, Kendallville, violin; W. D. Staples, trombone, South Bend; Ben Larrimer, cello, Marion; F. C. Benton, cornet, Oakland City; Miss Hickcock, violin, Boston, Mass.; W. L. Dalby, base viol, Richmond; Tony Montani, an amateur photographer, clarinet, Indianapolis.

This afternoon the pleasure seekers who are at Winona Lake will be permitted to spend two or three hours in the convention hall to see the picture was a center of social life in the old days of Spring Fountain Park. Mr. DeVos is now proprietor of one of Chicago's finest West Side studios.

Excursion From Wabash.

The excursion from Wabash on yesterday was one of the largest of the year. They came in early and long before 10 o'clock the grounds were filled with a happy, jolly crowd of young people, while the more sedate and older ones of the party kept watch over baskets and boxes filled with the things needed for a picnic dinner.

The excursion was a union Sunday School outing and brought over 600 to Winona.

STUDY OF LITERATURE

Prof. Frank C. Tilden Spoke at Summer School Convocation—How to Teach Subject in Schools.

Prof. Frank C. Tilden, who has the chair of English at Winona gave the convocation address of yesterday afternoon. Prof. Tilden has a pleasing delivery and is an exceptional teacher of English, being popular with his large classes. After he was graduated from DePauw University, Prof. Tilden took a degree at Yale, then held the chair of English at DePauw University until three years ago, when he began his Winona work.

Prof. Tilden said that it was his intention to talk over his own experiences as teacher of English in both the university and high school. There is no study taught today that has as much chaos in regard to its manner of teaching, he said, as one finds in the teaching of English. Many look upon it as a development study, such as Latin and Greek; others as a practical study, while still others regard the study as a kind of artistic finish. The teacher of English literature who sends out the pupil with his head crammed with dates has failed, if he has not inculcated a love for the best literature. Often the student will know the facts of a writer's life and books, but dislike the writings themselves, the real literature.

Literature is an end in itself. The student in the high school decides whether he likes or dislikes the study. Literature appeals according to the knowledge of life the reader has. The boy likes "something doing" and does not appreciate Addison or McCauley. If literature is life, then the literature must be selected so as to bring it into each reader's experience.

Scott's "Ivanhoe" was suggested by Prof. Tilden as a good book for high school study; also Stevenson's "Treasure Island." Literature is both life and art, he said, and the teacher is inconsistent who tries to explain the contents of the book.

One often spoils a poem by searching for its theme with the belief that all poems are poems of purpose.

In the teaching of literature beware of notes and explanations, was the warning given by Prof. Tilden. The teacher, of necessity, must have a tures, and the young women from the art schools will be especially interested in the work that hangs on the walls of the big building in bewildering profusion. The officers say that the display is only the beginning of what will be the most notable exhibit of photographs in this country, if not in the world. The business session to be held this morning will be for the election of officers.

I. W. DeVos, of Chicago, is in attendance at the Photographers' Association. Mr. DeVos, who a number of years ago had a studio in Warsaw, was one of the first cottage owners at Winona. "Idlewild," the fourth cottage south of the hotel, on the hillside, was owned by Mr. DeVos and Winona vs. Milford Today.

The Winona team has been strengthened by the addition of Mr. Sunday and Watson, of DePauw, who played last year and whom the fans will remember for his first base play and his batting. Winona hopes to turn the tables on Milford in this game and make a little better showing in the percentage column. The team will line up: R. Scott, c; Thomas, p; Elliott, 1b; Watson, 2b; L. Scott, ss; Druckenbrod, 3b; Sunday, cf. The other fields will be played by Hogue, Jones, Dickey or White. The Milford team will line up as the last game, with either Ogden or Rapp in the box. Game called at 3:00 p. m. Admission, 15c.

broad view of his subject. Make the historical facts vivid, also the manners and customs of the people. All the vividness of life must be brought to the student in the high school if the teacher makes the study interesting.

Literature is something to be liked, not something to be learned, and the high school student should be led carefully until he reads Browning from real love of it. Every successful English teacher must be a good reader. Surround the subject with all interest possible, make the point plain; see the beauty of the thing one's self, and then go forward to teach, and the result will be the student's love for the best in literature.

Golf on Winona Links.

Early this spring the lawn mowers moved out to the golf links in preparation for the summer season and they have been at work since then. The eastern three holes have just been put into shape and many players are enjoying the pleasures of the course. Winona is favored with rolling links, quite different from the flat courses of most of the clubs of this section, and a large number of the prominent golfers of Indiana have played on the links here. The present state champion, Will Diddel, is a Winona product. He began his golf as a caddy six years ago, the first year that golf was played here, and he has played at Winona ever since. The Indianapolis News says of him: "Diddel, the present holder of the title, is picked by many to win again over the large field. The Highland lad has been putting up his same steady game and may always be depended on to do the right thing at the right time. Some of the members of the association pick a dark horse to win, but the more conservative ones depend on Diddel, the present champion."

Miss Chapman's Party.

In honor of Miss Hale, of Omaha, Neb., the Misses Willis, of Peoria, Ill., and Miss Irma Taylor, of Dallas, Texas, Miss Esther Chapman entertained forty guests at a Dutch party. The invitations read:

"Dutch Evening. Kommer Sie? Yes? Already yet bei 8 o'clock."

The evening's entertainment consisted of three special affairs. The first was in introducing themselves in an informal unique manner. The second was conversational. Five minutes was given to different couples for conversations on Dutch topics, in various places. Prizes of little Dutch figures were given to the best talkers. Miss Hale and Dale Thompson won the prizes. Another interesting feature of the evening was the telling of the young men's fortunes in Dutch fashion.

German songs and stories, games and refreshments made the evening pass quickly.

AMOS IN NORTH COUNTRY

Dr. White Discussed Book of the Prophet Who Foretold Destruction of Syria.

Dr. White, in the Bible hour yesterday, continued his study of the book of Amos. The preliminary study of the book was given on Tuesday.

Dr. White made an outline showing in Amos a series of past warnings, invitations and visions. One of the interesting points in Bible study is to know just where the prophet Joel belongs. Was he early or late? Dr. White is inclined to the belief that Joel was an early prophet and that Amos took his text from him.

In Amos, the first two chapters, one finds the foreign prophecies. Palestine was divided into the northern and southern parts, the north being known as Israel and the south as Judah. The northern part was very fruitful and Amos was a prophet sent to the north country, and he foretold calamity and destruction to Syria. There had been constant feuds between the north and south and the announcement that Jerusalem was to be destroyed was welcomed by the people of the north. But in the midst of their exaltation Amos declared that they, too, were to be destroyed.

The geography of the book is perfect, and there is a full rhetorical climax in the arrangement of the names.

One of the characteristics of these prophets is that they were always standing up for the poor. When a prophet yearns for the people, God does, because the prophet is doing God's will.

If one studies the Bible carefully one finds that the judgment of man is more severe than the judgment of God, and it is Dr. White's opinion that God will be approved in His final judgment by all humanity.

Amos 2 ends with the prophecy that because of their sins destruction is coming upon the people of Israel.

In Amos 3, the false prophets answer Amos by claiming that they will not be destroyed because God has promised them the land. But they failed to show that this promise was not to be fulfilled if the children of Israel departed from the law of God.

Amos said in defense of his being in the north country that he was sent by Jehovah. He never would have gone to the country if God had not called him strongly to warn the people.

Dr. Little, of Wabash, gave the closing prayer. The lesson for tomorrow will be a further study of the book of Amos.

FIGURES ARE GOING UP.

Number of Students Now at Winona Park Approaching the 500 Mark.

The enrollment of the Winona Summer Schools continues to climb higher and higher above the figures which have been made in the earlier part of the terms of other years. The number that had registered their names with G. W. Worley, registrar of the schools, had reached 410 last evening, and the instructors who have been with the schools for several years are predicting that the total for the summer will go to 1,000. The enrollment for the first week of last year did not reach 200, but Mr. Worley says that a comparison with the figures of this week is hardly a fair one, as the schools this year did not begin until after July 4.

Most of the students here at present are from Indiana, but there are many from Ohio, Illinois and other states. A number of Southerners, seeking cool atmosphere as well as knowledge, are found in various departments of the schools. Practically all of the students are teachers from the public schools over the country. Scores of them are seeking instruction in primary work, and Mrs. Blaker, in charge of this department, sees the list of her students increasing every day.

There are several young women at Winona Lake who were here last year doing whatever kind of work they could find to pay their way through the schools and for their living. They taught school last winter, having acquired the necessary training last summer, and now they are back again, not as employees, but as students who are determined to become more proficient in public school work.

A number of changes have been made in the daily program of the schools, which appears elsewhere in The Review.

MR. FLOWERS' PROGRAM.

Impersonations This Afternoon Will Be in Compliment to the Women.

Montaville Flowers, one of the leading impersonators of the country, will appear in a miscellaneous program at the auditorium this afternoon, which will be in honor of the women who are at the Park. Mr. Flowers' object in this recital is to present selections in which the leading and winning characters are women. A wide variety of popular authors are represented on the program, including Oliver Wendell Holmes, H. C. Bunner, Mary E. Wilkins, James Whitcomb Riley, Eugene Field and Max Adler.

Since the middle of June Mr. Flowers has been on his summer tour, reading from a number of assembly platforms.

On the third day of July Senator LaFollette was to deliver an address at Trenton, Mo., where Mr. Flowers had given several recitals, but as Congress had not yet adjourned, Senator LaFollette telegraphed that he could not lecture on that date. Mr. Flowers was asked to give another recital in place of the Senator's lecture, but just a few hours before the time of the entertainment, word was received that the ex-Governor would be there at the scheduled time, which was kept a secret from the audience. It is reported that one of the greatest climaxes ever reached was when, to the "Star-Spangled Banner," played by the band, Mr. Flowers recited the song. Just at the end, an American flag was unfurled and the Senator walked upon the platform to the surprise of the audience. The house shook with applause.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Dalbey, of Richmond, are at the Florence.

S. F. Bowser, of the Wayne cottage, each summer brings to Winona 600 or 700 of his employes for a day's outing. They will come from Ft. Wayne on Friday.

THE DAILY CONVOCATION.

Frederick Warde Will Recite for Summer School Students Today.

Frederick Warde, the tragedian, who has few equals as a student and interpreter of the Shakesperian drama, will be the speaker at the convocation exercises at the auditorium this afternoon. He has been heard at Winona in former seasons and has been accorded a warm welcome from those who were present. The newspapers of the country, wherever he appears, give him fullsome praise. The Minneapolis Times said of him:

"Frederick Warde who has won a place among the great interpreters of English classic drama, is more than a great actor, although that would seem to be distinction enough for one man to have won; he is a broad-minded, public-spirited American citizen, who keeps in close touch with the current life of the world. His sympathies are not confined to the mimic stage upon which his professional fame has been won—he proposes to play his part—a man's part—upon that greater stage, the world; and he plays it well."

William Winter, of the New York Tribune, the dean of American dramatic critics, said: "Mr. Warde is an actor of passionate sincerity, deeply devoted to his profession, and his long career has been signalized by the many achievements of a most commendable character, honorable to himself and salutary in their influence upon the tone of the stage and upon the public taste."

WOMEN'S CLUB MEETING.

Miss Merica Hoagland Elected President at First Meeting.

The Women's Club held its first meeting in the Winona Hotel parlors yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Blaker, the president for 1905, presiding. The first few moments were spent informally in greeting old friends, making new ones and looking at the beautiful display of Japanese prints, shown by Mrs. Fletcher.

The president appointed a nominating committee, as follows: Mesdames Hackett, Cooper and Ewalt.

A vocal solo by Mrs. Edith Yarnelle Keegan was a pleasure to all present.

Mrs. Theodosia Van Doozer added to the laurels won at her Saturday evening recital by her original character impersonations in her selections, "Le Notaire Publique," by John William Drummond, and "Encouragement."

Miss Florence Flickinger, a guest of Mrs. H. H. Myers, played an instrumental selection.

The nominating committee reported the following officers: Miss Hoagland, president; Mrs. Blaker, vice president, and Mrs. P. Zartmann, secretary. Miss Hoagland in a few words explained the methods of the Women's Club. There was a large attendance.

WINONA PARK FLOWERS

Floral Beauty One Will Find Under the Trees and Along the Walks
Arouses Admiration.

Winona Park its flowers and beautiful stretches of picturesque landscapes, affords great pleasure to all who visit the grounds at this season of the year. On entering the Park one is greeted by the song of birds, and the sight of restful lawns expanding into distance and finally hidden from view among the trees and shrubbery. The finishing touch to this living picture or landscape is added by the flowers.

Winding among the trees and shrubs, on all sides flowering and foliage plants are seen. On reaching the Dukes fountain the surrounding beds of King Humbert cannas, Caladium Esculentum, geraniums and colons of various colors give color and tone to the scene.

Along the walls on either side, are rustic vases filled with blooming plants and drooping vines. Soon the lily pond comes into view, and with its island gay with flowers, and the pure white statue of youthful confidence and hope eagerly setting forth to run life's race, the scene is one that arouses the admiration of a visitor. A border of beautiful blooming hardy plants around the pond attracts much interest.

Just east of the pond a magnificent design bed 165 feet long and 20 feet wide, containing 7,000 plants, displaying the artistic handiwork of the landscape gardener, C. A. Doswell, attracts the eye. Surrounding a large pandanus a great variety of plants are brought into service, among them several varieties of coleus, one coleus of a deep red, dotted with light, is a seedling originated at the Winona greenhouse and has proved to be a fine bedder and can be placed among the best varieties. It is named the E. J. Hollister, in honor of Prof. Hollister, of the Agricultural Institute.

Other plants are the blue ageratum, white centaurea, variegated stevia, geranium, begonia vernow, alternanthera, achyranthes, santolina, sedum, echeveria pennisetum and elymus arenarius.

Many other design beds and beds of tropical plants add to the attraction and restful beauty of Winona Park.

Judge Conner's Birthday.

Judge Conner, of Wabash, celebrated on yesterday his 87th birthday. A dinner party was given at his Winona home in honor of the occasion. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Conner, H. H. Conner, J. D. Conner, Jr., Mrs. Hugh Conner and baby, the latter being a great-grandchild of Judge Conner. Rev. Charles and Mrs. Little were also among the guests.

LARGER TENT IS NEEDED.

Dogs, Ponies and Monkeys Played to Large Crowds Yesterday.

Schepp's ponies, dogs and monkeys would have been seen by more people yesterday afternoon and last evening if they had given their entertaining performance in a larger tent. The big "white top" near Duke's fountain was packed to the limit yesterday afternoon by children both old and young in years and all young in heart. The animals, which appear in a roped ring, do many clever turns and show not only careful training, but an unusual degree of animal intelligence. Among the children it is one of the most popular diversions ever given at Winona Park. Two performances a day, at 4 and 7:30 p. m., will be given the rest of the week.

Next week Eph Thompson and his trained elephants come to Winona to stay two weeks.

Miss Angell in Concert.

Miss Mary Angell, of Chicago, and the Rogers' orchestra combined their talent last night in giving a concert which drew many visitors to Winona Lake from Warsaw and the music lover from the Park, the audience being a large and enthusiastic one. In her first piano number, Chopin's "Funeral March," Miss Angell made it evident that she is an artist who is highly capable from a technical viewpoint and that she has musical temperament to support it. She demonstrated it again when she gave Liszt's "Twelfth Rhapsody," and the audience, evidently in the humor for an unusual program, gave hearty approval to her efforts.

The orchestra has not undertaken such a pretentious program as that of last evening and the players gave fresh evidence of their skill in this broader opportunity.

This is the first engagement of Miss Angell at Winona Assembly, and her last concert will be on Saturday afternoon.

Chapman Family Reunion.

At Tippecanoe lake yesterday the Chapman family held a reunion. They took dinner at the hotel, and spent part of the day fishing. Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. J. Wilbur Chapman, Miss Chapman, J. Wilbur Chapman, Jr., Agnes and Hamilton Chapman, Mrs. Charles Chapman, Elizabeth Chapman, Charles Chapman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Chapman, Miss Esther Chapman, Ned and Arthur Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. DuBois and son Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Zartmann, Mr. and Mrs. C. Allen, Misses Ritchie, Hale, Willis and Irma Taylor, C. H. Marsh, A. Widaman, T. Frazer and B. Elliott.

Warsaw Defeated Albion.

The fans of Warsaw saw a good game of baseball at Warsaw yesterday. Until the seventh the score stood 1 to 1, then Warsaw took a batting rally and won handily by 6 to 1.

Dr. Corbett Could Not Speak Right
One to the Celestials in Pittsburg.

Dr. Hunter Corbett, who was at Winona Lake last week, and whose daughters are at the lake, went from Winona to Pittsburg, and the Gazette-Times of that city gives the following of an experience he had while there:

Familiar with nearly a dozen different Chinese dialects and able to travel over two thirds of the vast kingdom of China and make himself understood, the Rev. Hunter Corbett, veteran missionary to that country and Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, found himself non-plussed among the Chinese of Pittsburg.

Dr. Corbett came to this city to officiate yesterday at the Second Presbyterian church, and it was announced that, in connection with his visit, he would address a meeting of the local Chinese in their native tongue. The announcement caused a decided stir among the members of the colony, and the outpouring to hear the distinguished speaker was large.

But after the congregation had gathered it was discovered that the local "boys" all hail from the district in and about the city of Canton, where a peculiar dialect obtains and one with which the venerable missionary is not at all familiar. He expressed the keenest disappointment over the fact and remarked that he might have made his way over two thirds of China without having encountered the difficulty found in Pittsburg. He explained that in each province of China a different dialect prevails, and that so greatly do these differ that sometimes people living within a few miles of each other cannot understand their neighbors' tongue.

Dr. Corbett occupied the pulpit of the Second church at both the morning and evening services and made a brief evangelistic address in the afternoon at West View park. Large congregations were present and many old friends of Dr. Corbett came from a distance to greet him. He spent part of yesterday with his brother-in-law, Col. Levi Duff, of Allegheny, and left early this morning for Hastings, Ont., where he will join his wife and family for a month's rest.

Lowest Golf Score.

Quite a number of golfers are playing on the links this week. The low score for the year so far was turned in by Dr. Dickey, a forty-five. This is close to his record and that of the course, held by Diddel, showing the good condition of the links so early in the season. The first tournament of 1906 will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The prizes will be balls.

THE WINONA SCHEDULE.

Baseball League Will Play

Social Club Privileges.

Since some of the members of the Social and Athletic Club do not desire to play golf the management has decided to make two sets of terms to young men and women. Those who wish to use the tennis courts and enjoy the social privileges of the rooms may do so for $1 for the season, or 25 cents a week. If golf is desired in addition the rates are $2.50 for the season or 50 cents a week. If any have made other arrangements for tennis and golf the social privileges of the club will be made available to them at a low rate upon application at the club room.

The indications are for a large membership and many delightful functions. The attractive rooms with the piano, games and social diversions and the opportunities to meet pleasant people from the various sections of the country is meeting with warm and appreciative approval.

Thursday Night Praise Service.

The Thursday evening praise service, held at the auditorium under the leadership of Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, has become one of the strong features of summer affairs at Winona Lake, and since the first one was held this season the attendance has been large and the interest keen. Prof. Excell's chorus is swiging into its work, although the number of singers is large and it is thought that the chorus for religious affairs will reach the high number that was predicted. The doors of the auditorium will be closed at 7:15 tonight, when Dr. Chapman begins to speak, and it is, therefore, important that those desiring to attend the praise service arrive before that time.

Two New Buildings.

The new Sunday School building which is being erected will have a seating capacity of 500 and is to be called the Raikes Hall, in honor of Robert Raikes, of England, the reputed founder of the Sunday School.

The building will be finished in time for the meeting of the International Training School of Sunday School workers, who will hold their meetings at Winona the week of August 9.

The new Bible School Hall on the Island will be ready for occupancy tomorrow. All the classes of the Bible School will meet in the new hall.
