MEETINGS ON HILLSIDE

Training School for Temperance Workers Having Successful Week—Speakers Heard Yesterday.

The Training School for Temperance Workers, under the direction of the Anti-Saloon League of Indiana, is having a successful week at Winona Lake. The officers of the League are gratified over the attendance and the interest.

J. F. Lewis, attorney for the Anti-Saloon League of Indiana, spoke on "Our Laws" at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. These morning and afternoon sessions of the Temperance School are now held on the hillside, and are full of interest to the casual hearer as well as the student of temperance. In the session of yesterday morning Mr. Lewis told of the constant violations of the laws of the state by the saloons. Eighteen hours a day they are allowed to be open by the laws of the state, but the saloon men insist on twenty-four. At a recent meeting of the saloon men, one of their number said: "The best way to increase our business is to create an appetite for drink in the young. Every five cents spent in treating the boys comes back to the till in dollars."

There is a growing practice in Indiana, in localities where the temperance laws have been enforced, to make the cause unpopular by arresting boot-blacks, newsboys, street car motormen and all who do any work on Sunday. Mr. Lewis says the people must retain their confidence in the judiciary. If the judiciary department fail the people as the executive department has done, violence and open violation of the laws of the city and state will win out.

The people must be educated up to the point of prohibition. They must be prepared for the struggle and know how to hold on to victory when it comes, the speaker said. Mr. Lewis is anticipating an open attack in the next legislature on the Moore amendment. The only way the officers of the League will succeed is in the undivided backing and sympathy of the people. If officers fail to do their duty, there is a remedy. The people must know what a privilege is theirs, and if a certain official is weak they must inject a little backbone into him. If the official is willfully negligent, it is the people's privilege to enforce the law. In the new law all dangers of costs to the signers of remonstrances is removed.

Rev. George W. Young, of Louisville, Ky., is well named the "Henry Clay of Temperance." His address of yesterday afternoon was a brilliant presentation of "The Political Aspects of the Saloon Problem." Dr. Young not only held his audience, but doubled its size by the number drawn to the hillside by the humor and wit of the speaker and the oratory of his full rounded periods. Dr. Young spoke of the strength of the saloon element and how this strength was always used against raising the standard of the American character. No great leader of the liquor traffic ization with organization; brains with for a Christian purpose. Now the brains. The press and pulpit must join forces with the organization and be not only a mirror of public opinion, but a pathfinder. The saloon marked its own downfall when it went into politics. In the last legislature there were 39 bills bearing on the saloon question introduced. All but one of these were introduced by the League and its friends and supporters.

Dr. Young closed his stirring address by a vivid description of the struggle for local option in his own state of Kentucky.

Rev. P. A. Baker spoke last evening on "The Anti-Saloon League; Its Purposes and Methods."

was ever known to urge men to be loyal to their country or to cultivate higher citizenship.

It is the function of the church of Christ to use its wonderful power in carrying out temperance reforms. To change the trend of thought of a community is a great thing, and this is the duty of the church. Through her influence the saloon must be made unpopular. Those who criticize the church going into politics must remember that the church and the preacher have just as much right to help select city, state and national officers as they have to select church officers, the speaker said. The saloon is organized for selfish purposes, but the Anti-Saloon League is organized temperance people are meeting organ-

College Girls' Evening.

The Western College Girls of Winona are combining their efforts to raise money for the $250,000 endowment fund now being raised. The Western College is an interdenominational institution and the girls ask the patronage of all of their friends on a steamboat ride that will be given to night on the City of Warsaw. The ride will cost ten cents. Refreshments will be sold at a small price. Good music is assured, as well as a most enjoyable time.

The girls of the college will meet with Miss Hill at the Outlook cottage at 10 a. m. today further to arrange for the evening's affairs.

FIGURES ON AN INCREASE

School Enrollment Shows Large Gain Over Other Years—Work of the Teachers.

The Winona Summer Schools are rolling up figures that overreach the enrollment of other years. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the total number was 583, against 306 for the corresponding period last year, a gain of 277. These figures do not include over fifty students who are at the Biological Station of Indiana University at the lower end of Winona lake. The enrollment has not closed by any means, and perhaps double the present number of names will be taken by Registrar G. W. Worley before the schools close on August 18. There will be enrollments, he said, up to the last week.

Beginning on next Monday morning, Mrs. Jennie Ray Ormsby will begin a course in public school gymnastics, the hour being from 7:30 to 8:10. The tuition will be four dollars for four weeks. Miss Daisy A. Dean will next week begin special courses in domestic science, her topic for the first week being salads.

Prof. Parkhill, of Lennox College, will this morning organize a class in logic, for which students may enroll at the registrar's office in the Administration building.

Mrs. Eliza A. Blaker's department of kindergarten and primary work continues to lead the others in the number of students. The school teachers who are taking instruction in this department say they are obtaining highly beneficial results and some of them say they are anxious for the fall schools to open that they may put into practice what they are learning in the schools at Winona Lake. Mrs. Blaker says she has never worked with students who are so enthusiastic and so eager as those who are here this summer. Mrs. Blaker's first lecture is not until 8:30 a. m., but she frequently begins half an hour earlier, for her students see her starting for the school room and follow her in such numbers that she always has an audience at an early hour.

The department of manual work is very interesting, the teachers being taught basketry, clay modeling, construction in wood and paper, painting and drawing.

In her work in the Mount Memorial building. Mrs. Blaker is assisted by Misses Flora Torrence, Winifred Dean, Charlotte Gardiner and Grace Nourse.

A "model school" belonging to this department is under Misses May Eckman and Anna Fuller. It is an observation school for the benefit of primary teachers.

Down at Science Hall is where the little folks are in the practical working kindergarten. Over seventy joyful-faced children respond to the notes of the piano. Miss Pearl Armstrong has been the head of this department for five years, and she is assisted by Miss Lulu Schien and several other workers. Here from 9 to 11:30 each morning the little people lead an ideal drill life.

Another feature of Mrs. Blaker's work is the play ground. This is a new idea of the school and is under the direction of Miss Julia Gregg. Here each afternoon the little ones are left by the mothers, they being free to enjoy the attractions of Winona knowing that their little ones will be watched and directed in even a more interesting way than the mother herself could do.

"VOICES OF THE NIGHT."

Love Songs of Birds and Other Sounds of Nature Discussed by Prof. S. C. Schmucker.

Prof. S. C. Schmucker's convocation lecture of yesterday was one of the best of the interesting series he is now delivering at Winona.

"The result of all nature study," says Prof. Schmucker, "is not information alone, but it is the acquiring of the spirit or attitude of nature."

Prof. Schmucker says he is distinctly eye-minded and the sounds of the night appeal to him when he cannot see. There are many voices in nature that the human ear cannot understand. The nighthawk is a bird of the night, and following it comes the whip-poor-will with its plaintive cry. Almost all the voice of nature is the song of love. The birds of night sing over again and again these love calls that charm the mate that is to be won.

Prof. Schmucker says frogs legs are good to eat, but the music of the frog's voice is more to him than the delicacy of the flesh, and he has breathed many a prayer for the safety of the old fellow who sat near his tent door all summer.

A beautiful picture of camp life with all its enjoyments was given by Prof. Schmucker. As he sat at his tent door, all nature told him her secrets and Prof. Schmucker told to his audience the beautiful secrets that he learned from these little winged creatures of the night.

One night Prof. Schmucker left his tent and went to a bridge alone, where he spent a night in all the beauty and grandeur of the solitude of nature, with the great heaven overhead.

Prof. Schmucker made a strong plea that there be more study of the heavens. They will repay the hardest of study in the wonders they unfold. Look more at the heavens, and especially look at them when one feels lonesome, for there one will always find the guiding hand of God.

To get away from one's self, see a thunderstorm in all its force. It thrills as nothing else in nature can and teaches the great truth that God is over all to protect and care for His children.

EVERYBODY HIT THE BALL.

Winona Team Fairly Ran Away With Players From Monroeville.

Monroeville made six runs yesterday, enough to win any ordinary game of ball, but Winona went them seventeen better. A couple of years ago the visitors took the home team into camp and yesterday things evened up with a vengeance. Diddel and Sunday were back in the game and the line-up looked quite different. They celebrated their return by a couple of beautiful three-baggers which set the ball to rolling. Enyert, who came over from Warsaw to help out, managed to make four runs and four clean hits to aid in the general average. Winona started early with three tallies in the first and six in the second and kept up the good work as Monroeville succeeded in shutting out the "Little Red Men" in only one inning:

Score by innings:

Winona... 3 6 3 0 1 5 1 4 x—23 24 4
Monroeville 0 1 2 0 0 3 0 0 0—6 10 9

LOVE SONG OF PROPHETS

Book of Hosea Discussed at Yesterday's Bible Hour by Dr. W. W. White.

The book of Hosea was the study at the 11 o'clock Bible hour of yesterday when Dr. W. W. White was helpful in his suggestions and outlines.

A striking feature of the book is the historical references which are highly poetical and prophetic. The prophet Hosea, who was a contemporary of Isaiah and Micah, was a prophet to the north land.

Chapter 1 tells of a sad domestic experience, whether one believes this description to be literal or figurative, the force of the lesson remains the same.

Dr. White is inclined to believe the description literal and that Hosea had a wife who was untrue and that Hosea was in sympathy with God, whose figurative wife (the children of Israel) had proved untrue. There is a message about God's people with the birth of each of Hosea's three children.

The book of Hosea has been called "the love song of the prophets." In chapter 1 it is found that God can't dwell on his judgment, but swings about and tells of the blessings that are to come. Chapter 2 relates in figure God's domestic relations. One of the most beautiful passages in all the Bible is found at the close of this chapter. Chapter 3 shows the desolation of Israel. Chapter 4 contains two well known passages, the latter part picturing the utter immorality of the times.

Chapter 5 is striking for the frequent use of the word Ephraim. Chapter 6 contains a passage quoted by the Lord. Jesus shows that He was as familiar with the prophets as they were with the history of the early days. Chapter 7 is a comparison of Ephraim and shows force of comparisons. Chapter 8 tells of the idolatry and foreign alliances which were the cause of the downfall of the children of Israel.

In Hosea 9 the children of Israel are to be destroyed, while chapter 10 gives an account of the wickedness of the kings. In chapter 11 is a tender passage of a tender book. God is going to have his people in spite of their refusal to have Him. Jesus is but a revelation of God and the tenderness of Jesus is found in God.

Chapter 12 contains the reference to Jacob while in chapter 13 one finds the passage quoted by Paul on the resurrection. Chapter 14 deals with the restoration and the great festivity of the people when they turn to God.

Here one finds love and justice contrasted, but love is not excused at the expense of justice. The latter part of the book is hard to study. The visions have not much relationship to each other, but they teach clearly that a future is coming for God's people because of God's love.

The lesson today will be an outline study of the book of Isaiah, special attention being given to chapters seven to twelve. The day following a study of the second part of the book will be given, chapters forty to forty-eight being selected for special study.

ROSE IN MORNING TOILET

German Keeper Talks German and English to Big Elephant While He Applies Brush.

Rose, the two-ton elephant that heads Eph Thompson's herd of trained animals, received her morning toilet yesterday as she stood in a shed with three other elephants near the Winona livery. The keeper of Rose is a German, who while making her toilet talked English and in the tongue of the Fatherland to the big animal, and she seemed to understand one language about as readily as the other. The keeper made Rose ready for the day by using a quantity of water, a stiff scrubbing brush and a coarse file, such as a blacksmith uses on a horse's hoof. He went over the elephant's trunk with the brush, scrubbing every inch of the surface until white streaks appeared on the tough, black hide. He commanded Rose, sometimes in English and sometimes in German, to place a foot on the bottom of a wooden bucket, and then the trainer manicured her big toes with the file, cutting off the dirt, and polishing with the brush and water.

The big elephant seemed to enjoy her morning toilet, for she swung her trunk back and forth over the keeper's head in contentment, while the keeper kept at his task with diligence for about a half hour.

While Rose was getting ready for the afternoon and evening performances, the other elephants, with chains about their feet, stood in the shed weaving their bodies to and fro and awaiting their turn at the scrubbing brush and file.

The excursionists who came to Winona yesterday packed the tent where the elephants are spending two weeks, and another large crowd was present last night to see the animals in their numerous feats. Eph Thompson says that next week the elephants will have some new acts to present; that they have not given all their feats by any means.

SCIENCE IN THE HOME

Topic of Discussion by Miss Dean at Meeting of the Woman's Club in Bible School Pavilion.

The Woman's club met in the Bible School pavilion yesterday at 4 p. m. The reception committee was composed of the following: Mrs. E. A. K. Hackett, Mrs. W. S. Chipman, Mrs. William Sunday, Miss Esther Chapman, Mrs. W. W. Reed, Misses Grace and Gertrude Townley, Miss Florence Jones and Mrs. F. C. Tilden. The committee made the pavilion into a beautiful summer bower by the use of bunting, flags, rugs, flowers and Japanese lanterns. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Hoagland, who spoke of the aim and object of the club, and of the programs of the season. The general subject will be the "Making of the Home."

Yesterday's program dealt with domestic science. Next week "The Relation of the Home to Education" will be discussed with the following points in view: The kindergarten, the secondary, the higher and Bible study. At the weekly meetings following these subjects will be discussed: "The relation of the home to reading," "the relation of the home to amusements," and "Art in the home."

Yesterday's address was given by Miss Dean. Her subject being "Household Science," or "The Effect Domestic Science Has on the Home."

Miss Dean said: "The ideal place for a woman, of course, is in a home. Since this beautiful task of home makers has fallen to us, the whole situation has been studied and been experimented upon until it has become a wonderful science. The science of the home—domestic science—helps us to simplify our work by knowing the how and wherefore of doing things. As all things radiate from the homemaker, the atmosphere in each dwelling place is simply a reflection of her self."

"If, then, homes depend on us for this great refreshing power, is it not of vital importance for all housework to become a science in order that work which was once drudgery is now a joy because we do not try to do it blindly? The household duties can be so planned that every one can have a time to rest her body and use her mind."

"How can any woman who has worked hard all day and then not accomplished much for the amount of strength put into the work, be expected always to appear like a beautiful, refreshing breeze? Her body and mind are tired and she is discouraged."

"It is not always possible for us to live in well-arranged homes, but it is possible for every person building a home to have it convenient. I mean that by just a little study and some forethought thousands of steps can be saved daily for the little homemaker.

"From our earliest ancestors we know that the place where the family assembles to eat, whether it be around a fire like the Indians, or around a dining-room table, that is where the family should feel near to each other."

Miss Dean discussed the fondness children have for sweets, the kinds of food adults and children need, the liking of men for nourishing food, laundry work, and many other household questions.

Miss Bertha Chapman effectively sang "Four-Leaf Clover," and "She Stoops to Conquer." "Afterwhiles" and "Old-Fashioned Roses" were read by Mrs. Charlton Andrews.

THE PLUMSTEAD MONOLOGUES.

Two Appearances With Rogers' Band at Auditorium.

Ellsworth Plumstead appeared with the Rogers' Winona Band and Symphony Orchestra at the auditorium yesterday afternoon, when the monologist and musical program were warmly received by a large audience.

At the afternoon concert Mr. Plumstead gave a selection from Clarence Wilson, followed by one on "The Efficacy of Prayer." The latter was given with all the characteristic strength and pathos of the best poems by the poet, Paul Dunbar. Mr. Plumstead also gave Howard Fielding's story for children. The audience laughed heartily at the monologist's portrayal of the boy and his first mustard plaster.

Mr. Plumstead and the orchestra will give an entertainment at the auditorium this afternoon, and again on Friday.

With the trolley development now going on and the growth of Winona Lake as an all-year-round community this increase will be greatly accelerated. As a site for a home, summer and winter, Winona Lake offers unequalled advantages for those in sympathy with its environment. The Real Estate Department office in Administration Building will be pleased to show you about and explain further the advantages of such an investment.
